Taft Acts To Slash ERP Fund

Would Reduce Authorization By 1.3 Billions

Truman Asks More Stopgap Aid Funds

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) today introduced an amendment to slash the $5,300,000,000 authorization for European relief to $4,000,000,000.

Taft's single-handed sponsorship of the amendment came as a surprise. It has been indicated previously that it would be introduced by one or more of a GOP revisionist group, headed by Sen. Wherry (R-Neb).

His action came shortly after President Truman asked Congress for an additional $55,000,000 to help tide Western Europe over until the European recovery program is enacted.

At the same time he said it was a matter of "extreme urgency" that the $5,300,000,000 Marshall program itself be approved at the earliest possible moment.

The President's appeal came as Republican members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee gave serious thought to United States military backing for any country in the world which is threatened by Communist pressure.

This world-wide extension of the "Truman Doctrine"—which will be one year old tomorrow—was proposed at a meeting to seek quick action on the European recovery program (ERP) known as the Marshall Plan.

World Plan "Out The Window"

Chairman Eaton (R - NJ) said after a second meeting, however, that the world-wide aid plan is "out the window for right now."

But the group decided definitely to include military aid to China in the House bill—a step that has been urged by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and others. The administration has asked $570,000,000 for China in non-military assistance only.

Eaton said the aid bill will be divided into two sections:

One will cover "economic relief and assistance for Western Europe and China."

The other will provide for military aid to China, Greece and Turkey.

In the Senate a vote on the Taft amendment, which will provide the showdown test for the bill, is scheduled for tomorrow. ERP backers said they were confident the amendment would be defeated. Taft and the other sponsors of the amendment did not predict its success.

The background was one of open concern over the state of world affairs. "The world is on the verge of war," Rep. McDowell (R-Pa.) told the House in announcing he has changed his mind and will support a peacetime draft.

Senate Rejects Amendments

Mr. Truman told House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) in a letter asking stopgap aid, on top of the $522,000,000 voted for three Western European countries last December: "Events which have taken place

$4,700,000,000 Tax Cut Approved By Senate Group

Bill Slashes Rates, Increases Exemption

WASHINGTON, March 11—(INS)—The Senate Finance Committee tonight approved a 4.7 billion dollar income tax reduction bill and sent it to the Senate for certain passage.

The bill, which trims about one billion 800 million dollars in annual revenue from the House-approved tax cut bill would:

1. Cut income tax rates from 12.6 per cent on low income taxpayers down to five per cent on taxpayers with more than $136,719 of taxable income.

2. Increase personal income tax exemption from $500 to $600 for each taxpayer and dependent.

3. Permit married couples in all states to split their incomes to reduce taxes.

4. Give blind taxpayers and those over 65 a special exemption of $1,200 a year, and blind taxpayers over 65 an $1,800 exemption.

Retroactive To January 1

5. Extend to all states the splitting principle for state and gift taxes applicable to married couples which was in effect in the "community property states" prior to 1942.

The tax reductions would be retroactive to last January 1. New withholding tables providing for the reduced taxes would go into effect May 1.

The committee agreed on the revised tax-reduction bill after an all-day closed-door session during which a Democratic substitute to limit the tax cut to four billion dollars was defeated by straight party-line vote of 7 to 6. Vote on the final measure was 10 to 1.

Sen. Millikin (R) Colo., Finance Committee chairman, said the bill would be called up in the Senate next Tuesday or Wednesday, and should pass before the end of the week.

He declined to predict whether the bill would be approved by the two-thirds majority necessary to override an expected veto by President Truman, although he expressed confidence the vote in favor of the bill would be overwhelming.

Millikin said the main difference between the House and Senate bills was the trimming of the cut in in-

Easter Finery Due To Be Worn On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Members of Congress may have to display their Easter finery on Capitol Hill instead of going home.

House Majority Leader Halleck (R-Ind) broke the news to his colleagues today in these words:

"In view of certain matters of extreme importance which might be ready for floor action at that time, I can only say there can be no assurance of the traditional Easter recess."

The lawmakers usually take a week off during the Easter season.

Truman Will Not Offer Legislation On Race Program

Would Be Glad To Give Suggestions

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—President Truman said today that if Congress wants some suggestions from him on how to phrase civil rights legislation, he will be glad to oblige.

But he made clear at a news conference that he isn't going to submit any draft of a bill to carry out his race relations proposals. They have stirred many in the South to anger.

Mr. Truman explained that Congress never feels very happy about the executive branch of the government submitting detailed legislation. Then he added the remark about supplying suggestions if asked.

In another political phase of the news conference, the President opposed the tentative steps Secretary Anderson has made toward leaving the cabinet to run for the Senate from New Mexico.

To Meet With Anderson

He said he expects to see Anderson tomorrow. He told a questioner that he hopes Anderson will stay in the cabinet, that he would oppose his leaving. He said Anderson has done an excellent job.

Mr. Truman declined to expand on his own candidacy for President. He said he thought Democratic Chairman McGrath had stated the case thoroughly in announcing Monday that Mr. Truman would accept the nomination.

McGrath quoted him correctly, he added.

Meanwhile, Chairman McGrath said the party is under vicious attack, and must strike back hard.

He told a rally of Democratic leaders that critics have centered on President Truman and have "a super effort under way to discourage Democrats."

"It is being viciously pursued," he added.

McGrath's words at the closed door session were relayed to newsmen by Publicity Director John M. Redding. He said McGrath, in naming sources of opposition, was referring to Communists and Republicans, not southern Democrats.

McGrath Is Quoted

"He told them," Redding said, "that we are in the middle of a world crisis, a struggle for leadership, and the stakes are high. He told them to get out and tell the people about it and the attempts to discourage pary members."

Some southern political leaders are talking of pulling their delegations out of the convention if it nominates Mr. Truman on a platform backing his civil rights program.

An anti-Truman bill born of the civil rights argument may be approved by the Virginia General Assembly tomorrow. It would permit Virginia Democrats to hold back the state's 11 electoral votes as a negotiating tool for a stronger place in party councils.

CRASH HEROINE — Rubinie Pappan (above), 24-year-old WAVE from Pasadena, Calif., was credited with saving the lives of 14 passengers when a naval transport plane crashed and burned near Donaldsonville, La., yesterday. Survivors said Miss Pappan advised them to put on safety belts and remain calm. Two persons were injured.

But President Believes War Not Inevitable

Communism Blasted By Chief Executive

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) — President Truman declared today that his faith in the attainment of world peace has been somewhat shaken. But he said he still believes that peace can be achieved because the world can not afford the destruction of another war.

In one of the most sweeping denunciations he has ever voiced on Communism, Mr. Truman also told a news conference that the United States does not want a Communist government in China or anywhere else in the world.

With respect to China specifically, the President emphatically declared that American policy does not call for inclusion of any Communists in the Chinese government.

The United States would like the Chinese government to have a broader base, he said, but that means the inclusion of Chinese liberals, not Communists.

The Chief Executive discussed the world situation in response to a series of rapid-fire questions from reporters. These began when a newsman told the President that a year ago tomorrow he proclaimed the Truman Doctrine for helping free nations fight Soviet-Communist aggression. The President was asked whether that policy, first applied to Greece and Turkey, should now be expanded.

Part Of Foreign Policy

Mr. Truman said the policy does not need expansion. It is part of the foreign policy of the United States, he explained, and he considers that it is preliminary to the European recovery program.

If the recovery program is carried out promptly, he said, it can accomplish the aims (of holding the line against Communism) which the Truman Doctrine originally set forth.

When the President was asked whether the key word in that remark was the "promptly" he said that was correct.

Mr. Truman was then reminded that last December as on many previous occasions, he had expressed confidence in the eventual attainment of general world peace; did he still hold that same confidence?

The President's reply, although he immediately modified it, was probably the most pessimistic statement he has ever made publicly on the outlook for peace. His confidence, he said, has been somewhat shaken. He did not give the reasons for this. Then he added that he still believes the world can get peace because it must have it.

The world cannot afford the destruction of another world war, the Chief Executive emphatically asserted.

The question of American policy on China arose just 24 hours after Secretary of State Marshall discussed this at a news conference. Marshall said that the United States policy favoring a broadening of the base of the Chinese government still stands.

Restatement Is Issued

That policy was first announced formally in December, 1945, shortly before Marshall went to China to try to work out a plan by which the Chinese Communists would have a voice in the Chinese government and China thereby be unified.

Marshall was asked specifically yesterday whether broadening the Chinese government meant including the Chinese Communists. He was understood by some reporters to have replied yes, but that the trouble is that the Communists are

Secretary Of Old Czech Socialist Party Kills Self

Josef Herot Takes Life In Prison Cell

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 11 (AP)—District police at Moravska-Ostrava announced tonight that an official of a former anti-Communist Party had committed suicide in a jail cell.

Police said Josef Herot, local secretary of the National Socialist Party, took his life after confessing he participated in a plot against the government.

Following the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia two weeks ago, the National Socialist Party was purged of many old members and changed its name to the Czech Socialist Party. Police said Herot's confession involved high officials of the old party.

Herot died as black banners and tricolors flew at half staff throughout Czechoslovakia in memory of Jan Masaryk, the Foreign Minister, whose death plunge from his apartment window yesterday remained as big a mystery as ever.

Meanwhile, a smoothly-functioning Parliament, with 67 of its members absent, gave Premier Klement Gottwald the go-ahead signal on his Communist program and proceeded quickly to reorganize the Assembly into a Communist-controlled body.

The Parliament began by giving Gottwald a vote of confidence.

The unanimous vote was in effect approval of Gottwald's sweeping Communist program and signalled that his new "Popular Peoples Democracy" was in full motion along the road of other Communist states in Eastern Europe.

The deputies showed they knew how to vote. After two organizers of the Cominform, Communists Rudolf Slansky and Stefan Bastovansky, had spoken, Chairman Josef David called for the vote for the government.

Every hand was raised.

He called for opposing votes.

Not a hand was raised.

He called for a show of hands of those abstaining.

Not a hand.

Thus was approved, in effect, the program to nationalize every industry and enterprise employing more than 50 persons, to restrict individual land holdings to about 250 acres and distribute the rest to peasants, and cut taxes for workers, small shopkeepers and peasants.

World In Midst Of Great Crisis, Marshall Says

Cool Judgment Vital, Secretary Declares

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall said tonight "the world is in the midst of a great crisis, inflamed by propaganda, misunderstanding, anger and fear."

"At no time has it been so important for cool judgment," he told the Federal Council of Churches.

He said one measure which could be taken "affirmatively and immediately" was approval of the European recovery program.

Marshall praised the five-nation effort at Brussels to form a Western European union.

This, he said, "may be the first step to what has been the dream of many great minds troubled by the dangers of the existing uncoordinated situation."

Marshall's speech was prepared for delivery at a Washington Cathedral meeting with President Truman among the invited guests.

The church and the school, Marshall said, must play "a very important part" in coping with world problems.

"Prayer is one of the great means of keeping alive our belief in the ultimate triumph of the Christian principles which underlie our civilization," Marshall said.

"This faith in our ideals is particularly important when we are forced to be realistic in face of an extremely serious world situation."

Marshall said that virtually every current action of the United States "is misunderstood by some abroad."

"In the midst of this turmoil, complicated by the distractions of an election campaign, it is important to express one's feelings on the situation in moderate terms," Marshall said, adding:

"In the midst of this clamor of propaganda and some times reckless statements, I personally, in my responsibility as Secretary of State, have tried to keep a level head."

USSR Threatens Walkout On Palestine Conference If Jews, Arabs Take Part

U. S. Conciliation Hopes Are Dashed

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—Russia threatened today to walk out of four-power talks on Palestine if Jews and Arabs take part.

The Russian declaration at the third closed session of the four powers dashed American hopes for conciliation by bringing Jewish and Arab leaders into the consultations.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, said the views of the Jewish Agency for Palestine and the Arabs Higher Committee already were well known. He said he could not take part in any Big Four meeting to which they were invited.

Austin May Play Lone Hand

He made it clear that Ambassador Warren R. Austin, United States, personally could pursue conciliation efforts with the agency and the Arab Higher Committee and report the results to the other three powers.

But Gromyko stood by his previous declaration that conciliation has failed; that the United Nations plan to divide Palestine into Jewish and Arab countries should be carried out.

The delegates passed over the point without a final decision. They will meet again tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. (EST) at the French delegation offices.

At Lake Success, the Palestine Partition Commission hurriedly drew up answers to 10 questions asked by the Big Four. They will be considered tomorrow. The questions covered a wide range of problems connected with carrying out the plan.

Soviet Demand Rejected

In the Economic and Social Council at Lake Success, Russia's delegate, A. Amarutiunian, charged that the United States delegation is playing a "very ambiguous role" in relation to Palestine.

"Everyone knows what pressure the oil interests are exerting on the American government in this instance," he declared.

The Council rejected, 9 to 3, a Russian demand that the Council elect now three members of an economic board for Palestine. This board is to govern the proposed Arab-Jewish economic union in Palestine. The election was put off to the next council session, set for Geneva on July 19, less than two weeks before final British withdrawal from the Holy Land. The United States opposed election now.

$336 Paid By Man Who Ignored 48 Traffic Tickets

CHICAGO, March 11 (AP) — A salesman accused of ignoring 48 traffic tickets in six months paid a total of $336 fines today.

Bruce Beresford, 40, arrested a week ago, was fined $5 and $2 costs on each of 48 alleged violations by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Traffic Court. Given until today to obtain the money, Beresford brought it into Tarffic Court and counted it out without comment.

Stassen Outlines Farm Price Plan

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., March 11 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen tonight announced a farm price support policy aimed at giving the farmer "a complete fair share of the national income."

The former Minnesota governor described his farm price program in a city auditorium address here. He is beginning a three-day campaign for support in Nebraska's April 13 presidential preference primary.

He said the national administration's first objective should be "helping agriculture by indirect means to obtain a full 100 per cent of parity."

"This means that our export policy, utilization of agricultural products for new industrial uses, school lunches, better diets, economic storage and favorable financing would be directed to maintaining full parity and a complete fair share of the national income."

Besides this general objective, said the Minnesotan, the government should have a flexible program paying up to 90 per cent of parity in normal years and down to 70 per cent in years of bumper crops and an oversupply in the carryover.

Jerusalem Blast Claims 11 Lives

JERUSALEM, March 11 (AP) — An Arab who masked his attack behind a stolen American flag bombed the heavily-guarded Jewish Agency building today killing 11 persons and wounding nearly 100 others, an agency spokesman said.

Three of the dead were women.

Driving an automobile stolen approximately an hour earlier from the United States Consulate three blocks away, the attacker entered the agency compound, ignited the explosives and walked away.

Seconds later a terrific blast ripped into the walls of the two-story semicircular stone and concrete structure. Windows were shattered and ceilings brought down.

(Robert B. Macatee, United States Consul General in Jerusalem, informed the State Department in Washington that an Arab driver at the consulate had taken the car to run a short errand an hour before the blast.

(The unidentified person who drove the car into the agency compound was "in uniform with proper credentials," Macatee said. He added that neither the consulate driver nor whoever was operating the car when it entered the agency compound had been located.)

The spokesman for the Jewish Agency, the official organization for Palestine Jewry, said at a news conference:

"We are told that a car bearing the American flag and number plates of the United States Consulate drove into the courtyard just before the blast. The driver was said by the guards to be well known to them as one of the consulate drivers.

"Orders had been given that personnel and property of foreign consulates must be respected. For that reason the car was allowed in without the usual further check."

Kisses 'Em All

Scores Of Models "Mob" Gov. Folsom In New York

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Gov. James E. (Big Jim) Folsom, of Alabama, stalwartly withstood a crowd of 2,500 on Fifth Avenue today but succumbed to the charms of scores of beautiful girls who fought their way through the mob to his arms.

He kissed 'em all.

Traffic was blocked, police whistles shrilled and two photographers' cameras were smashed when the six-foot, eight-inch Governor stepped from a limousine to be feted by the Barbizon School of Fashion Modeling as "the nation's No. 1 Leap Year bachelor."

Eighty beautiful blondes, brunettes and redheads rushed out of the school toward the Governor as the crowd seethed around him.

Then the Gocernor of Alabama turned and kissed a surprised woman an reporter. Then he kissed another. A third bucked out of his arms.

Next came the models, arms outstretched, standing on tip-toe, willing to be kissed. One after another he picked up the girls lifted their faces and kissed them.

A reporter asked about Christine Putnam Johnston, pretty Hanceville, Ala., divorcee who has named him as her common-law husband and father of her 22-months-old son.

Big Jim didn't answer. He just turned to face another model and said: "How about this one here? Here's a gorgeous girl."

And he kissed her.

European Union Treaty Virtually Completed

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 11 (AP)—The delegates of France, Britain and the Benelux countries expect to put the finishing touches tomorrow to the completed draft of a pact binding them to united action for 50 years.

Except for the approval of two minor points and the formal signing, the dream of British Foreign Secretary Bevin and Belgian Premier Paul Henri Spaak of a Western European union balancing the eastern bloc is a reality.

The Luxembourg delegate, Pierre Elvinger, said he considered the treaty "completed for all practical purposes" and announced he was leaving for home tonight.

30 Children Survive Railroad Crossing Crash

GREENVILLE, Pa., March 11 (AP) — A Pennsylvania Railroad train crashed into a firemen's squad truck loaded with 30 terrified children today but all pupils escaped serious injury.

Elmer Reiter, assistant fire chief, suffered a fractured skull. Richard Tellers, pastor of St. Joseph's Church at Sharon, also was hospitalized, as was Thomas Reiter, 8-year-old son of the assistant chief.

A half-dozen children required treatment for cuts and bruises. Several of the children leaped just before the crash.

Columnist's Quotation Is Branded "Lie" By Truman

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—President Truman branded as "a lie out of the whole cloth" today a columnist's report that he once said New York Jews "were disloyal."

Mr. Truman volunteered his remarks at a news conference and authorized direct quotation. Usual news conference rules are that his remarks may not be put in direct quotes.

The President did not name the columnist he said had won "another liar's star." But Columnist Drew Pearson later ussued this statement:

"I regret to say that my quotation of the conversation between President Truman and the New York publisher was all too accurate, but I am glad the President has now reconsidered his intemperate words."

Reporters heard Mr. Truman say the column was published in a New York "gossip paper." He told them to read the New Cork Mirror to find out about it.

But the reference to "gossip" was deleted when the White House issued an official version of his remarks. This said:

"First, I want to pay attention to a vicious statement that was made by a columnist in a New York paper, in which he said, I had made that statement to an editor of a New York paper that the Jews in New York were disloyal.

"I had thought I wouldn't have to add another liar's star to that fellow's crown, but I will have to

Commodity Price Plunge Resumed

CHICAGO, March 11 (AP)—The high cost of living got another jolt today from skidding commodity prices. All grains, hogs, cocoa, rubber and burlap joined in the downturn.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 wholesale foodstuffs and industrial raw materials slipped .67 of a point to 185.10—lowest since last July 31. A week ago the index was 188.53, a month ago 187.78 and a year ago 182.53. The index uses 1926 prices as 100.

Wheat closed 1¼ to two cents a bushel lower on the Chicago Board of Trade. The May contract finished at $2.36½-32.37. Corn was two to 4¼ lower, oats dropped three-fourths to two cents and soybeans declined 3½ to four cents.

Hog prices were mostly 50 cents to $1 a hundred pounds lower at all Midwest markets. The maximum decline of $1.50 was wasted at Sioux City. At Chicago, prices were off 75 cents to $1.25.

Cotton for future delivery closed 85 cents a bale lower in New Orleans.

March Blizzard Races Eastward

KANSAS CITY, March 11. (AP)—The Midwest's worst March blizzard swept eastward tonight into Ohio and Pennsylvania, racing on the frigid blasts of one of the winter's most severe cold waves.

The snowstorm was seasonally unexpected. Spring is only nine days away.

It hit Cleveland in full force. Cars were stalled by the hundreds there in snow nearly seven inches deep. An appeal went out for volunteers at $1.18 an hour to help 1,000 city employes clear the streets of snowdrifts.

In other parts of Ohio the snow measured from six to 12 inches. Many highways in the state, particularly the east-west ones, were choked by drifts. Fremont and Sandusky County schools were closed because of the heavy snow. The East Ohio Gas Company stopped service to 600 industrial users.

A freak snow storm struck Chicago, leaving a blanket a foot deep in some parts of the south side lake front. Swirling snows swept into Pennsylvania from Ohio, moving across the northern section of the state. The snow was expected to spread over all of the state as high winds began to whip it about in drifts.

Six men, snowbound for three days in an isolated oil well shack in Central Kansas, made their way to Great Bend, Kas., this afternoon with the help of a farmer and a tractor. An Army heliocopter had been en route to rescue them.

McGrath's words at the closed door session were relayed to newsmen by Publicity Director John M. Redding. He said McGrath, in naming sources of opposition, was referring to Communists and Republicans, not southern Democrats.

McGrath Is Quoted

"He told them," Redding said, "that we are in the middle of a world crisis, a struggle for leadership, and the stakes are high. He told them to get out and tell the people about it and the attempts to discourage pary members."

Some southern political leaders are talking of pulling their delegations out of the convention if it nominates Mr. Truman on a platform backing his civil rights program.

An anti-Truman bill born of the civil rights argument may be approved by the Virginia General Assembly tomorrow. It would permit Virginia Democrats to hold back the state's 11 electoral votes as a negotiating tool for a stronger place in party councils.

CRASH HEROINE — Rubinie Pappan (above), 24-year-old WAVE from Pasadena, Calif., was credited with saving the lives of 14 passengers when a naval transport plane crashed and burned near Donaldsonville, La., yesterday. Survivors said Miss Pappan advised them to put on safety belts and remain calm. Two persons were injured.

But President Believes War Not Inevitable

Communism Blasted By Chief Executive

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) — President Truman declared today that his faith in the attainment of world peace has been somewhat shaken. But he said he still believes that peace can be achieved because the world can not afford the destruction of another war.

In one of the most sweeping denunciations he has ever voiced on Communism, Mr. Truman also told a news conference that the United States does not want a Communist government in China or anywhere else in the world.

With respect to China specifically, the President emphatically declared that American policy does not call for inclusion of any Communists in the Chinese government.

The United States would like the Chinese government to have a broader base, he said, but that means the inclusion of Chinese liberals, not Communists.

The Chief Executive discussed the world situation in response to a series of rapid-fire questions from reporters. These began when a newsman told the President that a year ago tomorrow he proclaimed the Truman Doctrine for helping free nations fight Soviet-Communist aggression. The President was asked whether that policy, first applied to Greece and Turkey, should now be expanded.

Part Of Foreign Policy

Mr. Truman said the policy does not need expansion. It is part of the foreign policy of the United States, he explained, and he considers that it is preliminary to the European recovery program.

If the recovery program is carried out promptly, he said, it can accomplish the aims (of holding the line against Communism) which the Truman Doctrine originally set forth.

When the President was asked whether the key word in that remark was the "promptly" he said that was correct.

Mr. Truman was then reminded that last December as on many previous occasions, he had expressed confidence in the eventual attainment of general world peace; did he still hold that same confidence?

The President's reply, although he immediately modified it, was probably the most pessimistic statement he has ever made publicly on the outlook for peace. His confidence, he said, has been somewhat shaken. He did not give the reasons for this. Then he added that he still believes the world can get peace because it must have it.

The world cannot afford the destruction of another world war, the Chief Executive emphatically asserted.

The question of American policy on China arose just 24 hours after Secretary of State Marshall discussed this at a news conference. Marshall said that the United States policy favoring a broadening of the base of the Chinese government still stands.

Restatement Is Issued

That policy was first announced formally in December, 1945, shortly before Marshall went to China to try to work out a plan by which the Chinese Communists would have a voice in the Chinese government and China thereby be unified.

Marshall was asked specifically yesterday whether broadening the Chinese government meant including the Chinese Communists. He was understood by some reporters to have replied yes, but that the trouble is that the Communists are

Josef Herot Takes Life In Prison Cell

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 11 (AP)—District police at Moravska-Ostrava announced tonight that an official of a former anti-Communist Party had committed suicide in a jail cell.

Police said Josef Herot, local secretary of the National Socialist Party, took his life after confessing he participated in a plot against the government.

Following the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia two weeks ago, the National Socialist Party was purged of many old members and changed its name to the Czech Socialist Party. Police said Herot's confession involved high officials of the old party.

Herot died as black banners and tricolors flew at half staff throughout Czechoslovakia in memory of Jan Masaryk, the Foreign Minister, whose death plunge from his apartment window yesterday remained as big a mystery as ever.

Meanwhile, a smoothly-functioning Parliament, with 67 of its members absent, gave Premier Klement Gottwald the go-ahead signal on his Communist program and proceeded quickly to reorganize the Assembly into a Communist-controlled body.

The Parliament began by giving Gottwald a vote of confidence.

The unanimous vote was in effect approval of Gottwald's sweeping Communist program and signalled that his new "Popular Peoples Democracy" was in full motion along the road of other Communist states in Eastern Europe.

The deputies showed they knew how to vote. After two organizers of the Cominform, Communists Rudolf Slansky and Stefan Bastovansky, had spoken, Chairman Josef David called for the vote for the government.

Every hand was raised.

He called for opposing votes.

Not a hand was raised.

He called for a show of hands of those abstaining.

Not a hand.

Thus was approved, in effect, the program to nationalize every industry and enterprise employing more than 50 persons, to restrict individual land holdings to about 250 acres and distribute the rest to peasants, and cut taxes for workers, small shopkeepers and peasants.

World In Midst Of Great Crisis, Marshall Says

Cool Judgment Vital, Secretary Declares

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall said tonight "the world is in the midst of a great crisis, inflamed by propaganda, misunderstanding, anger and fear."

"At no time has it been so important for cool judgment," he told the Federal Council of Churches.

He said one measure which could be taken "affirmatively and immediately" was approval of the European recovery program.

Marshall praised the five-nation effort at Brussels to form a Western European union.

This, he said, "may be the first step to what has been the dream of many great minds troubled by the dangers of the existing uncoordinated situation."

Marshall's speech was prepared for delivery at a Washington Cathedral meeting with President Truman among the invited guests.

The church and the school, Marshall said, must play "a very important part" in coping with world problems.

"Prayer is one of the great means of keeping alive our belief in the ultimate triumph of the Christian principles which underlie our civilization," Marshall said.

"This faith in our ideals is particularly important when we are forced to be realistic in face of an extremely serious world situation."

Marshall said that virtually every current action of the United States "is misunderstood by some abroad."

"In the midst of this turmoil, complicated by the distractions of an election campaign, it is important to express one's feelings on the situation in moderate terms," Marshall said, adding:

"In the midst of this clamor of propaganda and some times reckless statements, I personally, in my responsibility as Secretary of State, have tried to keep a level head."

USSR Threatens Walkout On Palestine Conference If Jews, Arabs Take Part

U. S. Conciliation Hopes Are Dashed

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—Russia threatened today to walk out of four-power talks on Palestine if Jews and Arabs take part.

The Russian declaration at the third closed session of the four powers dashed American hopes for conciliation by bringing Jewish and Arab leaders into the consultations.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, said the views of the Jewish Agency for Palestine and the Arabs Higher Committee already were well known. He said he could not take part in any Big Four meeting to which they were invited.

Austin May Play Lone Hand

He made it clear that Ambassador Warren R. Austin, United States, personally could pursue conciliation efforts with the agency and the Arab Higher Committee and report the results to the other three powers.

But Gromyko stood by his previous declaration that conciliation has failed; that the United Nations plan to divide Palestine into Jewish and Arab countries should be carried out.

The delegates passed over the point without a final decision. They will meet again tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. (EST) at the French delegation offices.

At Lake Success, the Palestine Partition Commission hurriedly drew up answers to 10 questions asked by the Big Four. They will be considered tomorrow. The questions covered a wide range of problems connected with carrying out the plan.

Soviet Demand Rejected

In the Economic and Social Council at Lake Success, Russia's delegate, A. Amarutiunian, charged that the United States delegation is playing a "very ambiguous role" in relation to Palestine.

"Everyone knows what pressure the oil interests are exerting on the American government in this instance," he declared.

The Council rejected, 9 to 3, a Russian demand that the Council elect now three members of an economic board for Palestine. This board is to govern the proposed Arab-Jewish economic union in Palestine. The election was put off to the next council session, set for Geneva on July 19, less than two weeks before final British withdrawal from the Holy Land. The United States opposed election now.

$336 Paid By Man Who Ignored 48 Traffic Tickets

CHICAGO, March 11 (AP) — A salesman accused of ignoring 48 traffic tickets in six months paid a total of $336 fines today.

Bruce Beresford, 40, arrested a week ago, was fined $5 and $2 costs on each of 48 alleged violations by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Traffic Court. Given until today to obtain the money, Beresford brought it into Tarffic Court and counted it out without comment.

Stassen Outlines Farm Price Plan

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., March 11 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen tonight announced a farm price support policy aimed at giving the farmer "a complete fair share of the national income."

The former Minnesota governor described his farm price program in a city auditorium address here. He is beginning a three-day campaign for support in Nebraska's April 13 presidential preference primary.

He said the national administration's first objective should be "helping agriculture by indirect means to obtain a full 100 per cent of parity."

"This means that our export policy, utilization of agricultural products for new industrial uses, school lunches, better diets, economic storage and favorable financing would be directed to maintaining full parity and a complete fair share of the national income."

Besides this general objective, said the Minnesotan, the government should have a flexible program paying up to 90 per cent of parity in normal years and down to 70 per cent in years of bumper crops and an oversupply in the carryover.

Commodity Price Plunge Resumed

CHICAGO, March 11 (AP)—The high cost of living got another jolt today from skidding commodity prices. All grains, hogs, cocoa, rubber and burlap joined in the downturn.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 wholesale foodstuffs and industrial raw materials slipped .67 of a point to 185.10—lowest since last July 31. A week ago the index was 188.53, a month ago 187.78 and a year ago 182.53. The index uses 1926 prices as 100.

Wheat closed 1¼ to two cents a bushel lower on the Chicago Board of Trade. The May contract finished at $2.36½-32.37. Corn was two to 4¼ lower, oats dropped three-fourths to two cents and soybeans declined 3½ to four cents.

Hog prices were mostly 50 cents to $1 a hundred pounds lower at all Midwest markets. The maximum decline of $1.50 was wasted at Sioux City. At Chicago, prices were off 75 cents to $1.25.

Cotton for future delivery closed 85 cents a bale lower in New Orleans.

New York stocks got off to a flying start but falling commodity prices dampened enthusiasm. At the close, advances and declines were fairly well mixed.

March Blizzard Races Eastward

KANSAS CITY, March 11. (AP)—The Midwest's worst March blizzard swept eastward tonight into Ohio and Pennsylvania, racing on the frigid blasts of one of the winter's most severe cold waves.

The snowstorm was seasonally unexpected. Spring is only nine days away.

It hit Cleveland in full force. Cars were stalled by the hundreds there in snow nearly seven inches deep. An appeal went out for volunteers at $1.18 an hour to help 1,000 city employes clear the streets of snowdrifts.

In other parts of Ohio the snow measured from six to 12 inches. Many highways in the state, particularly the east-west ones, were choked by drifts. Fremont and Sandusky County schools were closed because of the heavy snow. The East Ohio Gas Company stopped service to 600 industrial users.

A freak snow storm struck Chicago, leaving a blanket a foot deep in some parts of the south side lake front. Swirling snows swept into Pennsylvania from Ohio, moving across the northern section of the state. The snow was expected to spread over all of the state as high winds began to whip it about in drifts.

Six men, snowbound for three days in an isolated oil well shack in Central Kansas, made their way to Great Bend, Kas., this afternoon with the help of a farmer and a tractor. An Army helicopter had been en route to rescue them.

Jerusalem Blast Claims 11 Lives

JERUSALEM, March 11 (AP) — An Arab who masked his attack behind a stolen American flag bombed the heavily-guarded Jewish Agency building today killing 11 persons and wounding nearly 100 others, an agency spokesman said.

Three of the dead were women.

Driving an automobile stolen approximately an hour earlier from the United States Consulate three blocks away, the attacker entered the agency compound, ignited the explosives and walked away.

Seconds later a terrific blast ripped into the walls of the two-story semicircular stone and concrete structure. Windows were shattered and ceilings brought down.

(Robert B. Macatee, United States Consul General in Jerusalem, informed the State Department in Washington that an Arab driver at the consulate had taken the car to run a short errand an hour before the blast.

(The unidentified person who drove the car into the agency compound was "in uniform with proper credentials," Macatee said. He added that neither the consulate driver nor whoever was operating the car when it entered the agency compound had been located.)

The spokesman for the Jewish Agency, the official organization for Palestine Jewry, said at a news conference:

"We are told that a car bearing the American flag and number plates of the United States Consulate drove into the courtyard just before the blast. The driver was said by the guards to be well known to them as one of the consulate drivers.

"Orders had been given that personnel and property of foreign consulates must be respected. For that reason the car was allowed in without the usual further check."

Scores Of Models "Mob" Gov. Folsom In New York

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Gov. James E. (Big Jim) Folsom, of Alabama, stalwartly withstood a crowd of 2,500 on Fifth Avenue today but succumbed to the charms of scores of beautiful girls who fought their way through the mob to his arms.

He kissed 'em all.

Traffic was blocked, police whistles shrilled and two photographers' cameras were smashed when the six-foot, eight-inch Governor stepped from a limousine to be feted by the Barbizon School of Fashion Modeling as "the nation's No. 1 Leap Year bachelor."

Eighty beautiful blondes, brunettes and redheads rushed out of the school toward the Governor as the crowd seethed around him.

Then the Gocernor of Alabama turned and kissed a surprised woman reporter. Then he kissed another. A third bucked out of his arms.

Next came the models, arms outstretched, standing on tip-toe, willing to be kissed. One after another he picked up the girls lifted their faces and kissed them.

A reporter asked about Christine Putnam Johnston, pretty Hanceville, Ala., divorcee who has named him as her common-law husband and father of her 22-months-old son.

Big Jim didn't answer. He just turned to face another model and said: "How about this one here? Here's a gorgeous girl."

And he kissed her.

European Union Treaty Virtually Completed

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 11 (AP)—The delegates of France, Britain and the Benelux countries expect to put the finishing touches tomorrow to the completed draft of a pact binding them to united action for 50 years.

Except for the approval of two minor points and the formal signing, the dream of British Foreign Secretary Bevin and Belgian Premier Paul Henri Spaak of a Western European union balancing the eastern bloc is a reality.

The Luxembourg delegate, Pierre Elvinger, said he considered the treaty "completed for all practical purposes" and announced he was leaving for home tonight.

30 Children Survive Railroad Crossing Crash

GREENVILLE, Pa., March 11 (AP) — A Pennsylvania Railroad train crashed into a firemen's squad truck loaded with 30 terrified children today but all pupils escaped serious injury.

Elmer Reiter, assistant fire chief, suffered a fractured skull. Richard Tellers, pastor of St. Joseph's Church at Sharon, also was hospitalized, as was Thomas Reiter, 8-year-old son of the assistant chief.

A half-dozen children required treatment for cuts and bruises. Several of the children leaped just before the crash.

Columnist's Quotation Is Branded "Lie" By Truman

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—President Truman branded as "a lie out of the whole cloth" today a columnist's report that he once said New York Jews "were disloyal."

Mr. Truman volunteered his remarks at a news conference and authorized direct quotation. Usual news conference rules are that his remarks may not be put in direct quotes.

The President did not name the columnist he said had won "another liar's star." But Columnist Drew Pearson later ussued this statement:

"I regret to say that my quotation of the conversation between President Truman and the New York publisher was all too accurate, but I am glad the President has now reconsidered his intemperate words."

Reporters heard Mr. Truman say the column was published in a New York "gossip paper." He told them to read the New Cork Mirror to find out about it.

But the reference to "gossip" was deleted when the White House issued an official version of his remarks. This said:

"First, I want to pay attention to a vicious statement that was made by a columnist in a New York paper, in which he said, I had made that statement to an editor of a New York paper that the Jews in New York were disloyal.

"I had thought I wouldn't have to add another liar's star to that fellow's crown, but I will have to

Maryland Information Department Will Open Annapolis Office Soon

BALTIMORE, March 11 — (AP) — Maryland state departments will receive a new addition in three to four weeks.

That's when the Maryland Information Department is expected to open its office in the Court of Appeals building, Annapolis.

The Board of Public Works, which called it into being, has earmarked $20,000 for its operation during the present fiscal year. That budget is considered temporary.

There has been no announcement regarding the director of the department, but it is understood that he has already been selected. A stenographer-secretary, picked by him, will complete the staff for the time being.

A salary of $5,000 for the director is provided in the department's budget.

Its chief function at first will be answering the numerous inquiries regarding Maryland.

In the last year, the State Hall of Records alone has received 1,000 letters, seeking information on various phases of state government, business and sports.

The department will direct letters seeking specialized information to agencies best qualified to answer them. It will also co-operate with Chambers of Commerce.

Advertising the state's vacation spots and similar work will not, as such, form part of the department's first-year program.

The very first task to be tackled by the department director will be an analysis of recent and incoming letters according to topics. Where frequency warrants, special pamphlets will be printed to deal with such questions.

Cosmetics Manufacturer Injured In Plane Crash

OXFORD, Pa., March 11 (AP)—A New York cosmetics manufacturer was injured seriously today in the crash of his plane on a fog-shrouded farm field near here.

Maurice B. Handman, 40, president of Maurella Products of New York, was taken to West Grove Hospital with a possible skull fracture and chest injuries. He was alone in the craft.

Woman Who Induced Girl To Set Fires Sentenced

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 11 (AP)—Mrs. Helen J. Lock, 42, Jessup, was taken to the State Reformatory for Women tonight to begin a 10-year sentence resulting from her conviction involving three fires.

She was given the sentence to run concurrently with two two-year terms for inducing an 11-year-old girl to set fire to a neighbor's house.

Judge James Clark, passing sentence in Anne Arundel County Court, said, "There is no doubt whatsoever of Mrs. Lock's guilt."

The state charged that at Mrs. Lock's request little Louise Morrison set fire to the home of Mrs. Rose Sellner at Jessup. The first time the house was destroyed. The second and third times, the house was damaged while it was being rebuilt.

Contest For Presidency Takes On Additional Form

With the announcements of President Truman and General MacArthur that they are willing to run, the contest for the presidency takes on additional form.

There never was much doubt about Truman. There was a period following the election of 1946 when he showed considerable indifference to his political fortunes. That was the period, by the way, in which he made his one great gain in popularity. Then he began to think of re-election again and thought of it so hard that he got all tangled up in his own vote-getting enterprises. All our Presidents play politics more or less, but Harry Truman in recent months has played them to an extreme fashion. After all, he is President of the United States and he ought to think of that job first.

General MacArthur has a very different sort of record. We don't know how good a candidate or how good a President he would be any more than we know how good any one of the other candidates would be. He has had a magnificent career as a soldier and his duties as supreme commander of our occupational forces in Japan has provided the opportunity to exercise his executive ability for the whole country to observe.

He has handled himself with dignity and there is no doubt in the world as to his devotion to American institutions. His views on many issues are matters of record. He has shown foresight insofar as military problems are concerned. He has exhibited a wide knowledge of affairs both nationally and internationally, and we venture to say he is more familiar with domestic issues in America than some are willing to give him credit for. Senator Vandenberg who is being listed as a "dark horse" for the presidential nomination, in the event that Taft and Dewey erase each other in convention, long ago recognized MacArthur as presidential timber, and said so in no uncertain terms in a widely read magazine article.

That General MacArthur is held in the highest esteem by the American people is undisputed.

Pact on Unification of German Area Significant

A sense of emergency is gripping the democratic world. It is evident in the speed with which Great Britain, France and the Benelux countries are approaching the creation of a western union. It is highlighted by the sudden agreement in principle between the United States, France and Great Britain for unification of western Germany and the internationalization of the Ruhr. It is emphasized by the call of General de Gaulle for American military support for Europe, and echo of the Ball proposal in Washington.

The agreement on the unification of western Germany is very significant. For months the three powers have wrangled over the problem, with France insisting on conditions which the United States and Great Britain could not accept. Now, significantly, the difficulties are about to be ironed out.

The decision will be better for the world and for Germany. The confusion of Bizonia will end. From it should emerge a stronger Germany, with a measure of self-rule, better able to resist the pressure from the Russian zone.

Democratic Europe has awakened to the desperate urgency of action. The Red grab in Czechoslovakia and the demands made on tottering Finland have brought forth response. Gen. de Gaulle's Joan-of-Arc-like offer to come to the aid of his country, while it sounds egotistical, is part of the scheme. It is a reassertion of the strength of the right when confronted by aggression from the left.

The time may not be ripe yet for military alliances, with the United States participating. But the fact that responsible Americans are calling for that, and others are demanding a warning that this country will go to war should Russia take over one more nation, emphasize the danger of the situation. Positive action is needed. There is still hope, as expressed by Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of Poland during a series of lectures in this country, that political action alone will be sufficient to save the world from disaster.

It is asserted 20 per cent of Americans are more or less crazy, not including those who are in love for the first time or those who write songs about them.

The Taft-Hartley Law and Harry Bridges

Maybe the following is one of the reasons why the labor "bosses" hate the Taft-Hartley act:

Harry Bridges has become the second man in high position in the CIO to be "purged" because of his political beliefs.

Lest any of the CIO's rank and file feel they are not free to express their political beliefs, if those beliefs happen to differ with their union chiefs, may we point out that there is where the new labor act comes into play.

The law protects the rank and file from any such discrimination. If you are a member of a union, your leaders cannot have you purged with intent to force you from your job for your political beliefs, because the act says:

It would be unfair labor practice by a union "to cause or attempt to cause an employer to discriminate against an employe . . . or to discriminate against an employe with respect to whom membership in such organization has been denied or terminated on some ground other than his failure to tender the periodic dues and the initiation fees uniformly required as a condition of acquiring or retaining membership."

So long as the rank and file continues to offer periodic dues, then, they cannot be fired because they happen to have different political opinions than their union "bosses."

Too bad Lee Pressman and Harry Bridges didn't have the protection of the act.

Scientists still are trying to discover if Mars is populated. And we can't get along with all the people on our own planet.

Confiscatory taxation with representation also is unbearable, this generation is discovering.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Rest and Exercise In Arthritis

Simple rest in the treatment of arthritis is being emphasized more than ever. This is easy to do when pain is marked but becomes difficult after improvement begins. It is here that many sufferers make their first mistake because, if they get up too soon, symptoms return.

Dr. Van Dellen

The amount of rest depends upon the severity of the disease. In mild cases, a reduction in general activity may be sufficient but every arthritic should spend at least ten hours in bed at night and, if possible, two periods of an hour each during the day. In the acute phase as well as during flare-ups, complete bed rest is advised.

The purpose of this form of therapy is not only to give the hot, sore joints a break but to build up the resistance of the body against the ravages of the disease. This means the avoidance of fatigue rather than immobilization of the "hinges." If these structures are kept in one position too long, stiffness and wasting of the muscles may result.

To overcome such handicaps, daily systematic exercises are recommended but they should not be done too enthusiastically or vigorously. Help is often required during the early stages. The knee, for example, may be bent to the point of distress but if intensified pain persists for more than two hours after the maneuver, it is doing more harm than good. On the other hand, by increasing the procedure a little each day, it is surprising how quickly stiffness can be eliminated.

During the period of inactivity, exercises can be performed to accomplish a useful propose. This is the basis of occupational therapy. Individuals with arthritic hands can sew, build wooden objects, draw, write, or use modeling clay. Thus not only is exercise provided but the patient feels less dependent and helpless. This is an important factor in cure because freedom from anxiety is a valuable part of treatment.

The proper use of heat and massage also works wonders and a suitable home routine can be arranged. Heat is heat whether it is obtained from an electric pad, hot water bottle, infra-red lamp, baker, paraffin baths, or diathermy except that the first penetrates least and the last, is the deepest. Many receive just as much benefit from the simplest equipment as the most elaborate. Care must be taken not to burn the skin and, to prevent mottling, a layer of cream or petroleum jelly may be applied to the surface, will prevent mottling.

Light massage over the muscles, stroking toward the heart, aids circulation and affords relaxation. The joints should not be rubbed especially if inflamed or swollen. Electrical stimulation is inadvisable in rheumatoid arthritis but sometimes under-water exercises in a tank prove valuable.

MORNING NAUESA

Mrs. W. M. writes: When my 8 year old daughter wakens in the morning, she is always sick to her stomach and this feeling does not pass for a few hours. Can you explain what is wrong?

Reply

This problem should be discussed with your family physician because there are a number of possibilities. While nervousness, over-excitement, or a dislike of school may be responsible, occasionally children develop peptic ulcer or other intestinal disturbances which are overlooked because they are more common in adults.

EYEBROW TRIMMING

Mrs. J. writes: Is there any danger of developing cancer from plucking the eyebrows? The character of these hairs in one area has changed, becoming stiff, bristly, and long.

Reply

Considering the millions who tweeze the brows, the answer obviously is no. Your observations on the hairs is accurate and such alterations occurs as we grow older.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

They're planning a subway for Los Angeles and it's drawing vociferous objections from motorists. They claim it's their exclusive privilege to put pedestrians under ground.

Los Angeles could certainly use added transportation facilities. I rode a trolley the other day and I won't say it was jammed, but it was the first time I ever saw a street car with bow-legged wheels!

A subway is great. In my early vaudeville days, when I was residing in New York, I would walk down a flight of steps and in two seconds I was home . . . I was living in the subway.

The minute it was announced, my brother applied for the job of building the subway. He once was quite successful at digging a tunnel. Of course, he took one to ten years to do it.

But digging that long tunnel shouldn't be a problem in Los Angeles. All the contractor has to do is get the tunnel started, then put a hot rod driver in it and show him a sign that says "speed limit, twenty miles an hour."

Those subway trains will be real Hollywood . . . Top down . . . finished in two tones . . . orchid and aquamarine . . . and the subway guard won't have to shove passengers into the car . . . he'll just squirt 'em with orange juice.

Democratic Chairman McGrath Thwarted By Secretary Forrestal; Appoints Two Anti-Roosevelt Republicans To Top Jobs; To Probe Law Firm

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Despite denials of Sen. J. Howard McGrath that he has felt like resigning as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, McGrath several times has been near the boiling point.

One occurred only last week and too kthe form of a hot feud with none other than Secretary of National Defense Forrestal.

Just one week ago today—March 5—Forrestal phoned McGrath that he was appointing Russell J. Hopley of Omaha, president of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, as Director of Civilian Defense. Under direct orders from the White House, every Cabinet member is required to clear all job appointments with the chairman of the National Committee. This has been a rule of both Democratic and Republican administrations for years. It is supposed to prevent political enemies from being taken to the boso mof the family.

Checking on Hopley, McGrath informed Forrestal that he was flatly opposed to the appointment. Not only was Hopley a Republican, but a big-business Republican who had bitterly fought labor up and down the state of Nebraska.

In a war job, Hopley's appointment might be O.K., McGrath argued. But to put a labor-baiter in charge of civil defense, where labor is involved, was another matter. So he asked Forrestal to hold up the appointment until it could be taken up with President Truman, then still in Florida.

Forrestal agreed.

Whereupon, with McGrath's back turned, the story of Hopley's appointment mysteriously leaked to the press—following which Forrestal brusquely informed McGrath he would have to make hte appointment anyway since it had now been published.

That was one reason why the discouraged McGrath has felt like resigning. Here is another.

Boiling Point No. 2

Just one week before, Forrestal had appointed as his deputy on atomic matters, Donald F. Carpenter, president of the Remington Arms Company, a duPont subsidiary.

Mr. Carpenter is a member of the same duPont - Carpenter family which poured money into Republican campaigns against Truman and Roosevelt as if it were water. He is also a member of the duPont-Carpenter family which organized the Liberty League to defeat Roosevelt. Naturally McGrath received this news with no thrill.

But even more significant is a tie-up McGrath may not have known about. Back in 1928, Secretary Forrestal's Wall Street banking firm loaned $20,000,000 to Bolivia with which to buy arms for the purpose of waging war against Paraguay. This money was used, among other things, to hire Capt. Ernst Roehm as military adviser to the Bolivian Government, and it was in Bolivia that Roehm first developed his idea of storm troopers. Later he organized the same thing for Hitler.

Immediately after Forrestal loaned this money to Bolivia, Remington Arms Company, which Donald Carpenter heads, stepped in to profit by it. Remington got a juicy contract for 7.65-mm. and 9-mm. cartridges, and the files of the Senate Munitions investigation contain revealing testimony on this sale.

So Forrestal, the man who made the munitions loan which helped foment war in Latin America, now hires as his deputy the head of the company which profited from that loan by selling arms to Latin America.

No wonder top Democrats despair of re-electing Truman!

Note—In the 1940 campaign the duPont-Carpenter family contributed a cool $186,780 to the Republican campaign to defeat Roosevelt.

Washington Law Connection

When hard-hitting Senator Ferguson of Michigan begins his probe of the Civil Aeronautics Board he is expected, among other things, to take more than passing notice of a certain Washington law firm.

That firm is Gambrell and White, attorneys for Eastern Airlines. A member of that firm from 1941 up until a few weeks ago was John E. Branch, son of charming Commissioner Harllee Branch of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Senator Ferguson's Committee is also expected to delve into any interesting reasons which may lie behind the fact that the same Harllee Branch voted against giving Colonial Airlines the right to fly between New York and Washington—which, of course, would be in direct competition with Eastern Airlines, which his son represents.

Colonial has an air-safety record of no fatalities in 18 years, was recommended by the CAB examiner to operate the New York-Washington route. But Harllee Branch's vote swung the decision against Colonial to National Airlines—even though its pilots are out on strike.

Noae—Young Branch was retained by Eastern Airlines' law firm in 1941 shortly after he graduated from law school. Then, as the fight between Eastern and Colonial reached a climax, he was made a partner in 1945. With his father's resignation from the CAB a few weeks ago, young Branch's connection with the law firm ended.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Mar. 11. (INS)—If Gen. Douglas MacArthur gets a nomination and becomes President his first visit to Congress should awaken a lot of memories in his well-medalled breast.

As chief of staff of the army from 1930 to 1935 he spent considerable time on the hill wrangling with congressional appropriations committees who considered his requests unreasonable and exhorbitant, though, of course, by today's standards he was asking for the splinter of what has become a long.

"During 1930 the United States spent 6.7 per cent of its total governmental budget for military activities," he testified in 1931.

"During the same year Great Britain spent 7.9 per cent, Japan 13.1, France 18.4 and Italy 25.4."

The House appropriations committee questioned him sharply on the source of his figures and indicated, by its questions, that they were not authentic (though MacArthur had recently returned from an extensive trip abroad). The committee dropped the topic, however, and suggested to MacArthur that he should cut costs by installing payless 2-week training periods for reserves and by lopping off the $4 a month received by National Guardsmen.

Argued Against Cuts

"I don't think either of those items should be cut," MacArthur answered. "They go to the very basis of what I have tried to bring out: That we should not cut down on trained manpower. We have reached the minimum in that respect. I don't believe that this continued process of whittling down will be accompanied by anything but national disaster in the future."

A committeeman mentioned the burden of pensions, which brought the MacArthur reply:

"You are paying enormous sums for pensions now largely because of the lack of preparation for the wars we've fought."

Rep. Ross Collins, of Mississippi, his chief badgerer, countered:

"Germany had a very elaborate system, but now is burdened with heavy post-war expenses."

"Germany is paying because she was defeated," MacArthur answered sharply.

The House cut the appropriation, causing a reduction in the ranks of regular army officers to 10,000.

MacArthur was back at the Capitol in 1932 to tell Congress that Japan was now spending 25.9 per cent of the Japanese budget on its war machine. Collins seemed surprised he brought it up.

"You also know the Japanese government is being roundly censured throughout the civilized world because of its increase in military appropriations, don't you, General?"

"I am familiar with the current press," MacArthur answered, and then plunged into an attempt to forestall congressional plans to cut the size of West Point and stop further inroads on the regular army.

"Such men cannot be secured for a wage," he told a Senate appropriations committee a bit later, in a defense of the regular army which remains a classic tribute. "They are not hirelings. Theirs is not a job, but a career and a life work of devotion to duty.

"They must give up the opportunities, offered them in our country, for gain and for prosperity in civil life. They often live in remote places, sacrifice what is very dear to everyone—community interests and associations.

"They are often socially isolated, not from choice, but because their economic condition prevents their participating in the normal lives of the civilians of the same education, character and attainments.

At a Disadvantage

"They are at a disadvantage in the education of their children by reason of frequent moves. Every man in this room has aspired to and no doubt has attained a better place in life. Army officers are like the rest of the people."

In January, 1934, on his first appearance before a committee of Roosevelt's Congress, he cried:

"Our overseas outposts are now occupied by garrisons only large enough to cause an aggressor to think twice before attacking them. These outposts certainly are not strong enough to resist with certainty any attacks that might be brought against them. They total for the Philippines, Hawaii, Panama, Alaska and Puerto Rico approximately 2,000 officers and 36,000 men, including Philippine scouts."

But the cuts continued and MacArthur finally was forced to go to the PWA for money. It gave him $95,377,050 of the $383,733,598 he asked. Rep. Blanton lit into him for that:

"What's the matter?" Blanton asked sarcastically. "Have you lost confidence in Congress?"

MacArthur apparently could not trust himself to answer that one. His last days as chief of staff were unhappy ones. Secretary of War Dern gave him another cluster to his DSM and he finally left Washington, almost unnoticed, to become the Army's military adviser to the Philippines.

"I believe the future security of the Philippines is of major importance to the interests of the United States in the Far East," he said on December 15, 1935. And his last address at West Point he said, "Let us be prepared, lest we perish."

"Warmonger!" Sen. Gerald P. Nye called him the next day.

It was his country's Farewell.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Reading

You have to keep putting something into your mind if you would have it function. And reading does this, even to a greater degree than observation. Reading stimulates, stirs the mind, and makes it keen for observation. The more we read about history, the more readily we grasp the meaning of events as they unfold each day.

Reading the stories of great men and women inspires us to make our lives worth while. In fact, every type of reading adds to the treasure store-house of our minds. Said Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, the great publisher of the British Weekly, many years ago: "Reading has been the chief pleasure of my life. It has given me so much pleasure that I feel that I am in danger of falling into extravagance when I speak of it." Here was a man who read—literally—thousands of books in his lifetime.

Most great men have been great readers. It is said of Macaulay that he read books "faster than other people skimmed them, and skimmed them as fast as any one else could turn the leaves." There are others, however, who become so absorbed in their reading that their minds almost melt into that of the author. Boswell said of Dr. Johnson that his mind became enriched by "roaming at large in the fields of literature" rather than confining his reading to particular spots.

Stevenson said that "we should gloat over a book, be rapt clean out of ourselves, and rise from the perusal, our mind filled with the busiest, kaleidoscopic dance of images." And Charles Lamb said: "When I am not walking, I am reading. I cannot sit and think. Books think for me."

The art of reading, its feeding function to the mind, its stimulation, and its uplifting force in our daily lives, is something for which we can be deeply grateful, for in books we can contact the great minds of the world, bring them into our very lap, as I might say, and through these books find some sort of solace and comfort during these troubled times.

The love of books and the love of reading are interwoven with the love of life. They are our silent friends, these books of ours. We can still have them with us should all other friends desert us. The habit of reading should be the one great habit of our lives.

World Crisis Is In Making; Could Mean War With Russia

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 11—A world crisis that could mean war between the democracies and Russia is in the making.

Russia has overplayed her hand. Her rulers evidently believe that the western democracies, having withdrawn virtually all their troops from continental Europe, are too sick and tired of war to stand up and defend human freedom against aggression.

Hitler made the same mistake in 1938 when he misunderstood, as a sign of weakness, efforts to settle peacefully the tangled questions involving Czechoslovakia.

Today the democracies are strong enough to speak frankly and firmly to Russia and to demand that Russia cease her interference with the independence of other states.

Nobody wants war. Yet, strangely enough, there is a substantial sentiment in many countries, including the United States, in favor of ascertaining whether Russia means to continue her aggression in defiance of world opinion and of putting a stop to such aggression by war if necessary.

When Secretary Marshall said that the world situation is "very, very serious" and allowed himself to be quoted concerning the passions being aroused in America by Russia's reckless course, he was underlining by implication the unwarranted behavior of Russia.

The immediate step is not mobilization for war. Rather it lies in what Secretary Marshall said about not acting impulsively or out of mere passion or anger. He spoke of action to be taken that must be coldly calculated. This means undoubtedly that America must speak firmly to Russia and risk the chance that Russia may not cease her aggression, in which case measures of force must be employed preferably through a concert of power among the democracies.

The United Nations was established to deal with war or threats of war and particularly to examine acts of aggression. The Czechoslovak ambassador of the legal government which existed in Prague up to February 20 has taken the initiative in laying a complaint before the Security Council. If his communication is regarded as invalid because he no longer represents the existing government, any nation may bring such a matter to the attention of the Security Council.

The merit of the complaint already filed is that it brings to the Security Council formal notice of a change in the status of the Czechoslovakian republic and emphasizes that interference from the outside, by the Russian government, has been a factor in that altered status.

If ever there is to be a crisis that the United Nations was born to deal with, it is the one facing it today. If the U.N. sidesteps the issue in a maze of quibbles and technicalities, it will be encouraging Russia to go ahead with further aggression in the belief that the countries making up the Security Council are too craven to say what they think or to make clear the line beyond which Russia must not go if she is to keep the peace.

The American people don't want war now or at any time. But they do not relish living in a reign of terror, waiting with deep anxiety from week to week to learn whether an aggressor government is bent on gobbling up its small neighbors and then confronting the world with a take-it-or-leave-it accomplishment.

Italy stands on the brink. If Italy succumbs to Russian influence, France will have a hard time keeping out of the Russian orbit. Soon an entire continent may be in the hands of communistic rulers.

If, as many here believe, Russia is bluffing her way through Europe, then a call to halt might prove effective. But Secretary Marshall is trained in that school of thought which doesn't believe in using strong words unless the nation is willing to back them up if need be with prompt action.

What lies ahead is a testing period. Does American opinion favor a firm policy toward Russia and, if so, will America be ready to back up such a step if Russia defies our firm policy? Obviously the government and especially Secretary Marshall will not do anything to provoke passion or war fever. The fact that the secretary of state, however, has allowed himself to be quoted as saying the situation is serious and that passions are being aroused will be reported throughout the globe, including Moscow. If the Russians want to keep the peace, maybe they will take the hint in Mr. Marshall's restrained language and implicit warning. It will be interesting to see whether Rusia recedes a bit and staves off the crisis or blunders ahead in disregard of the warnings being directed to her. There is no exaggerating the nature of the crisis which is in the making today.

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Case of Dr. Dunn

I SAW A LETTER in "The New York Times," signed by L. C. Dunn, Professor of Zoology, Columbia University. So I read the letter and found that it quarreled with the Thomas Committee over the Condon Case. Dunn says that the Thomas Committee made three false statements concerning an organization of which he is or was President. I give his words:

"(1) The American - Soviet Society has no connection with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship; (2) . . it has not been cited as a subversive organization by the Attorney General (3) it has at no time had anything to do with any 'Communist endeavors' or with any except strictly scientific purposes."

Well, sometimes we do too much research and discover nothing. This time it was simple. We picked up the telephone book and there it is. The American-Soviet Science Society is listed at 114 East 32 Street, telephone Murray Hill 3-2080; the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship is listed at 114 East 32 Street, telephone Murray Hill 3-2080. No connection? On March 8, 1948, according to "Information," (Dial 411), these numbers were as stated in the telephone book.

So, we sent a photographer down to 114 East 32 Street and he produced a photograph showing that the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. occupies Room 803-5 in that building, while the American-Soviet Society occupies Room 804. Also in Room 804 is the American-Soviet Music Society. In Room 803 is the Reporter on American-Soviet Relations.

So, Dr. Dunn's letter to "The New York Times" does not exhibit scientific precision. In fact, the Telephone Book and the Bulletin Board establish intimate relations, a sort of marriage of offices, telephones and probably office help. That knocks his denial into a cocked hat.

What I cannot understand is why Dr. Dunn wrote that letter to the "Times." After all, he must have known that his telephone number and office are identical with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. There could be no guessing about that. Why risk being exposed by a Telephone Book?

Now let us have a look at Professor Leslie Clarence Dunn. He has been Professor of Zoology at Columbia University since 1928. He is a man of distinction in his field, having been trained at Dartmouth and Harvard. For a number of years, he has chosen to associate himself with organizations avowedly friendly to Soviet Russia.

For instance, he has been an executive committee member of the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom; a sponsor of the American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born; an executive board member of the American Committee to Save Refugees; member of the board of editors of the "American Review of Soviet Medicine;" a sponsor of the American Russian Institute; member, editorial council of the publication, "Equality;" sponsor, Emergency Conference on Deportations. There is more of this. Most of these agencies have been designated as Communist fronts either by the Dies Committee, the Thomas Committee, Attorney General Biddle, Attorney General Clark or other government agencies. Some of the pro-Russian organizations which Professor Dunn prefers, he has supported as recently as this year.

On July 19, 1942, the American Communists published in their "Daily Worker" an Open Letter on Harry Bridges which contained the following sentence:

'It is equally essential that the Attorney General's ill-advised, arbitrary, and unwarranted findings relative to the Communist party be rescinded." This is not a defense of Bridges but of the Communist party and while most Americans would not hold this to be sound in 1948, it was equally unsound in 1942. Professor Dunn's name appears as a signer of this "Open Letter."

Professor Dunn's most recent affiliations with Communist front organizations are his membership in the Citizens Committee to Defend Representative Government and his sponsorship of the Emergency Conference on Deportations. The former organization was set up in February, 1948, as a propaganda instrument for the seating of the Communist, Simon W. Gerson, on the New York City Council; it includes such Communist leaders as Ben Gold and Irving Potash. The latter organization, the Emergency Conference on Deportations, has been called to meet on April 4, 1948, for the purpose of protesting against the arrest of alien Communists.

Contest For Presidency Takes On Additional Form

With the announcements of President Truman and General MacArthur that they are willing to run, the contest for the presidency takes on additional form.

There never was much doubt about Truman. There was a period following the election of 1946 when he showed considerable indifference to his political fortunes. That was the period, by the way, in which he made his one great gain in popularity. Then he began to think of re-election again and thought of it so hard that he got all tangled up in his own vote-getting enterprises. All our Presidents play politics more or less, but Harry Truman in recent months has played them to an extreme fashion. After all, he is President of the United States and he ought to think of that job first.

General MacArthur has a very different sort of record. We don't know how good a candidate or how good a President he would be any more than we know how good any one of the other candidates would be. He has had a magnificent career as a soldier and his duties as supreme commander of our occupational forces in Japan has provided the opportunity to exercise his executive ability for the whole country to observe.

He has handled himself with dignity and there is no doubt in the world as to his devotion to American institutions. His views on many issues are matters of record. He has shown foresight insofar as military problems are concerned. He has exhibited a wide knowledge of affairs both nationally and internationally, and we venture to say he is more familiar with domestic issues in America than some are willing to give him credit for. Senator Vandenberg who is being listed as a "dark horse" for the presidential nomination, in the event that Taft and Dewey erase each other in convention, long ago recognized MacArthur as presidential timber, and said so in no uncertain terms in a widely read magazine article.

That General MacArthur is held in the highest esteem by the American people is undisputed.

Pact on Unification of German Area Significant

A sense of emergency is gripping the democratic world. It is evident in the speed with which Great Britain, France and the Benelux countries are approaching the creation of a western union. It is highlighted by the sudden agreement in principle between the United States, France and Great Britain for unification of western Germany and the internationalization of the Ruhr. It is emphasized by the call of General de Gaulle for American military support for Europe, and echo of the Ball proposal in Washington.

The agreement on the unification of western Germany is very significant. For months the three powers have wrangled over the problem, with France insisting on conditions which the United States and Great Britain could not accept. Now, significantly, the difficulties are about to be ironed out.

The decision will be better for the world and for Germany. The confusion of Bizonia will end. From it should emerge a stronger Germany, with a measure of self-rule, better able to resist the pressure from the Russian zone.

Democratic Europe has awakened to the desperate urgency of action. The Red grab in Czechoslovakia and the demands made on tottering Finland have brought forth response. Gen. de Gaulle's Joan-of-Arc-like offer to come to the aid of his country, while it sounds egotistical, is part of the scheme. It is a reassertion of the strength of the right when confronted by aggression from the left.

The time may not be ripe yet for military alliances, with the United States participating. But the fact that responsible Americans are calling for that, and others are demanding a warning that this country will go to war should Russia take over one more nation, emphasize the danger of the situation. Positive action is needed. There is still hope, as expressed by Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of Poland during a series of lectures in this country, that political action alone will be sufficient to save the world from disaster.

It is asserted 20 per cent of Americans are more or less crazy, not including those who are in love for the first time or those who write songs about them.

The Taft-Hartley Law and Harry Bridges

Maybe the following is one of the reasons why the labor "bosses" hate the Taft-Hartley act:

Harry Bridges has become the second man in high position in the CIO to be "purged" because of his political beliefs.

Lest any of the CIO's rank and file feel they are not free to express their political beliefs, if those beliefs happen to differ with their union chiefs, may we point out that there is where the new labor act comes into play.

The law protects the rank and file from any such discrimination. If you are a member of a union, your leaders cannot have you purged with intent to force you from your job for your political beliefs, because the act says:

It would be unfair labor practice by a union "to cause or attempt to cause an employer to discriminate against an employe . . . or to discriminate against an employe with respect to whom membership in such organization has been denied or terminated on some ground other than his failure to tender the periodic dues and the initiation fees uniformly required as a condition of acquiring or retaining membership."

So long as the rank and file continues to offer periodic dues, then, they cannot be fired because they happen to have different political opinions than their union "bosses."

Too bad Lee Pressman and Harry Bridges didn't have the protection of the act.

Scientists still are trying to discover if Mars is populated. And we can't get along with all the people on our own planet.

Confiscatory taxation with representation also is unbearable, this generation is discovering.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Rest and Exercise In Arthritis

Simple rest in the treatment of arthritis is being emphasized more than ever. This is easy to do when pain is marked but becomes difficult after improvement begins. It is here that many sufferers make their first mistake because, if they get up too soon, symptoms return.

Dr. Van Dellen

The amount of rest depends upon the severity of the disease. In mild cases, a reduction in general activity may be sufficient but every arthritic should spend at least ten hours in bed at night and, if possible, two periods of an hour each during the day. In the acute phase as well as during flare-ups, complete bed rest is advised.

The purpose of this form of therapy is not only to give the hot, sore joints a break but to build up the resistance of the body against the ravages of the disease. This means the avoidance of fatigue rather than immobilization of the "hinges." If these structures are kept in one position too long, stiffness and wasting of the muscles may result.

To overcome such handicaps, daily systematic exercises are recommended but they should not be done too enthusiastically or vigorously. Help is often required during the early stages. The knee, for example, may be bent to the point of distress but if intensified pain persists for more than two hours after the maneuver, it is doing more harm than good. On the other hand, by increasing the procedure a little each day, it is surprising how quickly stiffness can be eliminated.

During the period of inactivity, exercises can be performed to accomplish a useful propose. This is the basis of occupational therapy. Individuals with arthritic hands can sew, build wooden objects, draw, write, or use modeling clay. Thus not only is exercise provided but the patient feels less dependent and helpless. This is an important factor in cure because freedom from anxiety is a valuable part of treatment.

The proper use of heat and massage also works wonders and a suitable home routine can be arranged. Heat is heat whether it is obtained from an electric pad, hot water bottle, infra-red lamp, baker, paraffin baths, or diathermy except that the first penetrates least and the last, is the deepest. Many receive just as much benefit from the simplest equipment as the most elaborate. Care must be taken not to burn the skin and, to prevent mottling, a layer of cream or petroleum jelly may be applied to the surface, will prevent mottling.

Light massage over the muscles, stroking toward the heart, aids circulation and affords relaxation. The joints should not be rubbed especially if inflamed or swollen. Electrical stimulation is inadvisable in rheumatoid arthritis but sometimes under-water exercises in a tank prove valuable.

MORNING NAUESA

Mrs. W. M. writes: When my 8 year old daughter wakens in the morning, she is always sick to her stomach and this feeling does not pass for a few hours. Can you explain what is wrong?

Reply

This problem should be discussed with your family physician because there are a number of possibilities. While nervousness, over-excitement, or a dislike of school may be responsible, occasionally children develop peptic ulcer or other intestinal disturbances which are overlooked because they are more common in adults.

EYEBROW TRIMMING

Mrs. J. writes: Is there any danger of developing cancer from plucking the eyebrows? The character of these hairs in one area has changed, becoming stiff, bristly, and long.

Reply

Considering the millions who tweeze the brows, the answer obviously is no. Your observations on the hairs is accurate and such alterations occurs as we grow older.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

They're planning a subway for Los Angeles and it's drawing vociferous objections from motorists. They claim it's their exclusive privilege to put pedestrians under ground.

Los Angeles could certainly use added transportation facilities. I rode a trolley the other day and I won't say it was jammed, but it was the first time I ever saw a street car with bow-legged wheels!

A subway is great. In my early vaudeville days, when I was residing in New York, I would walk down a flight of steps and in two seconds I was home . . . I was living in the subway.

The minute it was announced, my brother applied for the job of building the subway. He once was quite successful at digging a tunnel. Of course, he took one to ten years to do it.

But digging that long tunnel shouldn't be a problem in Los Angeles. All the contractor has to do is get the tunnel started, then put a hot rod driver in it and show him a sign that says "speed limit, twenty miles an hour."

Those subway trains will be real Hollywood . . . Top down . . . finished in two tones . . . orchid and aquamarine . . . and the subway guard won't have to shove passengers into the car . . . he'll just squirt 'em with orange juice.

Democratic Chairman McGrath Thwarted By Secretary Forrestal; Appoints Two Anti-Roosevelt Republicans To Top Jobs; To Probe Law Firm

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Despite denials of Sen. J. Howard McGrath that he has felt like resigning as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, McGrath several times has been near the boiling point.

One occurred only last week and too kthe form of a hot feud with none other than Secretary of National Defense Forrestal.

Just one week ago today—March 5—Forrestal phoned McGrath that he was appointing Russell J. Hopley of Omaha, president of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, as Director of Civilian Defense. Under direct orders from the White House, every Cabinet member is required to clear all job appointments with the chairman of the National Committee. This has been a rule of both Democratic and Republican administrations for years. It is supposed to prevent political enemies from being taken to the boso mof the family.

Checking on Hopley, McGrath informed Forrestal that he was flatly opposed to the appointment. Not only was Hopley a Republican, but a big-business Republican who had bitterly fought labor up and down the state of Nebraska.

In a war job, Hopley's appointment might be O.K., McGrath argued. But to put a labor-baiter in charge of civil defense, where labor is involved, was another matter. So he asked Forrestal to hold up the appointment until it could be taken up with President Truman, then still in Florida.

Forrestal agreed.

Whereupon, with McGrath's back turned, the story of Hopley's appointment mysteriously leaked to the press—following which Forrestal brusquely informed McGrath he would have to make hte appointment anyway since it had now been published.

That was one reason why the discouraged McGrath has felt like resigning. Here is another.

Boiling Point No. 2

Just one week before, Forrestal had appointed as his deputy on atomic matters, Donald F. Carpenter, president of the Remington Arms Company, a duPont subsidiary.

Mr. Carpenter is a member of the same duPont - Carpenter family which poured money into Republican campaigns against Truman and Roosevelt as if it were water. He is also a member of the duPont-Carpenter family which organized the Liberty League to defeat Roosevelt. Naturally McGrath received this news with no thrill.

But even more significant is a tie-up McGrath may not have known about. Back in 1928, Secretary Forrestal's Wall Street banking firm loaned $20,000,000 to Bolivia with which to buy arms for the purpose of waging war against Paraguay. This money was used, among other things, to hire Capt. Ernst Roehm as military adviser to the Bolivian Government, and it was in Bolivia that Roehm first developed his idea of storm troopers. Later he organized the same thing for Hitler.

Immediately after Forrestal loaned this money to Bolivia, Remington Arms Company, which Donald Carpenter heads, stepped in to profit by it. Remington got a juicy contract for 7.65-mm. and 9-mm. cartridges, and the files of the Senate Munitions investigation contain revealing testimony on this sale.

So Forrestal, the man who made the munitions loan which helped foment war in Latin America, now hires as his deputy the head of the company which profited from that loan by selling arms to Latin America.

No wonder top Democrats despair of re-electing Truman!

Note—In the 1940 campaign the duPont-Carpenter family contributed a cool $186,780 to the Republican campaign to defeat Roosevelt.

Washington Law Connection

When hard-hitting Senator Ferguson of Michigan begins his probe of the Civil Aeronautics Board he is expected, among other things, to take more than passing notice of a certain Washington law firm.

That firm is Gambrell and White, attorneys for Eastern Airlines. A member of that firm from 1941 up until a few weeks ago was John E. Branch, son of charming Commissioner Harllee Branch of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Senator Ferguson's Committee is also expected to delve into any interesting reasons which may lie behind the fact that the same Harllee Branch voted against giving Colonial Airlines the right to fly between New York and Washington—which, of course, would be in direct competition with Eastern Airlines, which his son represents.

Colonial has an air-safety record of no fatalities in 18 years, was recommended by the CAB examiner to operate the New York-Washington route. But Harllee Branch's vote swung the decision against Colonial to National Airlines—even though its pilots are out on strike.

Noae—Young Branch was retained by Eastern Airlines' law firm in 1941 shortly after he graduated from law school. Then, as the fight between Eastern and Colonial reached a climax, he was made a partner in 1945. With his father's resignation from the CAB a few weeks ago, young Branch's connection with the law firm ended.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Mar. 11. (INS)—If Gen. Douglas MacArthur gets a nomination and becomes President his first visit to Congress should awaken a lot of memories in his well-medalled breast.

As chief of staff of the army from 1930 to 1935 he spent considerable time on the hill wrangling with congressional appropriations committees who considered his requests unreasonable and exhorbitant, though, of course, by today's standards he was asking for the splinter of what has become a long.

"During 1930 the United States spent 6.7 per cent of its total governmental budget for military activities," he testified in 1931.

"During the same year Great Britain spent 7.9 per cent, Japan 13.1, France 18.4 and Italy 25.4."

The House appropriations committee questioned him sharply on the source of his figures and indicated, by its questions, that they were not authentic (though MacArthur had recently returned from an extensive trip abroad). The committee dropped the topic, however, and suggested to MacArthur that he should cut costs by installing payless 2-week training periods for reserves and by lopping off the $4 a month received by National Guardsmen.

Argued Against Cuts

"I don't think either of those items should be cut," MacArthur answered. "They go to the very basis of what I have tried to bring out: That we should not cut down on trained manpower. We have reached the minimum in that respect. I don't believe that this continued process of whittling down will be accompanied by anything but national disaster in the future."

A committeeman mentioned the burden of pensions, which brought the MacArthur reply:

"You are paying enormous sums for pensions now largely because of the lack of preparation for the wars we've fought."

Rep. Ross Collins, of Mississippi, his chief badgerer, countered:

"Germany had a very elaborate system, but now is burdened with heavy post-war expenses."

"Germany is paying because she was defeated," MacArthur answered sharply.

The House cut the appropriation, causing a reduction in the ranks of regular army officers to 10,000.

MacArthur was back at the Capitol in 1932 to tell Congress that Japan was now spending 25.9 per cent of the Japanese budget on its war machine. Collins seemed surprised he brought it up.

"You also know the Japanese government is being roundly censured throughout the civilized world because of its increase in military appropriations, don't you, General?"

"I am familiar with the current press," MacArthur answered, and then plunged into an attempt to forestall congressional plans to cut the size of West Point and stop further inroads on the regular army.

"Such men cannot be secured for a wage," he told a Senate appropriations committee a bit later, in a defense of the regular army which remains a classic tribute. "They are not hirelings. Theirs is not a job, but a career and a life work of devotion to duty.

"They must give up the opportunities, offered them in our country, for gain and for prosperity in civil life. They often live in remote places, sacrifice what is very dear to everyone—community interests and associations.

"They are often socially isolated, not from choice, but because their economic condition prevents their participating in the normal lives of the civilians of the same education, character and attainments.

At a Disadvantage

"They are at a disadvantage in the education of their children by reason of frequent moves. Every man in this room has aspired to and no doubt has attained a better place in life. Army officers are like the rest of the people."

In January, 1934, on his first appearance before a committee of Roosevelt's Congress, he cried:

"Our overseas outposts are now occupied by garrisons only large enough to cause an aggressor to think twice before attacking them. These outposts certainly are not strong enough to resist with certainty any attacks that might be brought against them. They total for the Philippines, Hawaii, Panama, Alaska and Puerto Rico approximately 2,000 officers and 36,000 men, including Philippine scouts."

But the cuts continued and MacArthur finally was forced to go to the PWA for money. It gave him $95,377,050 of the $383,733,598 he asked. Rep. Blanton lit into him for that:

"What's the matter?" Blanton asked sarcastically. "Have you lost confidence in Congress?"

MacArthur apparently could not trust himself to answer that one. His last days as chief of staff were unhappy ones. Secretary of War Dern gave him another cluster to his DSM and he finally left Washington, almost unnoticed, to become the Army's military adviser to the Philippines.

"I believe the future security of the Philippines is of major importance to the interests of the United States in the Far East," he said on December 15, 1935. And his last address at West Point he said, "Let us be prepared, lest we perish."

"Warmonger!" Sen. Gerald P. Nye called him the next day.

It was his country's Farewell.

Today's Talk

Reading

You have to keep putting something into your mind if you would have it function. And reading does this, even to a greater degree than observation. Reading stimulates, stirs the mind, and makes it keen for observation. The more we read about history, the more readily we grasp the meaning of events as they unfold each day.

Reading the stories of great men and women inspires us to make our lives worth while. In fact, every type of reading adds to the treasure store-house of our minds. Said Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, the great publisher of the British Weekly, many years ago: "Reading has been the chief pleasure of my life. It has given me so much pleasure that I feel that I am in danger of falling into extravagance when I speak of it." Here was a man who read—literally—thousands of books in his lifetime.

Most great men have been great readers. It is said of Macaulay that he read books "faster than other people skimmed them, and skimmed them as fast as any one else could turn the leaves." There are others, however, who become so absorbed in their reading that their minds almost melt into that of the author. Boswell said of Dr. Johnson that his mind became enriched by "roaming at large in the fields of literature" rather than confining his reading to particular spots.

Stevenson said that "we should gloat over a book, be rapt clean out of ourselves, and rise from the perusal, our mind filled with the busiest, kaleidoscopic dance of images." And Charles Lamb said: "When I am not walking, I am reading. I cannot sit and think. Books think for me."

The art of reading, its feeding function to the mind, its stimulation, and its uplifting force in our daily lives, is something for which we can be deeply grateful, for in books we can contact the great minds of the world, bring them into our very lap, as I might say, and through these books find some sort of solace and comfort during these troubled times.

The love of books and the love of reading are interwoven with the love of life. They are our silent friends, these books of ours. We can still have them with us should all other friends desert us. The habit of reading should be the one great habit of our lives.

World Crisis Is In Making; Could Mean War With Russia

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 11—A world crisis that could mean war between the democracies and Russia is in the making.

Russia has overplayed her hand. Her rulers evidently believe that the western democracies, having withdrawn virtually all their troops from continental Europe, are too sick and tired of war to stand up and defend human freedom against aggression.

Hitler made the same mistake in 1938 when he misunderstood, as a sign of weakness, efforts to settle peacefully the tangled questions involving Czechoslovakia.

Today the democracies are strong enough to speak frankly and firmly to Russia and to demand that Russia cease her interference with the independence of other states.

Nobody wants war. Yet, strangely enough, there is a substantial sentiment in many countries, including the United States, in favor of ascertaining whether Russia means to continue her aggression in defiance of world opinion and of putting a stop to such aggression by war if necessary.

When Secretary Marshall said that the world situation is "very, very serious" and allowed himself to be quoted concerning the passions being aroused in America by Russia's reckless course, he was underlining by implication the unwarranted behavior of Russia.

The immediate step is not mobilization for war. Rather it lies in what Secretary Marshall said about not acting impulsively or out of mere passion or anger. He spoke of action to be taken that must be coldly calculated. This means undoubtedly that America must speak firmly to Russia and risk the chance that Russia may not cease her aggression, in which case measures of force must be employed preferably through a concert of power among the democracies.

The United Nations was established to deal with war or threats of war and particularly to examine acts of aggression. The Czechoslovak ambassador of the legal government which existed in Prague up to February 20 has taken the initiative in laying a complaint before the Security Council. If his communication is regarded as invalid because he no longer represents the existing government, any nation may bring such a matter to the attention of the Security Council.

The merit of the complaint already filed is that it brings to the Security Council formal notice of a change in the status of the Czechoslovakian republic and emphasizes that interference from the outside, by the Russian government, has been a factor in that altered status.

If ever there is to be a crisis that the United Nations was born to deal with, it is the one facing it today. If the U.N. sidesteps the issue in a maze of quibbles and technicalities, it will be encouraging Russia to go ahead with further aggression in the belief that the countries making up the Security Council are too craven to say what they think or to make clear the line beyond which Russia must not go if she is to keep the peace.

The American people don't want war now or at any time. But they do not relish living in a reign of terror, waiting with deep anxiety from week to week to learn whether an aggressor government is bent on gobbling up its small neighbors and then confronting the world with a take-it-or-leave-it accomplishment.

Italy stands on the brink. If Italy succumbs to Russian influence, France will have a hard time keeping out of the Russian orbit. Soon an entire continent may be in the hands of communistic rulers.

If, as many here believe, Russia is bluffing her way through Europe, then a call to halt might prove effective. But Secretary Marshall is trained in that school of thought which doesn't believe in using strong words unless the nation is willing to back them up if need be with prompt action.

What lies ahead is a testing period. Does American opinion favor a firm policy toward Russia and, if so, will America be ready to back up such a step if Russia defies our firm policy? Obviously the government and especially Secretary Marshall will not do anything to provoke passion or war fever. The fact that the secretary of state, however, has allowed himself to be quoted as saying the situation is serious and that passions are being aroused will be reported throughout the globe, including Moscow. If the Russians want to keep the peace, maybe they will take the hint in Mr. Marshall's restrained language and implicit warning. It will be interesting to see whether Rusia recedes a bit and staves off the crisis or blunders ahead in disregard of the warnings being directed to her. There is no exaggerating the nature of the crisis which is in the making today.

The Case of Dr. Dunn

I SAW A LETTER in "The New York Times," signed by L. C. Dunn, Professor of Zoology, Columbia University. So I read the letter and found that it quarreled with the Thomas Committee over the Condon Case. Dunn says that the Thomas Committee made three false statements concerning an organization of which he is or was President. I give his words:

"(1) The American - Soviet Society has no connection with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship; (2) . . it has not been cited as a subversive organization by the Attorney General (3) it has at no time had anything to do with any 'Communist endeavors' or with any except strictly scientific purposes."

Well, sometimes we do too much research and discover nothing. This time it was simple. We picked up the telephone book and there it is. The American-Soviet Science Society is listed at 114 East 32 Street, telephone Murray Hill 3-2080; the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship is listed at 114 East 32 Street, telephone Murray Hill 3-2080. No connection? On March 8, 1948, according to "Information," (Dial 411), these numbers were as stated in the telephone book.

So, we sent a photographer down to 114 East 32 Street and he produced a photograph showing that the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. occupies Room 803-5 in that building, while the American-Soviet Society occupies Room 804. Also in Room 804 is the American-Soviet Music Society. In Room 803 is the Reporter on American-Soviet Relations.

So, Dr. Dunn's letter to "The New York Times" does not exhibit scientific precision. In fact, the Telephone Book and the Bulletin Board establish intimate relations, a sort of marriage of offices, telephones and probably office help. That knocks his denial into a cocked hat.

What I cannot understand is why Dr. Dunn wrote this letter to the "Times." After all, he must have known that his telephone number and office are identical with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. There could be no guessing about that. Why risk being exposed by a Telephone Book?

Now let us have a look at Professor Leslie Clarence Dunn. He has been Professor of Zoology at Columbia University since 1928. He is a man of distinction in his field, having been trained at Dartmouth and Harvard. For a number of years, he has chosen to associate himself with organizations avowedly friendly to Soviet Russia.

For instance, he has been an executive committee member of the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom; a sponsor of the American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born; an executive board member of the American Committee to Save Refugees; member of the board of editors of the "American Review of Soviet Medicine;" a sponsor of the American Russian Institute; member, editorial council of the publication, "Equality;" sponsor, Emergency Conference on Deportations. There is more of this. Most of these agencies have been designated as Communist fronts either by the Dies Committee, the Thomas Committee, Attorney General Biddle, Attorney General Clark or other government agencies. Some of the pro-Russian organizations which Professor Dunn prefers, he has supported as recently as this year.

On July 19, 1942, the American Communists published in their "Daily Worker" an Open Letter on Harry Bridges which contained the following sentence:

'It is equally essential that the Attorney General's ill-advised, arbitrary, and unwarranted findings relative to the Communist party be rescinded." This is not a defense of Bridges but of the Communist party and while most Americans would not hold this to be sound in 1948, it was equally unsound in 1942. Professor Dunn's name appears as a signer of this "Open Letter."

Professor Dunn's most recent affiliations with Communist front organizations are his membership in the Citizens Committee to Defend Representative Government and his sponsorship of the Emergency Conference on Deportations. The former organization was set up in February, 1948, as a propaganda instrument for the seating of the Communist, Simon W. Gerson, on the New York City Council; it includes such Communist leaders as Ben Gold and Irving Potash. The latter organization, the Emergency Conference on Deportations, has been called to meet on April 4, 1948, for the purpose of protesting against the arrest of alien Communists.

POLITICS IS POISON FOR MOST GERMANS

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
AP Newsfeatures

BERLIN.—The German people, with hundreds of thousands of their fellow citizens paying the penalty for membership in the Nazi party, are now frightened of politics. Seventy per cent would refuse public office if it were offered to them, according to a survey of public opinion completed by the American Military Government's Information Control Division.

Combined with their suspicion of politics, the postwar Germans express a cynicism which occupying authorities regard as unhealthy.

The poll—conducted in the U. S. occupation zone and in the American, British and French sectors of Berlin—indicated that only where the physical reconstruction of Germany was concerned would the Germans expend extra effort.

When asked "would you be willing to work an hour longer every day for the reconstruction of Germany?" 82 per cent of the respondents answered "yes."

But when asked if they would take public office, 70 per cent said "no." Thirty-odd per cent excused themselves on the grounds they did not have time, were too young, too busy or incapable of assuming such responsibilities. Twenty-five per cent came out flatly and said they would refuse because had "had unfavorable experience with politics in recent years."

An example of what U. S. occupation authorities regard as lamentable cynicism was discovered when one-third of the Germans questioned in the western sectors of Berlin discounted the influence of rank and file Germans on the activities of political parties.

Thirty-four per cent of the total group surveyed said they thought the people cannot exert influence and offered various reasons to support their contention. A cross-section of their responses included these reasons: Political parties do not listen to the people; after leaders are chosen they never care what the people want; the people are passive and not politically mature; people lack confidence after recent bad experiences (Nazism).

This was especially disheartening to the American authorities who have been working to reorient the Germans to the idea that every individual has a vote and an equal right—which should be actively exercised—in the reshaping of a democratic Germany.

* * *

When asked whether they thought the reconstruction of Germany would be aided if more Germans took an interest in politics, 36 per cent answered "no" and 41 per cent "yes." The remainder had no opinion. Significantly, 48 per cent of those giving negative answers were former Nazi Party members. The remainder could be classified as the better-educated groups who had had 12 years or more of formal schooling.

The railroads of Great Britain, now under government control, operate 52,000 miles of track; employ 635,000 men and women; travel 373,000,000 miles a year, and carry 1,000,000,000 passengers a year.

POLITICS IS POISON FOR MOST GERMANS

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
AP Newsfeatures

BERLIN. — The German people, with hundreds of thousands of their fellow citizens paying the penalty for membership in the Nazi party, are now frightened of politics. Seventy per cent would refuse public office if it were offered to them, according to a survey of public opinion completed by the American Military Government's Information Control Division.

Combined with their suspicion of politics, the postwar Germans express a cynicism which occupying authorities regard as unhealthy.

The poll—conducted in the U. S. occupation zone and in the American, British and French sectors of Berlin—indicated that only where the physical reconstruction of Germany was concerned would the Germans expend extra effort.

When asked "would you be willing to work an hour longer every day for the reconstruction of Germany?" 82 per cent of the respondents answered "yes."

But when asked if they would take public office, 70 per cent said "no." Thirty-odd per cent excused themselves on the grounds they did not have time, were too young, too busy or incapable of assuming such responsibilities. Twenty-five per cent came out flatly and said they would refuse because had "had unfavorable experience with politics in recent years."

An example of what U. S. occupation authorities regard as lamentable cynicism was discovered when one-third of the Germans questioned in the western sectors of Berlin discounted the influence of rank and file Germans on the activities of political parties.

Thirty-four per cent of the total group surveyed said they thought the people cannot exert influence and offered various reasons to support their contention. A cross-section of their responses included these reasons: Political parties do not listen to the people; after leaders are chosen they never care what the people want; the people are passive and not politically mature; people lack confidence after recent bad experiences (Nazism).

This was especially disheartening to the American authorities who have been working to reorient the Germans to the idea that every individual has a vote and an equal right—which should be actively exercised—in the reshaping of a democratic Germany.

* * *

When asked whether they thought the reconstruction of Germany would be aided if more Germans took an interest in politics, 36 per cent answered "no" and 41 per cent "yes." The remainder had no opinion. Significantly, 48 per cent of those giving negative answers were former Nazi Party members. The remainder could be classified as the better-educated groups who had had 12 years or more of formal schooling.

The railroads of Great Britain, now under government control, operate 52,000 miles of track; employ 635,000 men and women; travel 373,000,000 miles a year, and carry 1,000,000,000 passengers a year.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Union Grove Club Has Discussions, Demonstrations

The Union Grove Homemakers Club held a discussion on Daylight Saving Time, giving the pro and con and unanimously voted in favor of it at the meeting Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Albert Windish, with Mrs. George Windish as co-hostess. A discussion of the homemakers lounge was also held and the hope expressed that one would be in operation this summer.

Miss Maude A. Bean announced that the annual county picnic would be held June 3 in Constitution Park, during the afternoon and evening. She asked the group to consider the presentation of an outdoor play. She also mentioned that a book on Freedom Gardens and pamphlets on control of bugs are available at her office. She discussed posture and remarked that modern rather than modernistic furniture is favored in homes.

Mrs. Albert Smouse presided and the meeting was opened with a reading on Easter by Mrs. Steven Bowling. Mrs. Nina Wolford, Bedford Road Club, gave a demonstration on straight chairs, pointing out the posture, health and comfort attainable in different types. She reported the Windsor chair is the most comfortable and meets most of the specifications for a good straight chair. She measured various chairs and showed whether they came up to the height specifications.

Mrs. Catherine Welsh spoke on the various types of vegetables and flowers suitable for growing in this vicinity. She suggested some vegetables as rust resistant and so thrive in this area, urging the growing of Pan American or Valiant tomatoes or Jubilee for large yellow ones. She also suggested California Wonder peppers, broccoli, which is not cultivated here much but grows successfully in this climate. In the flower garden she suggested ruffled petunias and amerylis.

It was announced that the RWSC will be held at College Park June 14-18 and volunteers were called to give reasons to urge others to attend. Mrs. Fred Purnell, club representative, and Miss Ethel Gillum, visitor and delegate from the Bedford Road Club, reported on the 4-H trip to Washington last week. Mrs. Thomas Fromeyer gave the history of "Blue Boy" and Mrs. Eula McMakin reported she had seen the original in the Huntington Museum in Pasadena, Calif.

Mrs. Arbutis White gave an article on coloring of Easter eggs, which she said originated thousands of years before the dawn of Christianity. The Pharasees used all colors on eggs to denote the riot of colors in spring. She also exhibited a basket of unusual egg treatments, showing one made to represent a chick and another a doll with a handkerchief dress.

The sewing day, with the kit and sewing chairman, will be held April 7 at the home of Mrs. Edgar Vandegrift, beginning at 10:30 a. m., to help with sewing problems. Members are asked to bring a box lunch and sewing materials.

Mrs. Ruthella Fey gave her Sunshine report for the past two months, which included 17 cards sent. She also reported the Blue Cross dues had increased and would be payable April 20. Pictures of bird houses for various types of birds were displayed by Miss Nyna Fey. Two new members were welcomed into the club. They are Mrs. Frank Young and Mrs. Cecil Hardinger. Mrs. Vandegrift spoke of the problems of India with the use of an illustrated chart. With Mrs. Bowling directing and Mrs. Alvin Wilson at the piano, the club began practicing "Ring, Ring the Banjo," for the Stephen Foster Pageant May 10.

Mrs. Claude T. Jett, county council president, was a guest and spoke briefly of demonstrations she had seen in the various clubs. Other visitors attending were Mrs. Irene McDonald, Miss Ethel Gillum, Miss Nina Wolford, Mrs. Mildred Houck and Mrs. Harry Stacey.

Mrs. Windish gave a demonstration of the new electric dish washer, after which she served refreshments; $2.85 was raised at the white elephant sale which will be continued at each meeting. Twenty-seven members attended.

The next meeting will be held at the Union Grove Club House April 14, with Mrs. Ralph Ferguson and Mrs. John Hardinger, hostesses.

NEW FLORAL DESIGNS GREET EASTER SEASON

Perfect symbol of the dewy freshness of Easter morn, bonnets of fresh flowers will appear in greater number and variety than ever in this year's Easter Parade. Shown above is one of the newest designs created by chief stylist Alyn Wayne of Florists' Telegraph Delivery, using feathered carnations, blue iris and a bit of tulle. Below, the fragile calla lily becomes a durable costume highlight through a new waxing process which permits severely classic corsage designs like this.

At right, flowers for the Easter breakfast table gain added interest when "bunny" is made welcome by a novelty container fashioned from cabbage-and-carrot rabbit food. This holds a tasteful display of yellow jonquils, stock and pussy willow.

Business Women Plan Dances And Select Club Emblem

Members of the Young Business Women's Club discussed plans for two dances, selected the club emblems and decided to have a monthly bulletin at the meeting last night at Central YMCA, with Miss Doris Twigg presiding. A donation was also voted to the Red Cross.

Miss Ruth Eichorn, in charge of the Program committee, announced that an informal St. Patrick's Day dance would be held March 18 at the Y. A Leap Year dance is to be held April 10.

The group selected the club pin, which is green lettering "WBC" on onyx with a chain attached to a torch. A red rose was chosen as the club flower and pink and green the colors. The motto, "Youth, Wisdom, Better living, Culture," bears the initials of the club.

Plans also were formulated for a club bulletin, to be issued each month at the meetings. Miss Evangeline Engle was named editor. She will be assisted by Miss Norma Wilson, Mrs. Ruth Brant, Miss June Friend and Miss Esther Frazee.

Miss Kathleen Wilson, Membership chairman, reported five new members, Mrs. Brant, Mrs. Marie Catherman, Miss June Daulphin, Miss Betty Klopper, and Miss Jean Wentling. A poem on "Easter" was presented by Miss Christine Yeager.

Other members present were Miss Mary Kelly, Miss Mary Jane Helmick, Miss Klopper, Miss Mary Oterio, Miss Josephine Becker, Miss Josephine Cantone, Miss Geraldine Cantone, Miss Betty Eaton, Miss Wentling, Miss Wilson, Miss Friend, Miss Daulphin, Miss Ruby Dice, Mrs. Brant, Mrs. Marie Catherman, Miss Frazee, and Miss Yearger.

There's nothing like piping hot, fragrant muffins or gingerbread, fresh from the oven, to work wonders with a meal. They will make a breakfast hearty. They'll overshadow a remnant supper and bring eager eyes to any meal.

Citadel Will Welcome New S. A. Officers

Capt. Joseph V. Askey and Lt. Everett Case, who arrived here last week to begin their work at the Salvation Army Outpost, 511 Virginia Avenue, will be welcomed at a meeting at the Salvation Army Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Street, tonight at 7:45 o'clock.

Maj. Elmer Wall, commander of the Salvation Army in Cumberland, will be in charge of the meeting and Lt. Case, who has been an invalid most of his life, will relate how he was healed, through prayer, of a blood deficiency disease which resulted in 26 fractured bones.

Sawdust Thrills Preserved By Circus Model Builders

By STEVE LOWELL
AP Newsfeatures

ALBUQUERQUE — Model-circus building is a hobby for at least 300 persons across the country. They even have a national association and exchange circus building dope.

One of them is Marvin Krieger, war veteran, who took up the hobby as the outgrowth of a boyhood interest in the big tops. He's pursuing it now because it gets his mind off worries about his University of New Mexico studies and the family budget.

A junior electrical engineering student, Krieger is a member of the Circus Model Builders and owners association. The organization boasts a member in West Point and another in England.

Women, as well as men, are members and several women have top flight shows.

Some members combine model railroading with the model circuses.

They load the model railway cars with the circus paraphernalia. Kreiger's outfit is a combination of the two.

The association, he said, grew out of a meeting of some circus-model builders in Chicago about 14 years ago. They learned of another group in Peru, Ind., and an organization meeting was arranged. Gradually other groups came into the fold.

Kreiger said it's safe to say that if any piece of equipment has been on a circus lot in the last 15 years, some member of the association has it in model form. Almost every known bandwagon, tableau wagon and cage has been preserved in model form, although many of the originals long since have been destroyed.

Some of the members spend hundreds of hours to complete one finely detailed precision model.

The newest division of the association was formed recently when Kreiger called a meeting of members in California to organize the Clyde Beatty Ring. Other rings include the P. T. Barnum Ring in Connecticut, the Leonard Ayles-worth Ring in Eastern Pennsylvania, the Terrill Jacobs Ring in western Pennsylvania and the Eddie Ward Ring in Chicago. To circus fans, those names certainly are familiar.

Kreiger has completed 25 circus wagons, built on a scale of a half-inch to a foot. Most of them are stored in Muskogee, Okla., where he joined the army in 1939.

Not only does he build the model circuses, but Kreiger also "clowns" in the real shows when they roll into town.

Korea is an ancient kingdom, its history extending back to the 12th century B. C. In recent centuries it has been called the "Hermit Kingdom."

Resettlement Hits Snag On Mindanao

MANILA — (AP) — The Philippines' most promising resettlement project seems to be running out of promise.

Manila newspaper reporters recently visited the project in the Koronodal valley of Mindanao, the big southern Philippine island.

They said the resettlement venture was perishing for lack of money and competent government cent of the 5,000 settlers suffering from malaria. They said the settlers were poorly equipped and most of them were in debt to the government.

ALBUQUERQUE — Model-circus building is a hobby for at least 300 persons across the country. They even have a national association and exchange circus building dope.

One of them is Marvin Krieger, war veteran, who took up the hobby as the outgrowth of a boyhood interest in the big tops. He's pursuing it now because it gets his mind off worries about his University of New Mexico studies and the family budget.

A junior electrical engineering student, Krieger is a member of the Circus Model Builders and owners association. The organization boasts a member in West Point and another in England.

Women, as well as men, are members and several women have top flight shows.

Some members combine model railroading with the model circuses.

They load the model railway cars with the circus paraphernalia. Kreiger's outfit is a combination of the two.

The association, he said, grew out of a meeting of some circus-model builders in Chicago about 14 years ago. They learned of another group in Peru, Ind., and an organization meeting was arranged. Gradually other groups came into the fold.

Kreiger said it's safe to say that if any piece of equipment has been on a circus lot in the last 15 years, some member of the association has it in model form. Almost every known bandwagon, tableau wagon and cage has been preserved in model form, although many of the originals long since have been destroyed.

Some of the members spend hundreds of hours to complete one finely detailed precision model.

The newest division of the association was formed recently when Kreiger called a meeting of members in California to organize the Clyde Beatty Ring. Other rings include the P. T. Barnum Ring in Connecticut, the Leonard Ayles-worth Ring in Eastern Pennsylvania, the Terrill Jacobs Ring in western Pennsylvania and the Eddie Ward Ring in Chicago. To circus fans, those names certainly are familiar.

Kreiger has completed 25 circus wagons, built on a scale of a half-inch to a foot. Most of them are stored in Muskogee, Okla., where he joined the army in 1939.

Not only does he build the model circuses, but Kreiger also "clowns" in the real shows when they roll into town.

Korea is an ancient kingdom, its history extending back to the 12th century B. C. In recent centuries it has been called the "Hermit Kingdom."

Resettlement Hits Snag On Mindanao

MANILA — (AP) — The Philippines' most promising resettlement project seems to be running out of promise.

Manila newspaper reporters recently visited the project in the Koronodal valley of Mindanao, the big southern Philippine island.

They said the resettlement venture was perishing for lack of money and competent government cent of the 5,000 settlers suffering from malaria. They said the settlers were poorly equipped and most of them were in debt to the government.

Bids On Route 40 Work Are Sought

The possibility of a new highway between Frostburg and Allegany Grove, replacing the present Route 40, by 1949 loomed yesterday when the State Roads Commission advertised for bids on the grading, drainage and concrete surfacing of 4.635 miles between the two places.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer, said that if bids, which will be opened March 23, are in line with the anticipated cost of $1,600,000 a contract will be awarded late this month or early in April.

Specifications call for completion of the project within 210 working days, which means the project should be finished in little more than a year.

Representatives of the roads commission yesterday conferred with Allegany County Commissioners relative to the use of federal funds for secondary road construction within the county.

Charles N. Wilkinson, board president, said under the program the county would match federal funds on a 50-50 basis. The Vocke Road was improved under this program last year.

Roads considered yesterday were from Midlothian to Frostburg, the Williams Road and the North Branch Road. Wilkinson said the commissioners hope to reach a decision in several weeks. No announcement was made concerning the amount of money needed.

New City Health Nurse Is Named

Mrs. Gladys Apple Pitzer, 301 Grand Avenue, was recommended to succeed Mrs. Carol M. Tolson as public health nurse yesterday by the Cumberland Board of Health.

Mrs. Tolson resigned this week to accept a nursing position at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Mrs. Pitzer will assume her duties April 1. The appointment is subject to confirmation of the Mayor and Council and a civil service examination.

Unemployment Board Supported In Court

The Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board's decision in refusing a claim of Helen T. Harper, former G. C. Murphy Company employe, was upheld yesterday in a decision by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson in Circuit Court.

The judges ruled "that since the findings of the Unemployment Board in the matter of the claim are supported by evidence and are in all respects in accordance with the Unemployment Compensation Law, such findings are affirmed by the Circuit Court of Allegany County."

The appeal was taken on two technical points contending that the board decision was not supported by the evidence and that the board refused to transfer proceedings to another referee.

There is nothing in the law, the court ruled, that requires the board to transfer proceedings from one referee to another.

The Virgin Islands, in the West Indies, have a warm, humid climate averaging about six degrees cooler in winter than in summer.

George Conlon May Make Statue Of Babe Ruth

A well-known Allegany county sculptor, George Conlon, may be commissioned to make a memorial statue of Babe Ruth, which possibly would be placed in Baltimore Municipal Stadium.

Conlon, now a resident of Washington, numbers among his works a bust of Cordell Hull, former Secretary of State, which was presented to Congress three years ago by the Times and Alleganian Company and which now is in the Senate reception room in the Capitol in Washington. A copy of the bust was given Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs V. M. Molotov, and another copy is now in the Times-News executive office.

Another of Conlon's works is a bust of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, which is in the American Embassy in Paris.

Manhattan Memoranda

Michael Straight, the New Republic publisher, will wallop his former editor, Henry Wallace, when he (Straight) comes out for the Marshall Plan at a George Washington High School speech March 15. . . . Countess Edda Ciano, fearful of falling into the hands of the Communists, is seeking refuge in the U. S. for herself and children. . . . Some elements in the Democratic setup are urging a conference between Truman and Stalin a month before election. . . . The Department of Justice will shortly put out a new list of subversive groups and individuals. . . . The American Veterans Committee will demand ouster proceedings against members who use the organization's name to support any particular political candidate. The organization is fighting for a national charter, which it won't get if it goes in for politics. . . . Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) will introduce a Constitutional amendment to do away with the Electoral College.

Eric Johnston tells associates via the Atlantic cable that the ultimate effect of the 75% British tax on American films has been to revive vaudeville in England. . . . Hollywood planning to double its production of short subjects for sale to television companies, not to theatres. . . . GOP Presidential candidates are preparing to practice for the video cameras, and several politicians have been warned not to fall asleep while in range of them. . . . Gov. Barbara Hutton Troubetzkoy will go to Eqypt to convalesce as soon as she is allowed to leave the hospital, taking along her groom, Igor Troubetzkoy. Meanwhile, Igor's brother, Youka Troubetzkoy, is tossing a cocktail party on the arrival from Mexico City of Freddie McEvoy, who introduced Barbara to Igor (or don't you care?). . . . The Harry Oakes murder case and trial may emerge as a documentary screen play. . . . Carol Brice, Negro soprano, who sings with the Boston Symphony this Friday and Saturday, will be feted by sons and daughters of the Back Bay philanthropists who financed her musical education, the late Mr. and Mrs. Galen Stone. . . . Frank Kuarrera, 23-year-old baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Auditions of the Air, will be sent abroad under the auspices of Toscanini, who invited him to his apartment following Guarrera's air tryout and personally played his accompaniments. If Guarrera wins in the finals, which is more than probable, his colorful career—in and out of the Navy—should be the subject of many picture magazine stories. . . . The United Nations Orchestra will play its first concert at the Met Opera House April 12 for the benefit of the Cancer Fund, with Gladys Swarthout donating her services as soloist. . . . Advance reports on "The Lost One," opening soon in New York, claim it will do for Italian operatic films what "Open City" did for their film dramas. It's a screen version of "La Traviata," but with photogenic movie actors appearing before the screen while unphotogenic singers are doing the singing off stage.

UP correspondent Bob Musel planning to return to London this Summer to produce an already-completed musical comedy, also a series of cinema shorts. . . . Why hasn't some French producing genius hit on the fact that Edith Piaf has great dramatic possibilities and would make an ideal Saint Joan? . . . AFRA executives say that 90% of the radio actors in N. Y. are now unemployed and that the average weekly take of those working is around $12. Equity is in the same boat, with 80% of its membership unemployed.

Smoke Troubles

LONDON (AP)—Smoking in Britain will be regulated, taxed and limited for a long time even if Marshall plan aid becomes available to Britain, H. R. Gough, chairman of the British-American Tobacco Company, believes.

He reported that associated companies and the British-American company are promoting consumption of indigenous tobacco.

HELD IN SHOOTING—Charged with shooting his wife in a jealous rage, Frank Hummel, Meyersdale, Pa., was released on $1,000 bond for action of the Somerset County, Pa., grand jury which meets the second week in April. Daily Trucking Co. Wins Damage Suit

A $15,000 damage suit against the Daily Trucking Company, Westernport, by the Robert Dorsey estate, ended yesterday in favor of the defendant after Judge Joseph D. Mish ruled that there was insufficient evidence to present the case to the jury.

The suit, filed in Allegany County Circuit Court but later transferred to Washington County, resulted from the death of Robert Dorsey, who police said was killed in a truck accident on Sideling Hill, near Berkeley Springs, W. Va., in 1945.

As the complainant's testimony was finished, Judge Mish took the case from the jury "because there is insufficient evidence of negligence for the case to be presented to the jury."

Testimony attempted to show that Dorsey, a Keyser resident, was invited by Howard Broadwater, Keyser, driver of the truck, to accompany him on a trip. While the truck was en route to its destination, police said it careened from the road and both Broadwater and Dorsey were killed.

The defense counsel established the fact that Broadwater acted against the express instructions of Thomas Daily, owner and operator of the trucking company, in taking Dorsey on the trip. Daily, the court was told, had instructed the drivers of his fleet of trucks not to carry riders with them.

Saw Used To Release Trainman In Wreck

BALTIMORE, March 11 (AP) — Trainmen sawed through the side of a steel cab to rescue Engineer J. M. Cook, trapped in his locomotive in a freight train derailment here today.

The Pennsylvania Railroad said Cook was hospitalized with arm injuries, after his 47-car freight train ran into a standing caboose in a dense fog at the Bayview yards.

Wrecking crews worked 40 minutes getting the engineer out of his cab, the Pennsy said, but he "was believed not seriously injured."

Blames Unemployment For Theft Attempt

John Frederick Gurtler, 19, 423 Ascension Street, who is charged with breaking into a Baltimore Avenue grocery store, blamed unemployment for his action when questioned yesterday morning in the State's Attorney's office.

Gurtler was later taken to Trial Magistrates Court and ordered held in the county jail under $500 bond for grand jury action.

He admitted he entered the store operated by Charles R. Lineburg, 338 Baltimore Avenue, and stole $2.50.

Gurtler is a Navy veteran.

HELD IN SHOOTING-- Charged with shooting his wife in a jealous rage, Frank Hummel, Meyersdale, Pa., was released on $1,000 bond for action of the Somerset County, Pa., grand jury which meets the second week in April. Meyersdale authorities said Mrs. Hummel suffered wounds in the right hip when her husband fired a shotgun blast at close range after arguing with his wife in their kitchen. Mrs. Hummel was recently discharged from a Meyersdale hospital. Hummel is pictured above (right) with Deputy Sheriff Richard C. Morgan at Somerset.

Daily Trucking Co. Wins Damage Suit

A $15,000 damage suit against the Daily Trucking Company, Westernport, by the Robert Dorsey estate, ended yesterday in favor of the defendant after Judge Joseph D. Mish ruled that there was insufficient evidence to present the case to the jury.

The suit, filed in Allegany County Circuit Court but later transferred to Washington County, resulted from the death of Robert Dorsey, who police said was killed in a truck accident on Sideling Hill, near Berkeley Springs, W. Va., in 1945.

As the complainant's testimony was finished, Judge Mish took the case from the jury "because there is insufficient evidence of negligence for the case to be presented to the jury."

Testimony attempted to show that Dorsey, a Keyser resident, was invited by Howard Broadwater, Keyser, driver of the truck, to accompany him on a trip. While the truck was en route to its destination, police said it careened from the road and both Broadwater and Dorsey were killed.

The defense counsel established the fact that Broadwater acted against the express instructions of Thomas Daily, owner and operator of the trucking company, in taking Dorsey on the trip. Daily, the court was told, had instructed the drivers of his fleet of trucks not to carry riders with them.

Saw Used To Release Trainman In Wreck

BALTIMORE, March 11 (AP) — Trainmen sawed through the side of a steel cab to rescue Engineer J. M. Cook, trapped in his locomotive in a freight train derailment here today.

The Pennsylvania Railroad said Cook was hospitalized with arm injuries, after his 47-car freight train ran into a standing caboose in a dense fog at the Bayview yards.

Wrecking crews worked 40 minutes getting the engineer out of his cab, the Pennsy said, but he "was believed not seriously injured."

Missing Girl Sought

Police last night were notified that Lula Mae Bennett, 16, Willow Brook Road, has been missing from her home since Wednesday afternoon. She was described as about five feet, six inches tall, weighing 123 pounds and wearing thick-rimmed glasses. Carl Miller, same address, who reported Miss Bennett's disappearance, told police she was wearing a black-flowered dress and a tan coat when last seen.

Four Persons Receive Suspended Sentences

Blames Unemployment For Theft Attempt

John Frederick Gurtler, 19, 423 Ascension Street, who is charged with breaking into a Baltimore Avenue grocery store, blamed unemployment for his action when questioned yesterday morning in the State's Attorney's office.

Gurtler was later taken to Trial Magistrates Court and ordered held in the county jail under $500 bond for grand jury action.

He admitted he entered the store operated by Charles R. Lineburg, 338 Baltimore Avenue, and stole $2.50.

Gurtler is a Navy veteran.

Veteran Whose War Marriage Ended In Divorce Has Remarriage Problem

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A veteran, whose brief war marriage ended in divorce when he returned from overseas, now finds himself in a particularly complicated situation concerning his remarriage.

Apparently he was in no way at fault in the divorce action. According to his story, the wife with whom he had lived only a few weeks before going overseas, became interested in another man while he was gone and had no more use for the boy she had married.

Now this young man has met another girl and fallen in love with her. They are both Catholics and the girl's mother opposes the marriage because of his divorce.

"This girl and her mother live alone," he writes me, "and she can't stand hurting her mother. She is a fine, decent, respectable and sincere girl. I told her that she and I are going to live together and not with her mother. But her mother is old and gets sick quite often. The mother blames Ellen when she gets sick, because she can't stand to see her going out with me. They argue about me and many a time Ellen has cried when she and I were out together. I know that Ellen loves me with all her heart, but she is afraid of what might happen to her mother if she married me. She thinks her mother might get very ill or do something drastic, and won't marry me as long as her mother refuses to permit her. She'd marry me right away if her mother gave her consent.

"I am 27 years old and go to college. She is 23 and is working. We have been going together for two years.

"I wish you would advise me what to do. I am willing to wait for Ellen forever, but do you think I am being fair to her? Do you think I should let her go?"

Now obviously there are two problems involved here. One is the question of reconciling a second marriage for the boy who was divorced with the faith he professes. The other is the mother's tendency to use illness as a weapon against her daughter's desire to leave her—common practice with a certain type of mother who wants to keep her daughter to herself. If, as may be possible, a solution could be found for the first problem, it may be that the second would still remain, for it could be that the mother is simply using the religious problem as an excuse to hang on tenaciously to her daughter.

On the other hand, if the mother could see that there was a way of reconciling this marriage with the tenets of her church, it might solve the whole thing.

I think "Gregory," as the writer of the letter signs himself, should take the circumstances of his marriage to a priest of his church and find out if he might not have cause for an annulment. There may have been something in the circumstances which failed to meet the requirements of the church and would therefore constitute grounds for such an annulment.

I suggest that Gregory write a letter to the priest who was his Army chaplain—since the Army chaplains had much experience with the problems of GIs who became involved in hasty war marriages. I feel sure he will get sympathetic and understanding advice from such a man.

Cabbage roll-ups dispose of another problematical left-over. Cook outside cabbage leaves for one or two minutes in boiling salted water, then roll around sticks of leftover meat loaf. How To Clean Silver

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Lovely silver can give you a feeling of great importance.

Whether you were lucky enough to acquire it as a wedding present or whether it has taken years to assemble, silver should be used as often as possible. It is silly to pack it away for special occasions when it can last a liftime with proper care.

Learn how to clean your silver properly. Equip yourself with a kit, box or basket, which can hold an orangewood stick, toothbrush, cotton, soft cloth, silk handkerchief and a jar of creamy silver polish.

A STIFF BRUSH . . . and silver cream will speed up tarnish removal.

To clean sterling or plated silver, apply the silver cream with a soft cloth or sponge dampened slightly in warm water. Rub each piece lengthwise until clean; then, wash in hot soapy water. Rinse in hot clear water and dry thoroughly while still warm with a soft cloth. Never put it away moist. A final rub with an old silk handkerchief will help add the "satin finish" to your silver.

When washing pieces that are cemented together, such as the handles of some knives, do not immerse in water. This also goes for pieces with felt pads glued to the bottom. Keep rubber gloves off your hands when cleaning, as rubber and silver do not agree.

For less-often-used pieces which become tarnished, cover with silver polish and let stand a few minutes before cleaning. The tarnish will be easier to remove. A soft brush should be applied on the slightly engraved areas and a stiff one on heavily ornamental pieces. Do not use a brush on flat areas.

If you have a very intricate piece of silver to clean, you may find an orange stick covered with a cloth will help to get into small places. Some pieces are oxidized or blackened to bring out the background of a design so be careful not to destroy the oxidized effect.

There are many things which will tarnish silver. Common table salt when damp or moist marks and corrodes silver (beware of salted nuts in silver candy dishes). Eggs (sulphur), mustard, and salad dressings will darken silver. Flames and coal gas from heaters and stoves impregnated with sulphur will cause silver to turn yellow. Matches sputtering near silver will cause dark spots. You also may have to clean your silver more often if you live in the path of salty sea breezes.

Syrup Producers See 1,000 Gallon Season

If the weather remains favorable, the maple syrup production in this area is expected to be over 1,000 gallons, according to several producers in this section.

Some of the operators began tapping the trees when the weather became mild in February, but the sap was not flowing freely until late last week. Since then, weather conditions have been ideal, with warm days keeping the sap elevators running and frosty nights preventing the formation of buds, which cause the sap to lose its flavor, and eventually to stop flowing.

The sap this year, according to one producer, is not as sweet as usual. Another said that almost a barrel and a half of sugar water is required to make a gallon of syrup this year.

While some of the producers in this area sell their syrup locally, most of it is sent to the New England area.

Tongue, too, takes on an air when it has various companionable flavors added. For example, a slightly tart cherry, or raisin sauce is delicious—or a vegetable gravy might be served with it.

To clean sterling or plated silver, apply the silver cream with a soft cloth or sponge dampened slightly in warm water. Rub each piece lengthwise until clean; then, wash in hot soapy water. Rinse in hot clear water and dry thoroughly while still warm with a soft cloth. Never put it away moist. A final rub with an old silk handkerchief will help add the "satin finish" to your silver.

When washing pieces that are cemented together, such as the handles of some knives, do not immerse in water. This also goes for pieces with felt pads glued to the bottom. Keep rubber gloves off your hands when cleaning, as rubber and silver do not agree.

For less-often-used pieces which become tarnished, cover with silver polish and let stand a few minutes before cleaning. The tarnish will be easier to remove. A soft brush should be applied on the slightly engraved areas and a stiff one on heavily ornamental pieces. Do not use a brush on flat areas.

If you have a very intricate piece of silver to clean, you may find an orange stick covered with a cloth will help to get into small places. Some pieces are oxidized or blackened to bring out the background of a design so be careful not to destroy the oxidized effect.

There are many things which will tarnish silver. Common table salt when damp or moist marks and carrodes silver (beware of salted nuts in silver candy dishes). Eggs (sulphur), mustard, and salad dressings will darken silver. Flames and coal gas from heaters and stoves impregnated with sulphur will cause silver to turn yellow. Matches sputtering near silver will cause dark spots. You also may have to clean your silver more often if you live in the path of salty sea breezes.

A STIFF BRUSH . . . and silver cream will speed up tarnish removal.

Syrup Producers See 1,000 Gallon Season

If the weather remains favorable, the maple syrup production in this area is expected to be over 1,000 gallons, according to several producers in this section.

Some of the operators began tapping the trees when the weather became mild in February, but the sap was not flowing freely until late last week. Since then, weather conditions have been ideal, with warm days keeping the sap elevators running and frosty nights preventing the formation of buds, which cause the sap to lose its flavor, and eventually to stop flowing.

The sap this year, according to one producer, is not as sweet as usual. Another said that almost a barrel and a half of sugar water is required to make a gallon of syrup this year.

While some of the producers in this area sell their syrup locally, most of it is sent to the New England area.

Tongue, too, takes on an air when it has various companionable flavors added. For example, a slightly tart cherry, or raisin sauce is delicious—or a vegetable gravy might be served with it.

Cornbread's Comin' Up . . . For Lenten Meals

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One of the dishes my eldest sister Irene learned when she was about thirteen, was Johnny Cake. Needless to say the family was surfeited with the hot bread for some time after.

When Irene's first zeal wore off we used to enjoy Johnny Cake occasionally with an omelette supper along with French-fried potatoes and green snap beans — a menu that's a good choice these days for a Lenten meal. A recipe for the Johnny Cake shown in the accompanying photograph follows.

If there are youngsters in your family who'd like to begin cooking, there's nothing better than "A Cookbook for Boys and Girls" by Irma S. Rombauer, published by Bobbs-Merrill, to start them on their way. Mrs. Rombauer's recipe-rules and food-talk for boys and girls are as delightful and as practical as those that made her "Joy of Cooking" famous. As a sample of what's in store we are glad to give the following rule for Corn-Meal Pancakes with the special permission of the author and publisher.

Corn-Meal Pancakes

These are delicate and good. Measure:

1 cup white or yellow corn meal

Place it in a bowl. Add:

1 teaspoon salt
1 to 2 tablespoons sirup or sugar

Stir in slowly with a spoon:

1 cup boiling water

Cover these ingredients and permit them to stand for 10 minutes. Beat in a small bowl with a fork:

1 egg
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons melted butter

Add these ingredients to the corn meal. Sift before measuring:

½ cup all-purpose flour

Resift with:

2 teaspoons any baking powder

Stir the sifted ingredients into the batter with a few swift strokes, with a wire whisk or a mixing spoon. To bake the pancakes grease a 5-inch skillet with a drop or two of salad oil; use a pastry brush to spread it. Drop a small amount (about 2 tablespoonfuls of batter) into the skillet. The batter may be poured from a small pitcher. Tip the hot skillet and let the batter run to the sides until it covers the bottom of the pan. Cook the pancake over moderate heat until it is light brown on the bottom. Lift it with a spatula and brown the other side. Stack the pancakes on a hot plate in the warm oven. Grease the skillet each time with a drop or two of oil before you make another pancake.

Raisin Johnny Cake

1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup cornmeal
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
1¼ cups milk
¼ cup melted shortening
½ cup raisins

Sift together flour, cornmeal, baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat egg well; stir in milk and melted shortening. Add flour mixture to liquid ingredients and stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Add raisins. Pour batter into a well-greased 8-inch heat-resistant glass square cake dish. Bake in moderately hot (400 F.) oven for about 30 minutes or until done. Cut in squares and serve immediately.

Western Maryland Earnings Increase

Despite increased operating expenses from unfavorable weather conditions, Western Maryland Railway earnings in February continued to compare favorably with last year.

Aiding the company during the month was a pick up in shipments of steel for export to Latin America and imports of ore headed for the Pittsburgh area. This traffic more than made up for a slowing down of coal shipments.

Gross operating revenues were estimated at around $3,706,000 for last month, an increase of 20 percent, compared with $3,092,410 for February last year.

For the first time in a long period, miscellaneous traffic contributed a larger proportion of the month's freight revenues than coal and coke.

Gross operating revenues for the first two months of 1948 were estimated at approximately $7,580,000, compared with $6,473,371 for the similar period, a gain of 17 per cent.

Although transportation expenses were considerably larger than in the 1947 period, preliminary figures indicated that the company carried down about $435,000 to net income last month, compared with $274,088 for the month a year earlier. For the two months net income was figured tentatively at more than $900,000, a substantial gain over $711,544 for the similar 1947 period.

RURAL MAIL CARRIERS MAY RECEIVE RAISE

Legislation granting a one-cent increase in equipment maintenance fees for rural mail carriers has been passed by the House of Representatives and returned to the Senate for approval.

The six rural mail carriers operating from the Cumberland Post-office average about 30 miles apiece daily, and the raise would give them a total increase of $545.95.

The raise would range from $54.90 for Route 6 to $137.25 for Route 4. The carriers are now allowed six cents per mile for equipment maintenance.

Some opposition was voiced by officials of the department, who say the increase would cost the department $4,338,000 a year.

Commercial production of oxygen from the atmosphere became a reality about 30 years ago. High purity oxygen has many uses in industry, medicine and in aviation.

The WEEDER'S GUIDE

by KATE PERKINS

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y.—Toni, like all her brothers and sisters in the cat world, is a luxury-loving creature who has the most comfortable spots in the house carefully tagged as her special napping places.

At least, she used to. Now that I have a couple of flats carefully planted and placed in a sunny south window, she has completely changed her habits. She now scorns down pillows and deep chairs in favor of curling up comfortably on the damp soil. She even likes to spend the night on them. Hence she's ruined the petunias—and after a whole cheese box of seeds had germinated, too.

I guess the only solution is some of that stuff that keeps animals off furniture or a coarse screen placed over each lat. I hope the first has no evil effect on the seedlings or the second doesn't keep out any sunshine.

The lawn is the current big item on my agenda. I shall be the most amazed person in the world if so much as a sprig of grass comes through. People can talk all they want to about how wonderful a thick blanket of snow is, but what the melting ice and the burrowing animals have done to my greensward shouldn't happen to a creeping bent.

At the moment it looks like the Sargasso Sea and hip-boots are indicated for intrepid investigators. Time and drainage will take care of that, but it is going to take a heavy roller, a quantity of grass seed and considerable effort to repair the ravages wrought by field mice. At least I think it's the field mice who have cut a network of trenches all over the lot, because the channels look too narrow for moles.

The number one concern for my lawn rolling. I think a couple of good rollings in the spring are important, with the weight of the roller just heavy enough to press the crowns of the perennial plants back into the earth, but not so heavy they are crushed. This should be done when the ground is moist but not soggy.

Lawns grow best when they are supplied with potash, nitrogen and phosphorus—as what doesn't. For my half-acre, mostly lawn, I propose to dress it with about 200 pounds of a complete fertilizer (5-10-5 is my choice) spring and fall. If the soil were of higher fertility, I'd chop the size of the feeding in half. Incidentally, the best way to spread fertilizer (unless you've a fancy, scientific spreader) is to walk north and south making distributions of same, and then go over the same ground east and west. It insures a more even application.

I don't know whether the previous owners applied lime to the soil—it's only necessary once every two or three years. But I am going to give my lawn a good dressing this spring to alkalize the soil.

More average lawns—those that are not shown with bent grass—are ruined with lawn mowers than by moles. Close-clipped lawns may look fine on putting greens, but that's not the kind of grass most of us have around the house. Keep the cutting blades of the mower high—an inch and a half to two inches above the ground.

Frequent mowing does a better job than occasional close shaves. And, as the root system of most grass is renewed each spring, longer grass prevents mower-injury to the delicate new roots. Don't get out there with your lawn mower until the new crop is at least two inches high, even if the sun is shining warm and you want an early burn.

Keep mowing a little all the time, because in that way you can leave the clippings on the grass. This is a very good thing: You don't have to sweep it up, it supplies the ground with more food and it keeps the weed situation in hand by preventing them from seeding themselves.

Street Conditions Are Protested

By HELEN COLLETT

THOMAS, W. Va.—A protest was presented to the council members of Thomas at their meeting this week by Guy Lamont, who told of the condition of the road at Tony Row in Thomas.

He said streets which were filled even with sidewalks last summer with "Red Dog" have been badly damaged during the winter months, are now rough and full of holes, and that water retained by the holes is splashed on the sidewalk and pedestrians when traffic passes along the street.

The council voted to repair the street immediately.

Council also voted to take action on the project of installing sewer lines on the Bunker Hill section of Thomas at their next meeting. John Goss, street commissioner, gave an estimate of the tile pipe needed for the project and the city clerk was instructed to get an estimated cost of material needed prior to the April meeting.

The city engineer told council that the water pipe leak on Western Maryland Railway property in Thomas has been repaired. The leak is reported to have cost the company an extra $100 per month water bill.

The garbage collection department made complaints to the council that owners have been dumping their garbage in the alleys instead of leaving it in garbage cans to be collected by the city. Council voted to issue warnings of violations and further occurrance of the practice will result in fines.

A report was given to the council that $11,000 of the $33,000 reservoir debt has been paid with the remaining two-thirds to be paid before 1962 when the bonds expire.

Quicksand is a bed of sand containing enough water to lubricate the sand grains so that they can move readily over each other. In this condition sand will not support a heavy weight.

Two Veterans Join Pacific Engineers

Two veterans enlisted for duty with the Corps of Engineers in the Pacific Theater yesterday at the local Army and Air Force recruiting station and were sent to Baltimore for examination, Lt. George J. Gocke announced.

Floyd Elmer King, Route 3, Bedford Road, and Jack Richard Meister, 137 North Centre Street, enlisted for three years.

Street Conditions Are Protested

By HELEN COLLETT

THOMAS, W. Va.—A protest was presented to the council members of Thomas at their meeting this week by Guy Lamont, who told of the condition of the road at Tony Row in Thomas.

He said streets which were filled even with sidewalks last summer with "Red Dog" have been badly damaged during the winter months, are now rough and full of holes, and that water retained by the holes is splashed on the sidewalk and pedestrians when traffic passes along the street.

The council voted to repair the street immediately.

Council also voted to take action on the project of installing sewer lines on the Bunker Hill section of Thomas at their next meeting. John Goss, street commissioner, gave an estimate of the tile pipe needed for the project and the city clerk was instructed to get an estimated cost of material needed prior to the April meeting.

The city engineer told council that the water pipe leak on Western Maryland Railway property in Thomas has been repaired. The leak is reported to have cost the company an extra $100 per month water bill.

The garbage collection department made complaints to the council that owners have been dumping their garbage in the alleys instead of leaving it in garbage cans to be collected by the city. Council voted to issue warnings of violations and further occurrance of the practice will result in fines.

A report was given to the council that $11,000 of the $33,000 reservoir debt has been paid with the remaining two-thirds to be paid before 1962 when the bonds expire.

Quicksand is a bed of sand containing enough water to lubricate the sand grains so that they can move readily over each other. In this condition sand will not support a heavy weight.

Two Veterans Join Pacific Engineers

Two veterans enlisted for duty with the Corps of Engineers in the Pacific Theater yesterday at the local Army and Air Force recruiting station and were sent to Baltimore for examination, Lt. George J. Gocke announced.

Floyd Elmer King, Route 3, Bedford Road, and Jack Richard Meister, 137 North Centre Street, enlisted for three years.

Ridgeley Wins In Tourney; Fort Hill Plays WMI All-Stars

Hawks Defeat Hedgesville By Score Of 41-28

Moorefield, Kingwood Quints Meet Tonight

KEYSER, W. Va., March 11 — Ridgeley High School's basketball team moved into the finals of the West Virginia Region 4 scholastic basketball tournament tonight by defeating Hedgesville High School, winner of the Martinsburg sectional tourney, by the score of 41-28 at Potomac State gymnasium.

Coach Jesse Riggleman's Blackhawks will play in the finals on Saturday night against the winner of the Moorefield-Kingwood contest which is billed for tomorrow (Friday) night at 8 o'clock The victorious team in the Region No 4 tournament will go to West Virginia University to vie in the state championship tourney opening Thursday, March 18.

Ridgeley Given Scare

Hedgesville High of Berkeley county battled Ridgeley on practically even terms until midway in the second period when a fielder by Roy Comer broke a 9-9 deadlock and the Hawks were never headed. Ridgeley, however, did receive a scare early in the final stanza when the Eagles reeled off six consecutive points to pull up two points in the rear (27-25) with five minutes to play The Potomac Valley Conference champs shortly after spurted for six markers in a row to put the game on ice.

Ridgeley took a 4-1 lead in the first few minutes of play on baskets by Paul Lindsay and "Fats" Wilson. Danny McBee made a foul goal for Hedgesville. Then the Eagles moved out in front when Darrel Catlett connected with a one-handed shot, converted a re-bound for two more points and Dave Hull sank a set shot to give the Birds a 7-4 advantage in the first quarter with 2½ minute to go. Bill Brehany's free throw and fielder tied it up at 7-7 at the quarter whistle.

Comer Breaks 9-9 Tie

Catlett banged in a field goal to give Hedgesville a 9-7 edge as the second quarter got under way but Brehany hit the target from the field to knot the count at 9-9 with 4½ minutes to go. Baskets by Comer and Lindsay and Mike Lehman's foul made it 14-9, Ridgeley, at intermission.

Ridgeley held a six-point lead when the third period ended, 23-17. "Fats" Wilson's set shot made the margin eight points at the start of the final heat and here Hedgesville poured in six consecutive points to trail at 25-23 just 5½ minutes before the game ended. During the rally Catlett dumped in two fielders and a foul goal and Bob Shickle registered on a charity toss. Brehany and Shickle made double-deckers and the score was 27-25. Then Ridgeley sewed up the game by scoring eight points in succession—two fielders by Lindsay, one by Brehany and two fouls by Brehany. In the closing minutes Catlett scored a goal and foul, Comer sank two shots from the charity line and Brehany meshed two field goals.

Approximately 600 persons witnessed the game.

Twenty-nine personal fouls were called on the teams—14 on Hedgesville and 15 on Ridgeley—and David Hull was the lone player ejected. He committed his fifth personal foul 3½ minutes before the game ended.

Two Score 18 Points

Brehany and Darrel Catlett tied for high scoring honors with 18 points each. Each player rang up seven field goals and four single-point baskets.

Ridgeley held a 15-11 edge in baskets scored from the field and hooped 11 of 20 shots at the 15-foot line while Hedgesville was converting only 6 out of 17 shots. Lineups:

Six Of Manhattan's Nine Men Foul Out In NAIB Tournament

KANSAS CITY, March 11 (AP) — The University of Louisville Cardinals went highflying during the second half tonight to upset Beloit (Wis.) College, 85-76, and join the Hamline Pied Pipers in the semi-finals of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament.

The Cardinals put on a garrison finish after trailing 42-40 at the half-way post.

Hamline had eliminated Manhattan, 60-51, in the first of the night's four quarterfinals. The game had a comic opera finish when six of Manhattan's nine-men squad fouled out of the game, leaving the New Yorkers with only three men on the playing floor.

Indiana State of Terra Haute took the floor against San Jose (Calif.) State in the third game and Xavier of Cincinnati and Mankato (Minn.) State were down for the night's finale.

Al Zill, 52, Ohio Boxing Promoter Known Here, Dies

Brother Of Tony Zill Held Shows 30 Years

Al Zill, 52, nationally known fight promoter, died suddenly at his office in Youngstown, Ohio, on Monday, according to word received yesterday by "Vic" Ricker, matchmaker for Cumberland fistic shows.

Zill had been Youngstown's chief boxing promoter for 30 years.

Al was a brother of Tony Zill, outstanding lightweight fighter of Youngstown in the 1020's. Tony appeared here once, fighting Tommy Phillips of McKeesport, Pa., for Matchmaker Calton "Funny" Newnam about 22 years ago.

In addition to being a fight promoter, Al Zill managed a number of good boxers. He brought Al Palmer, featherweight, to Cumberland to fight "Chick" Kansas and handled several other boxers in bouts here.

He promoted a number of outstanding fights in bygone days. Tops was the Morrie Schlaifer - Jimmy Jones battle which grossed $10,996 for the largest indoor gate in Youngstown. He also staged the Carl Tremaine-Rosy Stoy and the Bud Taylor-Rosy Stoy matches. Al promoted a number of bouts featuring Dick Evans, the hard-hitting welterweight, who was the victim of a sensational knockout at the hands of Mike Kearney of Huntington, W. Va., in Cumberland in the 1920s.

Surviving are four sisters and two brothers, Tony and Jimmy, both of whom were boxers. At the time of his death Al was associated with his brother Jimmy in an organization called Zill attractions. It was a booking office where many of the night club performers received their booking at Ohio night clubs.

Alexander Is Leader In Jacksonville Golf

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Skip Alexander, six foot two inch Lexington, N. C., professional, rolled in with a 33-34—67 late this afternoon to take the first day lead in the Jacksonville Invitational Golf Tournament.

He slipped into first place ahead of Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans and Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, who earlier posted 68.

Several days of heavy rain left water standing on many fairways of the par 72, 6282-yard Brentwood Municipal Course. An emergency drainage ditch across the roughly parallel ninth, first, tenth and eighteenth fairways took away a lot of the water but some was still left to bother the golfers.

The obstructions, along with intermittent showers, failed to slow down the front running 29-year-old Alexander. He birdied six holes and went over par only on the 160-yard par three sixth.

Western Kentucky And St. Louis Take NIT Cage Battles

LaSalle Loses, 68-61 Billikens Score, 69-53

NEW YORK, March 11 (INS)—St. Louis and Western Kentucky, both favorites, advanced to the semi-finals of the national invitation basketball tournament by winning the first two games of the post-season tourney at Madison Square Garden tonight.

St. Louis conquered Bowling Green, 69 to 53, and Western Kentucky, top-seeded, beat LaSalle of Philadelphia, 68 to 61. St. Louis margin of victory was much larger than had been expected.

The two winners, in the upper half of the eight-team draw, will clash at the Garden next Monday night.

St. Louis used its famed quick attack to stage several spurts in the first half of the second game. The Billikens had to be fast because they were up against the tourney's tallest men in Bowling Green's 6-10 Charley Share, 6-6 Mac Otten, 6-6 Stan Weber and 6-4 John Payak.

With these towering Falcons blocking up the middle, the smooth ball-handling St. Louis kids had to relay on their outside game to take the upper hand. Bob Schmidt, Marvin Schatzmann and Dan Miller dropped in one-handed sets to move out into a 9-6 lead.

In an answering drive climaxed by Payak's short one-hander, Bowling Green tied the score at 11-all. The St. Louis kids came right back with a tremendous spurt that netted them 13 more points while holding Bowling Green scoreless.

Brilliant Bowling Green foul shooting at this point made it closer for a while, Otten sinking three straight free throws and Leo Kubiak a fourth. The Falcons, however, then became disorganized and messed up a series of passes. By half time, St. Louis was in front by a 36-21 score, and Bowling Green looked thoroughly confused.

LaSalle Star Injured

LaSalle managed to stay with the Kentuckians at the start as long as Bob McCann, spark plug of the Philadelphians, was flipping key shots and setting up baskets. However, when McCann twisted his left knee at the 15-minute mark, the game—which had been tied four times—quickly swung the way of the favored Southerners.

Don Ray and Oran McKinney of Western Kentucky started hooking in sensational shots, and Tiny Dee Gibson dropped in set shots that also helped in accounting for the Southerners' 35 to 27 edge at halftime.

Western Kentucky continued in high gear in the second half, running up the count to 41-27 in the first minute. Ray, McKinney, Gibson and Johnny Oldham led the parade with an assortment of baskets that looked tough but were easy for them.

Then, after trailing 66-51 with only two minutes of play remaining, Larry Foust, the 6-9 center, sparked a LaSalle rally which had the crowd of 17,179 fans in a frenzy.

Just as the buzzer sounded, Foust's rebound tap dropped through the cords to put the game half a point under the 7½ point odds favoring Western Kentucky.

Score 27th Victory

The Southerners thus racked up their 27th victory of the season as against only one defeat.

Negro Net Star Wins

NEW YORK, March 11. (INS)—Dr. Reginald S. Weir of New York City, first negro ever to compete in a national tennis championship sponsored by the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association, made an auspicious start today in the 45th national indoor title tournament.

Weir defeated Tom Lewyn, of Scarsdale, N. Y., 6-4, 6-2.

Flanagan Names Choices ★ ★ ★ ★ Jack George In Demand

Lou Bell Earns Honors ★ ★ ★ ★ Andy Will Not Turn Pro

By C. V. BURNS

Barring a darkhorse, Charleston and Princeton loom as the leading contenders for the West Virginia schoolboy basketball championship, is the opinion expressed by Carl Flanagan, former Parsons and Ridgeley resident, now coaching teams at Winfield High School, a Putnam county community with a population of 320.

Winfield, incidentally, was named in honor of General Winfield Scott, of Mexican War fame.

"Mark Workman, Charleston's 6-foot 9 center is the outstanding player in this area," Flanagan writes. "He has averaged better than 30 points per game and in the sectional tourney against East Bank he scored 64 points. The final score was 103-48. So you can see he is a whiz.

"Princeton won 19 straight before losing its season final to Huntington.

"Wheeling seems to be the power in the North. However, Charleston beat them decisively a couple of weeks ago."

Flanagan added that he was pleased to learn Ridgeley High School made the Region 4 tournament as did Moorefield.

"However, I do not feel the Region 4 winner will be a strong contender for the state title. That region has produced only one state champion—Parsons High School of 1934," he concluded.

●—●—●

When the Southern Conference basketball tournament was held last week at Durham, N. C., the most talked about football player was Jack George, of St. John's Cadets, Washington, D. C.

No fewer than five schools have him "definitely agreed" to enroll in their institutions.

George is also St. John's basketball ace and played here against LaSalle the past two seasons.

The highest foul shooting average we've seen around here for some time is owned by Lou Bell, the perpetual motion guard of the Cumberland Dukes of the All-American Pro Basketball League.

Lou has figured in all of the 23 league games by the local aggregation. He has stepped to the 15-foot line 68 times and has sent the ball spinning through the meshes on 54 occasions. This is a remarkable average of .794—or four points in every five tries.

Bell is Cumberland's top scorer in the league with 286 points to his credit in 23 contests, an average of 12.43 per game.

The Dukes' sparkplug, incidentally, was among the five players recently picked by the Wheeling Puritans on their all-opponents' team. Lou and Charley Butler, former Notre Dame captain new with Youngstown, were selected as guards; Sweetwater Clifton, of Columbus, center, and "Hank" Zeller, former Pitt player with Altoona and Leo Mogus, Youngstown, forwards.

The Dukes' five top men have a foul shooting average of .710, which is a very creditable showing in the league.

Here's how they stand:

	Games	Fouls	Pct.
Geatz	23	49-64	.761
Pence	17	54-76	.711
Oberhaus	21	37-54	.685
Orndorff	20	44-73	.603
Bell	23	54-68	.794

Bob Pence, the Dukes' set shot artist, has averaged 16.47 points per game in 17 league engagements. He's trailing Bell in the scoring department by six tallies. Bob's total is 280.

Andy "Sandman" Quattrocchi suffered the first defeat of his college boxing career the other night in the 130-pound finals of the Southern Conference Tournament.

The New Yorker has TKO'd 10 opponents, won two decisions, won one bout by forfeit and lost to Elerson Fowler of South Carolina in two seasons at the University of Maryland.

Prior to his first defeat Andy scored six kayoes this season—all before one minute of the second round had elapsed.

Quattrocchi theorizes that 60 per cent good boxing is due to conditioning, the other 40 per cent to coaching. Here, he explains, is the main difference between professional and amateur boxing.

"An amateur usually only trains hard just before a fight, while with the pro it's a job; he gets up in the morning and does his road work, and in the afternoon boxes—day after day. It's a rough life," the 22-year old sophomore emuhasises.

Andy says he will not fight as a pro. All he wants is a good coaching job.

Roach Conceded Chance To Upset Cerdan Tonight

Latter Is 11-5 Choice For Fight In Garden

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Give Lavern Roach, 22-year-old Texas ring rookie, a solid chance to upset the 11 to 5 favored Marcel Cerdan of France tomorrow night in the Madison Square Garden battle pit.

This is the big one for the exmarine from Plainview with a possible middleweight title bout at stake for the winner. It also is boxing's big opportunity to uncover one bright new face to relieve the monotony of revived oldtimers. Unfortunately, all are not as well-preserved as Gus Lesnevich.

Roach has a 10-year youth advantage over the European champ who never has lost in this country. Going into the 10-round bout, Marcel has won 32 fights in a row, four in North America. The Texan, improving with each start and yet to reach his peak, has won his last 19 starts.

Although the trade has established the veteran Cerdan as a stickout choice, the truth of the matter is that both are doubful factors on the big time. Despite European success, Marcel just squeaked past Georgia Abrams, knocked out Harold Green and Billy Walker and barely decisioned Anton Raadik. In fact Raadik, the hard-punching Estonian, floored the Frenchman three times in the last round at Chicago.

Must Prove Class

The Texan's real class has yet to be proved, despite his impressive performance against a washed-out Tony Janiro in January. Manager Johnny Abood, assisted by Chris Dundee, has brought him along slowly. He's lost only to Artie Towne, an obscure battler, in 25 fights. The Janiro show proved Nat Fleischer was right when he called him "rookie of the year for 1947."

Lavern's handlers had to guarantee Janiro $15,000 to get him into the ring with him. After paying off, they wound up with only $3,900 as their share of the purse. This time it's 30 percent for Cerdan and 25 for Roach with the Garden predicting a crowd of 15,000 and a gate of more than $70,000.

Over on Second Avenue in an obscure gym, Manager Abood has been giving Roach some private instructions. No secret stuff but just a little quiet advice away from the "buttinsky's" around Stillman's.

There is little question about Roach's style. He has to get inside to get his man. A forceful body puncher with a good left hand, he realizes he must carry the fight to the flurrying Cerdan from the start. Abrams, who has sparred with Roach, thinks he has a good chance.

Good Fight Expected

Marcel, always busy and banking heavily on his ability to get the jump on his opponent with his furious attack, also figures to come out swinging. It has all the earmarks of one of the best fights of the winter. At least it has attracted much more talk among the managers and hangers-on than any other. Roach expects to weigh 157, Cerdan 159.

The handsome Jerseyite who won the world's, olympic and European figure skating titles for the United States was given a citation "for distinguished and exceptional public service" by Vincent R. Impelliteri, acting mayor of New York City.

Then nearly 20,000 Englewood admirers cheered Button during a parade honoring their youthful fellow-townsman.

Fans Will Like Zadell's Style, Basco Predicts

Sellout Is Indicated For Go With Angott

Rudy Zadell, 20-year-old Akron, Ohio, 140-pounder, has never been knocked out and he's confident that Sammy Angott, former lightweight champion, can't stop him when they meet in the 10-round feature match at the State Armory on Monday night.

Joseph R. Basco, Zadell's manager, says Rudy looks more like a high school student than a fighter. The Ohio boxer is the father of two children, a girl and boy, the latter four weeks old.

Zadell Will Do His Best

"Cumberland fans can be assured that Zadell will be doing his best against Angott Monday night as he knows that a win over Sammy will give him the chance he wants to fight other topnotchers," Basco writes.

Rudy recently returned from South Africa where he won from Alfie James, the welterweight champion of that country and Maurice Quezmann, Frenchman. He has stopped such boys as Johnny Virgo, Chucho Llanes, Nello Nucelli, Roy Lewis, George Hutson and decisioned Mike Martyk, Johnny Chatmon, Dave Marsh, Irish Ray Miller, Joe Miller and Stanley Cieslak.

The first fighter Basco ever showed in Cumberland was K. O. Circus—and that's been about 25 years ago. "Chuck" Burns, Lloyd Pine and Cleo McNeal were others from the Basco stable to show their wares here.

"I'm willing to gamble that after the fans see Zadell next week they'll say that he is the best I've ever brought to Cumberland," Basco says. "Win or lose this boy will make a hit there."

Sellout Is Indicated

There is every indication that next Monday's show will be a sellout judging from the demand for tickets.

Leonard Little is promoter of the show with "Vic" Ricker as matchmaker.

The first of the five bouts will get under way at 8 o'clock. Thirty three-minute rounds of boxing are offered.

National Football Champs To Receive Notre Dame Trophy

Cup Will Go To Winner Of AP Poll This Year

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 11 (AP) —A new trophy for the 1948 national collegiate football championship will be put in play by the University of Notre Dame, whose undefeated 1947 team retired the Dr. Henry L. Williams trophy.

The Notre Dame National Monogram Club announced today it would present the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell Memorial Trophy to the 1948 national champion as determined by the Associated Press poll. It will go permanently to any school winning it three times.

The new cup honors the memory of the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., a letter winner on the 1915 Notre Dame football team, first president of the Monogram Club in 1916, and university president from 1939 to 1946. He died June 12, 1947.

Jack F. Rissman, Chicago sportsman, offered the first trophy emblematic of the national gridiron championship in 1924. Notre Dame retired the Rissman Trophy in 1930 and put the Knute K. Rockne Trophy in competition. Minnesota retired the Rockne Trophy in 1940 and its "M" club donated the Dr. Henry L. Williams Trophy in honor of the Golden Gopher coach from 1900 to 1921.

Winners of the Rissman and Rockne Trophies were determined annually by the Dr. Frank G. Dickinson rating system. The Williams Trophy was awarded on the basis of the final Associated Press poll each season.

Notre Dame was the first winner of the Rissman Trophy, but it went in succession to Dartmouth, Stanford, Illinois and Southern California before the Irish won two more legs in 1929 and 1930.

Southern California won the first leg of the Rockne Trophy in 1931 and then it moved to Michigan for a two-year stay. Minnesota won it in 1934. It moved the next year to Southern Methodist, then back to Minnesota, to Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Southern California and finally to Minnesota.

Minnesota got one leg on the Williams cup in 1941. It traveled to Ohio State in 1942, Notre Dame in 1943, Army in 1944 and 1945. The Irish retired it by winning the AP poll in 1946 and 1947—two undefeated seasons marred only by a scoreless tie with Army in 1946.

Ridgeley Wins In Tourney; Fort Hill Plays WMI All-Stars

Moorefield, Kingwood Quints Meet Tonight

KEYSER, W. Va., March 11 — Ridgeley High School's basketball team moved into the finals of the West Virginia Region 4 scholastic basketball tournament tonight by defeating Hedgesville High School, winner of the Martinsburg sectional tourney, by the score of 41-28 at Potomac State gymnasium.

Coach Jesse Riggleman's Blackhawks will play in the finals on Saturday night against the winner of the Moorefield-Kingwood contest which is billed for tomorrow (Friday) night at 8 o'clock. The victorious team in the Region No 4 tournament will go to West Virginia University to vie in the state championship tourney opening Thursday, March 18.

Ridgeley Given Scare

Hedgesville High of Berkeley county battled Ridgeley on practically even terms until midway in the second period when a fielder by Roy Comer broke a 9-9 deadlock and the Hawks were never headed. Ridgeley, however, did receive a scare early in the final stanza when the Eagles reeled off six consecutive points to pull up two points in the rear (27-25) with five minutes to play. The Potomac Valley Conference champs shortly after spurted for six markers in a row to put the game on ice.

Ridgeley took a 4-1 lead in the first few minutes of play on baskets by Paul Lindsay and "Fats" Wilson. Danny McBee made a foul goal for Hedgesville. Then the Eagles moved out in front when Darrel Catlett connected with a one-handed shot, converted a re-bound for two more points and Dave Hull sank a set shot to give the Birds a 7-4 advantage in the first quarter with 2½ minute to go. Bill Brehany's free throw and fielder tied it up at 7-7 at the quarter whistle.

Comer Breaks 9-9 Tie

Catlett banged in a field goal to give Hedgesville a 9-7 edge as the second quarter got under way but Brehany hit the target from the field to knot the count at 9-9 with 4½ minutes to go. Baskets by Comer and Lindsay and Mike Lehman's foul made it 14-9, Ridgeley, at intermission.

Ridgeley held a six-point lead when the third period ended, 23-17. "Fats" Wilson's set shot made the margin eight points at the start of the final heat and here Hedgesville poured in six consecutive points to trail at 25-23 just 5½ minutes before the game ended. During the rally Catlett dumped in two fielders and a foul goal and Bob Shickle registered on a charity toss. Brehany and Shickle made double-deckers and the score was 27-25. Then Ridgeley sewed up the game by scoring eight points in succession—two fielders by Lindsay, one by Brehany and two fouls by Brehany. In the closing minutes Catlett scored a goal and foul, Comer sank two shots from the charity line and Brehany meshed two field goals.

Approximately 600 persons witnessed the game.

Twenty-nine personal fouls were called on the teams—14 on Hedgesville and 15 on Ridgeley—and David Hull was the lone player ejected. He committed his fifth personal foul 3½ minutes before the game ended.

Two Score 18 Points

Brehany and Darrel Catlett tied for high scoring honors with 18 points each. Each player rang up seven field goals and four single-point baskets.

Ridgeley held a 15-11 edge in baskets scored from the field and hooped 11 of 20 shots at the 15-foot line while Hedgesville was converting only 6 out of 17 shots. Lineups:

Six Of Manhattan's Nine Men Foul Out In NAIB Tournament

KANSAS CITY, March 11 (AP) — The University of Louisville Cardinals went highflying during the second half tonight to upset Beloit (Wis.) College, 85-76, and join the Hamline Pied Pipers in the semi-finals of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament.

The Cardinals put on a garrison finish after trailing 42-40 at the half-way post.

Hamline had eliminated Manhattan, 60-51, in the first of the night's four quarterfinals. The game had a comic opera finish when six of Manhattan's nine-men squad fouled out of the game, leaving the New Yorkers with only three men on the playing floor.

Indiana State of Terra Haute took the floor against San Jose (Calif.) State in the third game and Xavier of Cincinnati and Mankato (Minn.) State were down for the night's finale.

Al Zill, 52, Ohio Boxing Promoter Known Here, Dies

Brother Of Tony Zill Held Shows 30 Years

Al Zill, 52, nationally known fight promoter, died suddenly at his office in Youngstown, Ohio, on Monday, according to word received yesterday by "Vic" Ricker, matchmaker for Cumberland fistic shows.

Zill had been Youngstown's chief boxing promoter for 30 years.

Al was a brother of Tony Zill, outstanding lightweight fighter of Youngstown in the 1020's. Tony appeared here once, fighting Tommy Phillips of McKeesport, Pa., for Matchmaker Calton "Funny" Newnam about 22 years ago.

In addition to being a fight promoter, Al Zill managed a number of good boxers. He brought Al Palmer, featherweight, to Cumberland to fight "Chick" Kansas and handled several other boxers in bouts here.

He promoted a number of outstanding fights in bygone days. Tops was the Morrie Schlaifer - Jimmy Jones battle which grossed $10,996 for the largest indoor gate in Youngstown. He also staged the Carl Tremaine-Rosy Stoy and the Bud Taylor-Rosy Stoy matches. Al promoted a number of bouts featuring Dick Evans, the hard-hitting welterweight, who was the victim of a sensational knockout at the hands of Mike Kearney of Huntington, W. Va., in Cumberland in the 1920s.

Surviving are four sisters and two brothers, Tony and Jimmy, both of whom were boxers. At the time of his death Al was associated with his brother Jimmy in an organization called Zill attractions. It was a booking office where many of the night club performers received their booking at Ohio night clubs.

Alexander Is Leader In Jacksonville Golf

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Skip Alexander, six foot two inch Lexington, N. C., professional, rolled in with a 33-34—67 late this afternoon to take the first day lead in the Jacksonville Invitational Golf Tournament.

He slipped into first place ahead of Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans and Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, who earlier posted 68.

Several days of heavy rain left water standing on many fairways of the par 72, 6282-yard Brentwood Municipal Course. An emergency drainage ditch across the roughly parallel ninth, first, tenth and eighteenth fairways took away a lot of the water but some was still left to bother the golfers.

The obstructions, along with intermittent showers, failed to slow down the front running 29-year-old Alexander. He birdied six holes and went over par only on the 160-yard par three sixth.

Western Kentucky And St. Louis Take NIT Cage Battles

LaSalle Loses, 68-61 Billikens Score, 69-53

NEW YORK, March 11 (INS)—St. Louis and Western Kentucky, both favorites, advanced to the semi-finals of the national invitation basketball tournament by winning the first two games of the post-season tourney at Madison Square Garden tonight.

St. Louis conquered Bowling Green, 69 to 53, and Western Kentucky, top-seeded, beat LaSalle of Philadelphia, 68 to 61. St. Louis margin of victory was much larger than had been expected.

The two winners, in the upper half of the eight-team draw, will clash at the Garden next Monday night.

St. Louis used its famed quick attack to stage several spurts in the first half of the second game. The Billikens had to be fast because they were up against the tourney's tallest men in Bowling Green's 6-10 Charley Share, 6-6 Mac Otten, 6-6 Stan Weber and 6-4 John Payak.

With these towering Falcons blocking up the middle, the smooth ball-handling St. Louis kids had to relay on their outside game to take the upper hand. Bob Schmidt, Marvin Schatzmann and Dan Miller dropped in one-handed sets to move out into a 9-6 lead.

In an answering drive climaxed by Payak's short one-hander, Bowling Green tied the score at 11-all. The St. Louis kids came right back with a tremendous spurt that netted them 13 more points while holding Bowling Green scoreless.

Brilliant Bowling Green foul shooting at this point made it closer for a while, Otten sinking three straight free throws and Leo Kubiak a fourth. The Falcons, however, then became disorganized and messed up a series of passes. By half time, St. Louis was in front by a 36-21 score, and Bowling Green looked thoroughly confused.

LaSalle Star Injured

LaSalle managed to stay with the Kentuckians at the start as long as Bob McCann, spark plug of the Philadelphians, was flipping key shots and setting up baskets. However, when McCann twisted his left knee at the 15-minute mark, the game—which had been tied four times—quickly swung the way of the favored Southerners.

Don Ray and Oran McKinney of Western Kentucky started hooking in sensational shots, and Tiny Dee Gibson dropped in set shots that also helped in accounting for the Southerners' 35 to 27 edge at halftime.

Western Kentucky continued in high gear in the second half, running up the count to 41-27 in the first minute. Ray, McKinney, Gibson and Johnny Oldham led the parade with an assortment of baskets that looked tough but were easy for them.

Then, after trailing 66-51 with only two minutes of play remaining, Larry Foust, the 6-9 center, sparked a LaSalle rally which had the crowd of 17,179 fans in a frenzy.

Just as the buzzer sounded, Foust's rebound tap dropped through the cords to put the game half a point under the 7½ point odds favoring Western Kentucky.

Score 27th Victory

The Southerners thus racked up their 27th victory of the season as against only one defeat.

Weir defeated Tom Lewyn, of Scarsdale, N. Y., 6-4, 6-2.

Flanagan Names Choices ★ ★ ★ ★ Jack George In Demand

Lou Bell Earns Honors ★ ★ ★ ★ Andy Will Not Turn Pro

By C. V. BURNS

Barring a darkhorse, Charleston and Princeton loom as the leading contenders for the West Virginia schoolboy basketball championship, is the opinion expressed by Carl Flanagan, former Parsons and Ridgeley resident, now coaching teams at Winfield High School, a Putnam county community with a population of 320.

Winfield, incidentally, was named in honor of General Winfield Scott, of Mexican War fame.

"Mark Workman, Charleston's 6-foot 9 center is the outstanding player in this area," Flanagan writes. "He has averaged better than 30 points per game and in the sectional tourney against East Bank he scored 64 points. The final score was 103-48. So you can see he is a whiz.

"Princeton won 19 straight before losing its season final to Huntington.

"Wheeling seems to be the power in the North. However, Charleston beat them decisively a couple of weeks ago."

Flanagan added that he was pleased to learn Ridgeley High School made the Region 4 tournament as did Moorefield.

"However, I do not feel the Region 4 winner will be a strong contender for the state title. That region has produced only one state champion—Parsons High School of 1934," he concluded.

●—●—●

When the Southern Conference basketball tournament was held last week at Durham, N. C., the most talked about football player was Jack George, of St. John's Cadets, Washington, D. C.

No fewer than five schools have him "definitely agreed" to enroll in their institutions.

George is also St. John's basketball ace and played here against LaSalle the past two seasons.

The highest foul shooting average we've seen around here for some time is owned by Lou Bell, the perpetual motion guard of the Cumberland Dukes of the All-American Pro Basketball League.

Lou has figured in all of the 23 league games by the local aggregation. He has stepped to the 15-foot line 68 times and has sent the ball spinning through the meshes on 54 occasions. This is a remarkable average of .794—or four points in every five tries.

Bell is Cumberland's top scorer in the league with 286 points to his credit in 23 contests, an average of 12.43 per game.

The Dukes' sparkplug, incidentally, was among the five players recently picked by the Wheeling Puritans on their all-opponents' team. Lou and Charley Butler, former Notre Dame captain new with Youngstown, were selected as guards; Sweetwater Clifton, of Columbus, center, and "Hank" Zeller, former Pitt player with Altoona and Leo Mogus, Youngstown, forwards.

●—●—●

The Dukes' five top men have a foul shooting average of .710, which is a very creditable showing in the league.

Here's how they stand:

	Games	Fouls	Pct.
Geatz	23	49-64	.761
Pence	17	54-76	.711
Oberhaus	21	37-54	.685
Orndorff	20	44-73	.603
Bell	23	54-68	.794

Bob Pence, the Dukes' set shot artist, has averaged 16.47 points per game in 17 league engagements. He's trailing Bell in the scoring department by six tallies. Bob's total is 280.

Andy "Sandman" Quattrocchi suffered the first defeat of his college boxing career the other night in the 130-pound finals of the Southern Conference Tournament.

The New Yorker has TKO'd 10 opponents, won two decisions, won one bout by forfeit and lost to Elerson Fowler of South Carolina in two seasons at the University of Maryland.

Prior to his first defeat Andy scored six kayoes this season—all before one minute of the second round had elapsed.

Quattrocchi theorizes that 60 per cent good boxing is due to conditioning, the other 40 per cent to coaching. Here, he explains, is the main difference between professional and amateur boxing.

"An amateur usually only trains hard just before a fight, while with the pro it's a job; he gets up in the morning and does his road work, and in the afternoon boxes—day after day. It's a rough life," the 22-year old sophomore emuhasises.

Andy says he will not fight as a pro. All he wants is a good coaching job.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 11 (AP)—A high Russian sports official said today the Soviet will decide "in the near future" on whether to send a team to the Olympic Games in London.

Ivan Nikiforov, vice chairman of the Soviet All-Union committee of sports, denied the committee had decided against representation in the games.

"The Soviet sports committee will soon meet," he said. "I think the Olympic committee will have an answer from us in the near future."

Roach Conceded Chance To Upset Cerdan Tonight

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Give Lavern Roach, 22-year-old Texas ring rookie, a solid chance to upset the 11 to 5 favored Marcel Cerdan of France tomorrow night in the Madison Square Garden battle pit.

This is the big one for the ex-marine from Plainview with a possible middleweight title bout at stake for the winner. It also is boxing's big opportunity to uncover one bright new face to relieve the monotony of revived oldtimers. Unfortunately, all are not as well-preserved as Gus Lesnevich.

Roach has a 10-year youth advantage over the European champ who never has lost in this country. Going into the 10-round bout, Marcel has won 32 fights in a row, four in North America. The Texan, improving with each start and yet to reach his peak, has won his last 19 starts.

Although the trade has established the veteran Cerdan as a stickout choice, the truth of the matter is that both are doubtful factors on the big time. Despite European success, Marcel just squeaked past Georgia Abrams, knocked out Harold Green and Billy Walker and barely decisioned Anton Raadik. In fact Raadik, the hard-punching Estonian, floored the Frenchman three times in the last round at Chicago.

Must Prove Class

The Texan's real class has yet to be proved, despite his impressive performance against a washed-out Tony Janiro in January. Manager Johnny Abood, assisted by Chris Dundee, has brought him along slowly. He's lost only to Artie Towne, an obscure battler, in 25 fights. The Janiro show proved Nat Fleischer was right when he called him "rookie of the year for 1947."

Lavern's handlers had to guarantee Janiro $15,000 to get him into the ring with him. After paying off, they wound up with only $3,900 as their share of the purse. This time it's 30 percent for Cerdan and 25 for Roach with the Garden predicting a crowd of 15,000 and a gate of more than $70,000.

Over on Second Avenue in an obscure gym, Manager Abood has been giving Roach some private instructions. No secret stuff but just a little quiet advice away from the "buttinsky's" around Stillman's.

There is little question about Roach's style. He has to get inside to get his man. A forceful body puncher with a good left hand, he realizes he must carry the fight to the flurrying Cerdan from the start. Abrams, who has sparred with Roach, thinks he has a good chance.

Good Fight Expected

Marcel, always busy and banking heavily on his ability to get the jump on his opponent with his furious attack, also figures to come out swinging. It has all the earmarks of one of the best fights of the winter. At least it has attracted much more talk among the managers and hangers-on than any other. Roach expects to weigh 157, Cerdan 159.

Dick Button, Olympic Skating Hero, Acclaimed

NEW YORK, March 11 (INS) — Dick Button, Olympic skating hero, received the acclaim of New York City and of his home town of Englewood, N. J. today.

The handsome Jerseyite who won the world's, olympic and European figure skating titles for the United States was given a citation "for distinguished and exceptional public service" by Vincent R. Impelliteri, acting mayor of New York City.

Then nearly 20,000 Englewood admirers cheered Button during a parade honoring their youthful fellow-townsman.

Fans Will Like Zadell's Style, Basco Predicts

Sellout Is Indicated For Go With Angott

Rudy Zadell, 20-year-old Akron, Ohio, 140-pounder, has never been knocked out and he's confident that Sammy Angott, former lightweight champion, can't stop him when they meet in the 10-round feature match at the State Armory on Monday night.

Joseph R. Basco, Zadell's manager, says Rudy looks more like a high school student than a fighter. The Ohio boxer is the father of two children, a girl and boy, the latter four weeks old.

Zadell Will Do His Best

"Cumberland fans can be assured that Zadell will be doing his best against Angott Monday night as he knows that a win over Sammy will give him the chance he wants to fight other topnotchers," Basco writes.

Rudy recently returned from South Africa where he won from Alfie James, the welterweight champion of that country and Maurice Quezmann, Frenchman. He has stopped such boys as Johnny Virgo, Chucho Llanes, Nello Nucelli, Roy Lewis, George Hutson and decisioned Mike Martyk, Johnny Chatmon, Dave Marsh, Irish Ray Miller, Joe Miller and Stanley Cieslak.

The first fighter Basco ever showed in Cumberland was K. O. Circus and that's been about 25 years ago. "Chuck" Burns, Lloyd Pine and Cleo McNeal were others from the Basco stable to show their wares here.

"I'm willing to gamble that after the fans see Zadell next week they'll say that he is the best I've ever brought to Cumberland," Basco says. "Win or lose this boy will make a hit there."

Sellout Is Indicated

There is every indication that next Monday's show will be a sellout judging from the demand for tickets.

Leonard Little is promoter of the show with "Vic" Ricker as matchmaker.

The first of the five bouts will get under way at 8 o'clock. Thirty three-minute rounds of boxing are offered.

Hurley also said the boxing club would donate $5,000 to complete a $10,000 fund for the dead boxer's parents.

National Football Champs To Receive Notre Dame Trophy

Cup Will Go To Winner Of AP Poll This Year

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 11 (AP)—A new trophy for the 1948 national collegiate football championship will be put in play by the University of Notre Dame, whose undefeated 1947 team retired the Dr. Henry L. Williams trophy.

The Notre Dame National Monogram Club announced today it would present the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell Memorial Trophy to the 1948 national champion as determined by the Associated Press poll. It will go permanently to any school winning it three times.

The new cup honors the memory of the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., a letter winner on the 1915 Notre Dame football team, first president of the Monogram Club in 1916, and university president from 1939 to 1946. He died June 12, 1947.

Jack F. Rissman, Chicago sportsman, offered the first trophy emblematic of the national gridiron championship in 1924. Notre Dame retired the Rissman Trophy in 1930 and put the Knute K. Rockne Trophy in competition. Minnesota retired the Rockne Trophy in 1940 and its "M" club donated the Dr. Henry L. Williams Trophy in honor of the Golden Gopher coach from 1900 to 1921.

Winners of the Rissman and Rockne Trophies were determined annually by the Dr. Frank G. Dickinson rating system. The Williams Trophy was awarded on the basis of the final Associated Press poll each season.

Notre Dame was the first winner of the Rissman Trophy, but it went in succession to Dartmouth, Stanford, Illinois and Southern California before the Irish won two more legs in 1929 and 1930.

Southern California won the first leg of the Rockne Trophy in 1931 and then it moved to Michigan for a two-year stay. Minnesota won it in 1934. It moved the next year to Southern Methodist, then back to Minnesota, to Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Southern California and finally to Minnesota.

Minnesota got one leg on the Williams cup in 1941. It traveled to Ohio State in 1942, Notre Dame in 1943, Army in 1944 and 1945. The Irish retired it by winning the AP poll in 1946 and 1947—two undefeated seasons marred only by a scoreless tie with Army in 1946.

Kush Comes To Terms

CHICAGO, March 11. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs' solitary holdout, relief pitcher Emil Kush, came to terms today.

Kush, who had been sitting it out at home demanding a bigger raise than the Cubs wanted to pay, will leave tomorrow for the Bruin training camp at Los Angeles.

Right-hander Kush appeared in 47 games last season, chiefly as a "fireman," and finished with an 8-3 record.

Kush Comes To Terms

CHICAGO, March 11. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs' solitary holdout, relief pitcher Emil Kush, came to terms today.

Kush, who had been sitting it out at home demanding a bigger raise than the Cubs wanted to pay, will leave tomorrow for the Bruin training camp at Los Angeles.

Right-hander Kush appeared in 47 games last season, chiefly as a "fireman," and finished with an 8-3 record.

Rewards Are Offered For Missing Jockey And Two Companions

MIAMI, Fla., March 11 — (AP) — Horsemen posted rewards and made plans for a search of their own today for Jockey Al Snider and two companions missing for six days on a fishing trip in the Florida keys.

The Jockey Guild and the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association jointly offered $1,000 for finding each of the missing men, dead or alive. An additional $500 was offered to anyone locating the 16-foot plywood boat they were in when they disappeared last Friday.

Three friends of Snider had already posted $5,000 reward for anyone finding the men alive.

Missing with Snider are C. H. (Tobe) Trotter, Miami horse trainer, and Donald Frazier, businessman from Toronto, Canada.

CZECHS TO COMPETE IN OLYMPIC GAMES

PRAGUE, March 11 (AP)—Recent governmental changes will not affect Czechoslovakia's Olympic plans this summer, it was disclosed today.

Karel Popel, chairman of the action committee, a division of the national olympic committee, said about 200 athletes will make the trip to London.

Popel said the number making the trip would depend on how much foreign currency the national bank will allow. But with middle distance runner Emil Zatopek heading the team, Popel said he thought rowers, basketball players and gymnasts would compete.

Miami's Bookmakers Are Best Taxpayers

MIAMI, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Bookies are "probably the best taxpayers in Miami."

J. J. Brown, chief of the intelligence division of the Miami office of Bureau of Internal Revenue, says it isn't surprising. "They all hire topflight accountants."

About 15 years ago, 14 bookies were indicted here for income tax evasion and 13 convicted. Since then there has been little trouble, he said.

Brock Will Coach

GREEN BAY, Wis., March 11 (AP)—Charley Brock, Green Bay Parker center for nine years, has retired to take a coaching job.

Brock informed Coach E. L. (Curly) Lambeau of the local National Football League club that he had a job lined up as an assistant mentor but he declined to name the school.

Brock was twice chosen on the Associated Press all professional eleven.

CITATION WILL RACE AT MARYLAND MILER

MIAMI, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Citation, Calumet Farm's winner book favorite for the Kentucky Derby, will be shipped to Havre De Grace, Md., April 1.

Citation will be pointed either for the Chesapeake to be run at the Maryland track or the Wood Memorial at Jamaica. The Maryland event more than likely will get him.

Calumet's other Derby contender, Coaltown, will be shipped to Lexington.

Citation and Coaltown are expected to go into the Derby as an entry.

Rewards Are Offered For Missing Jockey And Two Companions

MIAMI, Fla., March 11 — (AP) — Horsemen posted rewards and made plans for a search of their own today for Jockey Al Snider and two companions missing for six days on a fishing trip in the Florida keys.

The Jockey Guild and the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association jointly offered $1,000 for finding each of the missing men, dead or alive. An additional $500 was offered to anyone locating the 16-foot plywood boat they were in when they disappeared last Friday.

Three friends of Snider had already posted $5,000 reward for anyone finding the men alive.

Missing with Snider are C. H. (Tobe) Trotter, Miami horse trainer, and Donald Frazier, businessman from Toronto, Canada.

CZECHS TO COMPETE IN OLYMPIC GAMES

PRAGUE, March 11 (AP)—Recent governmental changes will not affect Czechoslovakia's Olympic plans this summer, it was disclosed today.

Karel Popel, chairman of the action committee, a division of the national olympic committee, said about 200 athletes will make the trip to London.

Popel said the number making the trip would depend on how much foreign currency the national bank will allow. But with middle distance runner Emil Zatopek heading the team, Popel said he thought rowers, basketball players and gymnasts would compete.

Miami's Bookmakers Are Best Taxpayers

MIAMI, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Bookies are "probably the best taxpayers in Miami."

About 15 years ago, 14 bookies were indicted here for income tax evasion and 13 convicted. Since then there has been little trouble, he said.

Voters Favor Charter Revision To Strengthen United Nations

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director,
American Institute of Public Opinion
PRINCETON, N. J., March 11—

More than six out of ten American voters today favor a rewriting of the United Nations charter to make the organization a stronger force for peace.

Harold E. Stassen, contender for the Republican presidential nomination, has recommended that a convention of nations be held in 1950 to amend and rewrite the charter. He said a major objective would be the elimination of the single nation veto.

An Institute survey recently asked this question of representative voters in all sections of the country:

"It has been suggested that a world convention of the United Nations be called in 1950 to amend and rewrite the U. N. Charter to make it a stronger organization. Do you approve or disapprove of this idea?"

The answers:

Hold Convention	63%
Don't Hold Convention	13
No Opinion	24

Previous surveys conducted by the Institute and its foreign affiliates have revealed a growing dissatisfaction with the progress of United Nations to date. However, despite their lack of enthusiasm over accomplishments this far, people both here and abroad show no sign of wanting to go backward by discarding the organization; instead they want to go forward and strengthen U. N. even to the point of making it in effect a world government.

Mr. Stassen's suggestion for a world convention is approved by almost eight out of ten American voters with a college education. Although proportionately fewer votes with less formal training approve the idea, the difference is accounted for by indecision rather than disapproval. This is shown in the following table:

	Hold Convention	Don't Hold Convention	No Opin.
College	78%	13%	9%
High School	64	14	22
Grammar	57	13	30

Geographically, there is considerable unanimity in voter opinion on the suggestion, with only the Western states giving it less support than the national average.

Main reasons in voters' minds for approving a convention are: U. N. should be made stronger; revision will be necessary by 1950; U. N. should be strong because of Russia's attitude; and veto power should be eliminated.

Those opposing a convention in 1950 say: the charter should be adhered to as it is; another meeting won't accomplish much; and a meeting should be held before 1950.

Mr. Stassen's recommendation has not been commented upon by Administration officials. The American Association for the United Nations this winter declared that it is not possible now to fix a date for a constitution to consider Charter revision. Problems facing the U. N. are not constitutional, according to the association, but political.

A Twentieth Century Fund survey reports that one-third of the American people live in areas without public libraries.

Only about 30 per cent of the American people see efficiently without visual aids.

Hungry! Try New Orleans

AP Newsfeatures

NEW ORLEANS, La—This is one city where a man can buy more than he can eat for a quarter—a Poor Boy for 15 cents, a cup of coffee and three fried cakes for a dime.

A Poor Boy is a whole loaf of French bread, cut lengthwise, the center taken out, and the cavity filled with roast beef, ham, cheese, tomatoes and lettuce.

"If this is more than you can believe, go to the French Market, buy a Poor Boy," Eleanor Early, author of "New Orleans Holiday," advises, "and see for yourself. Also get yourself a cup of French Market cafe au lait with three fried cakes for a dime."

Voters Favor Charter Revision To Strengthen United Nations

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director,
American Institute of Public Opinion
PRINCETON, N. J., March 11—

More than six out of ten American voters today favor a rewriting of the United Nations charter to make the organization a stronger force for peace.

Harold E. Stassen, contender for the Republican presidential nomination, has recommended that a convention of nations be held in 1950 to amend and rewrite the charter. He said a major objective would be the elimination of the single nation veto.

An Institute survey recently asked this question of representative voters in all sections of the country:

"It has been suggested that a world convention of the United Nations be called in 1950 to amend and rewrite the U. N. Charter to make it a stronger organization. Do you approve or disapprove of this idea?"

The answers:

Hold Convention	63%
Don't Hold Convention	13
No Opinion	24

Previous surveys conducted by the Institute and its foreign affiliates have revealed a growing dissatisfaction with the progress of United Nations to date. However, despite their lack of enthusiasm over accomplishments this far, people both here and abroad show no sign of wanting to go backward by discarding the organization; instead they want to go forward and strengthen U. N. even to the point of making it in effect a world government.

Mr. Stassen's suggestion for a world convention is approved by almost eight out of ten American voters with a college education. Although proportionately fewer votes with less formal training approve the idea, the difference is accounted for by indecision rather than disapproval. This is shown in the following table:

	Hold Convention	Don't Hold Convention	No Opin.
College	78%	13%	9%
High School	64	14	22
Grammar	57	13	30

Geographically, there is considerable unanimity in voter opinion on the suggestion, with only the Western states giving it less support than the national average.

Main reasons in voters' minds for approving a convention are: U. N. should be made stronger; revision will be necessary by 1950; U. N. should be strong because of Russia's attitude; and veto power should be eliminated.

Those opposing a convention in 1950 say: the charter should be adhered to as it is; another meeting won't accomplish much; and a meeting should be held before 1950.

Mr. Stassen's recommendation has not been commented upon by Administration officials. The American Association for the United Nations this winter declared that it is not possible now to fix a date for a constitution to consider Charter revision. Problems facing the U. N. are not constitutional, according to the association, but political.

A Twentieth Century Fund survey reports that one-third of the American people live in areas without public libraries.

Only about 30 per cent of the American people see efficiently without visual aids.

Hungry! Try New Orleans

AP Newsfeatures

NEW ORLEANS, La—This is one city where a man can buy more than he can eat for a quarter—a Poor Boy for 15 cents, a cup of coffee and three fried cakes for a dime.

A Poor Boy is a whole loaf of French bread, cut lengthwise, the center taken out, and the cavity filled with roast beef, ham, cheese, tomatoes and lettuce.

"If this is more than you can believe, go to the French Market, buy a Poor Boy," Eleanor Early, author of "New Orleans Holiday," advises, "and see for yourself. Also get yourself a cup of French Market cafe au lait with three fried cakes for a dime."

Parsons FFA Boys Will Attend Camp Tucker In August

All Agriculture Students Eligible

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va.—Cecil M. Stalnaker, advisor to Parsons Chapter, Future Farmers of America, has announced that the group is now making plans to attend Camp Tucker this August.

Stalnaker stated that all boys now enrolled in the Vocational Agriculture course in the high school, and boys who will enroll in the class in September, are eligible for enrollment at camp, provided their applications are received within the next week.

The enrollment, he said, will be limited, and first applications will be given preference. Stalnaker said that any former Vo-Ag students wishing to attend the camp may do so if their applications are received before the camp quota is reached.

Instructors for the camp week will be announced later.

Rat Counting Formula Made In Michigan

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A formula by which farmers can estimate how many rats live on their farms is offered by Michigan State college extension specialists:

If you never see rats, but see signs of rats and damage, there are 1 to 100 rats on the farm.

If you see rats now and then at night, there are 100 to 500.

If you see rats every night and occasionally in daytime, there are from 500 to 1,000.

If you see lots of rats at night and several every day, you are probably host to from 1,000 to 5,000.

Water Shortage Plagues Athens

ATHENS (AP)—Athens, swollen to 1,500,000 persons, faces a critical water shortage.

Private residences have running water only three hours every other day. Hotels, jammed full of Americans, British and French, have constant running water. They've been warned however, that if their consumption is not reduced 40 per cent, water will be apportioned them on a par with that to private residences.

Athens gets its water chiefly from the Marathon dam northwest of the city. Due to the recent drought and current consumption the dam has been nearly emptied.

A tunnel and aqueduct to connect the Kakosalesi torrent, 14 miles northwest of Marathon, with the reservoir is expected to be completed by the fall of 1949. The American Mission for aid to Greece is financing the project.

There are more than enough grouches to go around—making people feel unhappy.

Hagen ate the cheese, and while he was drinking the coffee he had won, he died. A piece of cheese had stuck in his throat and choked him to death.

It's A Mild Winter, Veterans Insist

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The Blizzard of '88 Association calls the winter of 1947-48 mild.

Even New York's 25.8-inch snowfall in December didn't impress the group's 226 members.

"What happened in New York," said J. Paul Janes, membership committee chairman, "was only a snowstorm.

"It had none of the terrific blinding qualities and high wind which paralyzed the entire economic and social life of the Atlantic seaboard for seven days back in '88."

The association is comprised of persons born on or before March 12, 1888, date of the famed blizzard.

Poland's Lawyers Are Told To Move

WARSAW, Poland — (AP) — The 9,000 lawyers in Poland are going to be re-shuffled and distributed more evenly.

Under plans of the ministry of justice, districts short on lawyers will get a supply of legal talent from cities and towns having too much of it.

The ministry says barristers will be given a chance to choose their new place of abode but those who balk will face compulsory transfers.

Nights in the desert are cold because the dry air of a desert is a poor blanket for holding the heat received through the day. Heat stored during the day is quickly radiated through the dry air and in two or three hours after sunset it begins to be cold.

Chokes To Death Over Cup Of Coffee

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — A friend bet 49-year-old Joseph Hagen the price of a cup of coffee that he could not eat 100 grams (3.6 ounces) of Swiss cheese in two minutes.

Hagen ate the cheese, and while he was drinking the coffee he had won, he died. A piece of cheese had stuck in his throat and choked him to death.

It's A Mild Winter, Veterans Insist

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The Blizzard of '88 Association calls the winter of 1947-48 mild.

Even New York's 25.8-inch snowfall in December didn't impress the group's 226 members.

"What happened in New York," said J. Paul Janes, membership committee chairman, "was only a snowstorm.

"It had none of the terrific blinding qualities and high wind which paralyzed the entire economic and social life of the Atlantic seaboard for seven days back in '88."

The association is comprised of persons born on or before March 12, 1888, date of the famed blizzard.

Keyser High School Student Wins American Legion Oratorical Contest

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER, W. Va.—John Gallion, 18-year-old Keyser High School senior, won first prize in the American Legion oratorical contest held in Romney Wednesday night.

The prize was a four-year scholarship to any West Virginia State-supported school. John, the son of A. V. Gallion, 72 West Piedmont Street, was also presented a pen and pencil set. Commander S. H. Stone, of the 10th District, made the presentation.

The Keyser youth won over entries from Romney, Paw Paw and Berkeley Springs. The topic of his oration was "The Rights We Defend." Gallion won in try-outs conducted at Keyser High School sometime ago over two other entrants. He was selected by Frank Calemine, member of the faculty, who has coached him since that time.

Calemine explained that Gallion will compete in the sectional contest to be held in the music room of Keyser High School next Wednesday, March 17, at 8 p. m. At this time winners of three districts will compete, with the winner going to Charleston to take part in the state contest.

Calemine said the winner in the state contest will go to the national contest to be held in Boston, Mass., sometime in May, when the winner will be awarded $5,000.

Three Men Fined

Entering pleas of guilty to charges of trespassing on Baltimore and Ohio property here, three men paid fines totaling $25 in Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle's court Wednesday afternoon.

The three men, Eugene Shingleton, Romney, Arnold J. Davis, Potomac Heights, Keyser, and Jacob Bunner, Keyser, were arrested by Capt. R. E. Shrout, special B. and O. policeman.

Shingleton and Davis were fined $10 each when it was learned it was not their first offense, and that they were selling coal taken from the coal dump. Bunner was fined $5 as Justice Bazzle said it was his first offense and evidence was given at the hearing that he was using the coal to heat his home when he had no other means of heat.

It was reported by local police that Capt. Shrout said that approximately 200 tons of coal had been taken from the dump by trespassers.

Mrs. A. B. Withers Rites

Leonard Withers, head of the music department, Potomac State School, left for Daytona Beach, Fla., yesterday after receiving word of the death of his mother, Mrs. A. B. Withers.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Withers, whose home is in Parkersburg, were spending the winter months at the Florida resort when death came to Mrs. Withers.

Tri-Towns Kindergarten Classes May Begin In Luke School Soon

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT — Plans for a Tri-Towns kindergarten, to be held in Luke School, are being completed by representatives of virtually all Tri-Towns organizations.

Present plans are to have classes at Luke School from Monday, March 29, until the end of June.

The hours are from 9 to 11:45 a. m. If sufficient interest in afternoon classes is shown, a similar class will be organized.

Any parent with a child of four or five years of age who is interested may get in touch with any of the committee, comprised of Mrs. Charles Bell, Mrs. Paul Bowman, treasurer, Mrs. Albert Kaiser, Mrs. Stuart Kuhnle, Mrs. Benjamin Mamolen and Mrs. Horace P. Whitworth, Jr.

Miss Christine Welsh, recent graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College and a primary grade major, will teach the class.

Evidence of the need for such a project in the Tri-Towns was amply shown by the quick response of parents and other interested people.

William G. Fatkin, principal of Luke School, aided in the kindergarten's establishment.

Miss Nellie Dowling, principal of Hammond Street School, Westernport, has presented a complete set of large building blocks for the class's use.

The Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company is supplying paint and labor to prepare the large room for occupancy.

John Laughlin, manual training teacher of Bruce High School, Westernport, is making many of the chairs and tables with lumber donated by Benjamin Mamolen.

Tri-Towns churches are giving the class kindergarten chairs and the clergy have endorsed this addition to the Tri-Towns educational facilities.

To raise funds for additional necessities required by the State Board of Education, it was decided to hold a public card party at St. James Parish House Tuesday, March 30, at 8 p. m. Mrs. Stuart Kuhnle and Mrs. Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., are co-chairmen at a committee composed of Mrs. Gordon Green, Mrs. Robert Nelson, Mrs. James Karam, Miss Christine Welsh and Mrs. Garland Cheshire. Tickets may be obtained from any of the kindergarten mothers.

Persons having any open faced bookcases or usable toys, such as dolls, cribs, doll carriages, small rocking chairs, wagons, games suitable for four and five-year-olds, are asked to call the committee.

J. J. Bobbit Rites

A funeral service for J. J. Bobbitt, about 55, brother-in-law of Mrs. Raymond W. Reeves, Main Street, Westernport, who was found dead on his farm near Louisburg, N. C., Wednesday will be held this afternoon at his home. Interment will be in the cemetery at Louisburg.

Mr. Bobbit was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bobbitt.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Mabel Sturdivant Bobbitt, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. M. McGhee, Bunn, N. C.; three sons, R. L. Bobbitt, Louisburg; J. H. Bobbitt, New Port News, Va. and Harold M. Bobbitt, at home; one brother, Eugene Bobbitt, Louisburg, and one sister, Mrs. Percy Gupton, Henderson, N. C.

Mrs. Reeves and her husband, Dr. Raymond W. Reeves, and children, John and Raymond Wilson Reeves, went to Louisburg to attend the funeral.

Girl Scouts Meet

Girl Scouts of the Tri-Towns will celebrate the birthday of Girl Scouting in a manner of their own choosing, it was decided at the March meeting of the Tri-Town Girl Scouts Lone Troop held Wednesday at the Piedmont Library.

Mrs. Alton R. Fortney was named chairman of the camping committee. Other members include Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector of St. James Episcopal Church; Mrs. Rex Chilcote, Mrs. Clyde Michael and Mrs. Raymond L. Moore. The regular monthly meeting of the organization was changed to the third Wednesday of each month.

Rotary Elects

Donald M. Mellor, Piedmont, was elected president of the Tri-Towns Rotary Club, succeeding Edmund Getty.

Other officers selected were Floyd Davis, vice president; George Boyd, treasurer; Harley Dixon, secretary, and Thomas V. McGuire, sergeant-at-arms.

The board of directors is composed of Dr. Robert W. Bess, Harry J. Biggs, Floyd Davis, Donald Mellor, Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, Harley Dixon and Edmund Getty.

The newly elected officers will be installed Wednesday, July 7.

Civic Club Meets

A donation of $5 to the Red Cross and a $10 monthly pledge to the Westernport Library was ordered at a meeting of the Westernport and Luke Civic Club recently with Miss Nellie Dowling, president in charge.

Mrs. Royland Seaber, chairman of the Welfare committee, requested donations of articles to be sent to State Hospitals.

Mrs. John W. Fisher, international chairman, announced a debate on the Marshall Plan will be given by members of the Civic Club and the Social Welfare Club at the next meeting.

An Easter play was given by Betty Miller, Violo Miller, Sue Ann Kalbaugh, Phillip Kalbaugh and Vernon Lutman, of First Baptist Church, Westernport.

A reading of poems was given by Mrs. Z. Clyde Kalbaugh. A vocal solo was presented by Mrs. Ann Grindle with piano accompaniment by Mrs. John W. Fisher. Mrs. Eldon Cook gave piano selections.

Mrs. George Brode, Mrs. Della Strickler and Mrs. Florence Dolan had charge of the program. Refreshments were served.

Brief Mention

The Bruce High School Orchestra and band, directed by Herman L. Dash, will give a concert at the school today 8 p. m. Feature soloist will be Robert Harmon, tubist, accompanied by Miss Elaine Orndorff.

Randolph Fears ITU'S Destruction

INDIANAPOLIS, March 11. (AP)—Woodruff Randolph poured out his story in court today—a story of fear that his International Typographical Union will be "destroyed" under the Taft-Hartley Act.

He testified three hours, fighting to ward off a Federal Court injunction aimed at him and his AFL union.

Randolph said "we believe" that the union's proposals are legal but "the employer sits glum and says 'no'" and "we are perplexed and quite at sea" over how to arrive at agreements.

He said much of the printing and publishing industry is "hostile"—the part that "goes along" with the advice of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Printing Industry of America.

He said the new labor law hits hard at the three conditions that are "vital to the continued existence" of the union, but that employers could legally protect two of them in contracts, if they would.

As for the third condition—not to work with non-union men—he denied that the union has asked for any closed shop contracts since the Taft-Hartley Act outlawed them last summer.

Randolph faces cross-examination tomorrow.

A temporary injunction is sought by the office of Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board.

Denham has charged Randolph and the union with several Taft-Hartley violations. The main one is: Trying to cause employers to discriminate against non-union men in hiring.

In his "Washington Merry-Go-Round" column Monday in the Mirror Pearson wrote:

"President Truman was talking to a New York publisher about Palestine.

"Pounding his desk, he made remarks about 'the — New York Jews.'

"'They're disloyal to their country. Disloyal!' he cried.

"'Would you explain that further, Mr. President?' interrupted the publisher, whose wife happens to be Jewish.

"'When you speak of New York Jews are you referring to such people as Bernard Baruch? Or are you referring such New York Jews as my wife?'

"Truman glared, assured his visitor he did not mean to include Baruch or the publisher's wife—then abruptly changed the subject."

Russian Who Shot GI Used "Dum Dum" Bullet

WASHINGTON, March 11—(AP)—The American commander at Vienna reported today that the Russian sentry who wounded an American soldier used "a rifle bullet of explosive dum dum type."

Moreover, Lt. Gen. Geoffrey Keys reported to Washington, the Russian version of the Sunday night shooting was "a complete distortion of facts."

Keys said the American member of the Vienna Inter-Allied Commission has made a preliminary protest to the Soviet area commander and requested he take action to prevent such incidents.

The use of "dum-dum" bullets, or those which expand on impact, was forbidden by an international declaration made at the Second Hague Conference, July 29, 1899. Russia signed the declaration.

Crash Survivor In Critical Condition

CHICAGO, March 11 (AP) — A badly-burned 33-year-old mother—the lone survivor — remained in critical condition today unaware her son met flaming death in the crash of a Miami-bound airliner that killed 12 persons.

The Delta Airline's DC-4 plane, carrying some of its nine passengers to a Florida vacation, plunged from a few hundred feet and burned explosively last night one minute after it took off from the Chicago Municipal Airport.

(Near Donaldsonville, La., two sailors were injured early today when a Navy transport plane carrying 19 passengers crash landed in a fog and burned on an auxiliary airport. The Naval Air Station said Seaman First Class W. F. Robb, Bayonne, N. J., and Seaman First Class C. M. Copeland, Suffolk, Va., suffered from shock.)

Badly burned and both her arms and legs fractured, Mrs. Tripolino Meo, of suburban Oak Lawn, has not been told her nine-year-old son, Alfred, Jr., perished in the crash. Firemen found the boy's body clasped in the arms of Stewardess Sue Young, who apparently tried unsuccessfully to save him. Both bodies were badly charred.

Mrs. Meo, who has been given opiates to dull her pain, said there was a "big flash" and then a "bump."

"I don't know which happened first," she said. "Then there was fire everywhere. My whole face was on fire. Everything was on fire.

"People were yelling. It was terrible. Where's Pudgy? Where's my baby?"

Pudgy was her only son. Doctors said that the information that her son died might jeopardize the "50-50" chance she has of pulling through.

Government Pictures Gen. Meyers As Loyal To "Flag Of Dollar Sign"

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) — The government today pictured Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers as loyal to "the flag of the dollar sign" and living in air-cooled comfort during the war.

Assistant United States Attorney John Fihelly asked the jury to convict the 52-year-old wartime deputy Air Force purchasing chief on charges of inducing a former business associate to lie about Meyers' war business.

The jury was directed by Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff to start considering its verdict tomorrow morning.

Fihelly said:

"This old soldier, as his attorney labels him in looking for sympathy, spent the war waving the flag of the United States in one hand and the flag of the dollar sign in the other."

Fihelly said Meyers spent the war years "comfortably in an air-cooled apartment" — drawing more than $150,000 pocket money from a plane parts firm.

Meyers is charged of three counts with inducing Bleriot H. Lamarre to lie at a Senate probe of Meyers' affairs last fall. A maximum penalty would be 10 years on each count, or a 30-year prison term for all three.

It was reliably reported tonight that separate perjury charges against Meyers, based on his own testimony to the Senate committee, will be dropped in the event of a conviction tomorrow. However, Meyers is also under indictment for income tax fraud.

Nation's Military Chiefs Confer At Key West

KEY WEST, Fla. March 11—(AP)—The nation's top military men are in conference here on the duties of the newly-integrated air, sea and ground forces in the event of war.

Under the Armed forces merger law enacted nine months ago, the drafting of a co-ordinating program for action is required.

Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal and the chiefs of the three military branches are conducting the conferences in the "Little White House" on the naval base where President Truman vacations.

The building is under Marine guard, and no word emerged from it except that Forrestal is there and a meeting is being held.

Hollywood And Britain Settle Film Tax Dispute

LONDON, March 11 (AP)—Hollywood and the British government settled their film tax dispute today. A compromise agreement will end the seven-month Hollywood ban on export of new movies to Britain.

Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, announced in the House of Commons that Britain will withdraw the 75 per cent tax on foreign films that was imposed last August to save dollars.

Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, said the agreement makes concessions to Britain's needs to economize and will be signed formally tomorrow. He said the American film industry had approved the compromise.

The rate cut plan was offered by Millikin and was approved by the committee, 9 to 3 after defeat of the Democratic substitute, which was offered by Sen. Barkley (D) Ky., minority leader.

Voting against the rate-cut plan were Sens. Connally, Tex., Barkley, and Lucas, Ill., all Democrats.

Under the committee plan, income tax rates would be cut as follows:

12.6 per cent where the total tax does not exceed $400.

7.4 per cent where the tax ranges between $400 and $100,000.

Five per cent where the tax exceeds $100,000.

The Senate, meanwhile, turned down by a 52 to 25 vote a proposal by Sen. Brooks (R-Ill) which would have deprived the State Department of any control over this country's "roving ambassador" to the 16 countries taking part in the Marshall plan.

As the bill now stands, this official comes partly under State Department control and partly under that of the Marshall Plan administrator, who is to be independent of the state department.

Another amendment, rejected by voice vote, called for the setting up of separate funds for relief purposes and for economic rehabilitation.

The first scheduled night session ended at 6:30 p. m., EST, for lack of amendments that could be acted upon at the time. A day and night session was called for tomorrow with an extra session Saturday if a final vote is not reached before that.

now in open rebellion against the government. Therefore, he said, the matter is one for the Chinese government to decide and not one for the United States to dictate.

Today the State Department issued a restatement of Marshall's reply on this point. The statement covered his reference to the Communists being in rebellion and that the decision is up to the Chinese government.

It contained no reference to Marshall saying that American policy still formally favors inclusion of the Communists in the government.

Mr. Truman's comments on China policy went far beyond those of his Secretary of State. He said that he did not know it had ever been the policy of the American government to include Communists in the government of China. If so, he added, it was news to him.

American policy, he said, has been to try to help the Chinese government maintain peace in the Far East. Broadening that government does not include taking in Communists, the President declared.

Improvement Of B And O Bridge In Oakland Sought

Citizens Seek Foot Bridge On Oak Street

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND — Some possibility of obtaining a foot bridge on the B. and O. overhead bridge on Oak Street was seen as the result of a letter recently to State Roads Commission officials, by Senator L. M. Fraley.

Senator Fraley met with G. Bates Chaires, district engineer, and Harold E. Rook, county engineer for the State Roads Commission, on February 4, and discussed the dangers there because of the lack of a sidewalk, and also talked about some signal light at the Red House crossroads on U. S. Routes 50 and 219.

Chaires wrote William F. Childs, Jr., chief engineer, on February 6, favoring some action, and the past week, Senator Fraley and some roads officials were here to make a check on the traffic over the bridge. The results showed 1455 vehicles and 365 pedestrians crossed the bridge during that day. The bridge is narrow and pedestrians must use the highway to travel.

Senator Fraley said he also would make a request for a foot bridge along the bridge over Deep Creek Lake, highway 219, at Railey's The bridge there is 600 feet long.

In National Contest

The Society of Illustrators in New York City is offering a first prize of $1,000 in cash to any art student in the United States who submits the winning illustration, in color, under the caption, "It Took 171 Years to Build Our Home"—a patriotic scene depicting 171 years of progress and independence.

The entry selected by the Maryland Institute of Art, in Baltimore, to represent that school, was designed and prepared by Aza Stanton, Oakland. His painting is now in New York for final judging and awards will be announced in the near future.

Improvement Of B And O Bridge In Oakland Sought

Citizens Seek Foot Bridge On Oak Street

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND — Some possibility of obtaining a foot bridge on the B. and O. overhead bridge on Oak Street was seen as the result of a letter recently to State Roads Commission officials, by Senator L. M. Fraley.

Senator Fraley met with G. Bates Chaires, district engineer, and Harold E. Rook, county engineer for the State Roads Commission, on February 4, and discussed the dangers there because of the lack of a sidewalk, and also talked about some signal light at the Red House crossroads on U. S. Routes 50 and 219.

Chaires wrote William F. Childs, Jr., chief engineer, on February 6, favoring some action, and the past week, Senator Fraley and some roads officials were here to make a check on the traffic over the bridge. The results showed 1455 vehicles and 365 pedestrians crossed the bridge during that day. The bridge is narrow and pedestrians must use the highway to travel.

Senator Fraley said he also would make a request for a foot bridge along the bridge over Deep Creek Lake, highway 219, at Railey's The bridge there is 600 feet long.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 11—(INS)—Congratulations to Louis Lighton on getting Burt Lancaster to star in "Down to the Sea In Ships," at 20th. How any outside company was able to reach in and snag Burt, who belongs by contract to Hal Wallis and Universal International, is a mystery to me. But it seems he has an "outside" clause—and Louis was on his toes to grab him.

Lorella Parsons

"Down to the Sea In Ships" is the hit that introduced Clara Bow to the screen back in 1922—but the 1948 movie is different. There will be no women in the new version of the whaling ship thriller. Burt hates love scenes. Maybe that's sold him on the story.

Henry Hathaway will direct, Sy Bartlett and John Lee Mahin wrote the new script, and the picture starts in early April.

I don't know anyone better fitted to be the technical advisor in "Silver Lining," the Marilyn Miller life story, than Mecca Graham. He and Marilyn were friends for years and she adored him. His real name is Edward, and it was she who first called him Mecca. Everytime she went to Europe she took him with her. Everytime she was in trouble she wept on Mecca's shoulder. That was a friendship that lasted through the years up until the time Marilyn died.

Jack Warner is starting the musical "Silver Lining" almost immediately, with June Haver and Ray Bolger. Ray, of course, will play Jack Donahue. My mind goes back to Marilyn as dainty as a doll, when she was in "Sally" and "Sunny." It was Mecca who first introduced Marilyn to me, and he's been a good and loyal friend all these years.

Ann Sheridan is also devoted to him and never makes a picture without him as her assistant director.

Marilyn Monroe, formerly with 20th Century Fox, was sweet enough to call me and tell me that I am responsible for the best break she has had—the lead in "Ladies of the Chorus," at Columbia. Well, I have news for her. I'm sure it was her blonde beauty and talent that turned the trick and not the few plugs I've given her in the column.

"Ladies of the Chorus" will be made as an independent by a New York stage producer, Harry Romm, and released through Columbia. The background is the burlesque stage around the turn of the century and I hear the costumes are an eyeful.

Corinne Griffith, who was one of the most important silent stars and is still a beautiful woman, is living here quietly with her husband, George Marshall. I saw them at Charles Le Maire's party.

Now Corinne has rolled up her sleeves and gone to work making speeches—and very successful ones, I might add—for General MacArthur for President. Her speech a the Republican Women's Club was so good that they asked her t make another on March 20, at th Roosevelt Hotel.

She calls a spade a spade, an points out the dangers of com munism in talks both intelligen and forceful.

Chatter in Hollywood: I've heard ways of chasing prowlers out of a home, but this tops them all!

Tuesday night, the Barry Sullivans heard someone downstairs tiptoeing across their living room so what does their seven-year-old son do but run downstairs, grab a telephone book, set it on fire, and toss it into the middle of the room, before anyone could stop him.

The ensuing scene would have been hilarious in a comedy. The intruder went head first through a window, the Sullivans couldn't give chase because they were too busy keeping everything from going up in flames. Son John stood by calmly munching an apple.

Betty Hutton, who expects her baby any day now, was at Margaret Ettinger's cocktail party, and I must say she looked lovely. The party honored Olive and Lanny Ross, and there were many old friends to welcome them. Betty's sister, Marion is a beauty and doing very well on radio.

I had a nice talk with Mess Meredith and Frances Marion, two old friends. Gracie Allen and George Burns dashed in just as I was leaving.

There is no one in the world who hates bowling as much as Celeste Holm, and she has to play practically every night because she's a proficient lady bowler in her next movie. When I saw her at the Charles Le Maire's party, I admired her new short hair-do.

George Cukor, who went to England to see "Edward, My Son," is now visiting Somerset Maugham in the south of France.

Nancy Guild was only home a few weeks from Rome when she had to go on location on "Canyon City." Kind of tough for both her and her bridegroom, Charles Russell.

That's all today.

Two Parades Of Prize Programs On Air Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, March 11.—Radio's parade of prize producing programs—that is the contests—is offering two at the same time on Friday nights at 9. There is People are Funny on NBC and Break the Bank on ABC both actively in the van of the big awards.

For instance Funny, as run by Art Linkletter, has gotten under way with a "new future riddle" contest in which the prizes are to flood out on someone sometime. Each week there are to be four contestants, one of whom is to be flown to Hollywood to appear on the program.

Bank is getting into the "big" money in view of the fact its jackpot for this q. and a. quiz has grown to the total of $6,050. That's not quite as high as it has been. It was above $7,000 last August.

Box fighting for the broadcast of ABC at 10 will bring Marcel Gerdan, European middleweight champ, into the ring with Lavern Roach of Plainview, Tex. Roach was a member of the Marine corps during the late war.

Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio is the announced answer guest for Meet the Press of MBS at 10. There will be the usual panel of four questioning newspapermen.

The World'd Great Novels of NBC at 11:30 taking up the story of "The Rise of Silas Lapham," being reading for the second part of the broadcast.

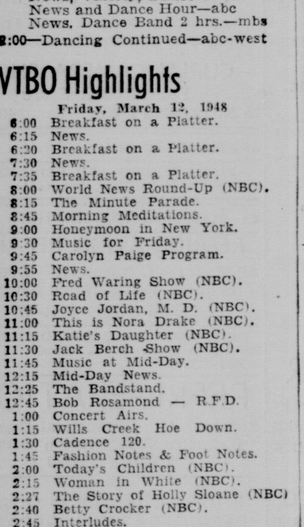
SALLY'S SALLIES



"You'll have to do without bread tonight, dear. The grocer sent an unsliced loaf."

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Sssh!

"Quiet, Please" which you'll find on the Mutual Broadcasting System on Monday 9:30 p. m. E. S. T., is a rather remarkable series of dramas whose unexpected twists and curious inflections put them almost in a class apart. Wyllis Cooper, who writes all of them, has a puckish humor and a deep interest in the macabre. His stories, which seldom involve more than one or two persons, one of which is always played by Ernest Chappell, start out quietly, almost conversationally as if he were addressing you personally in your living room.

John Crosby

Some of these stories are almost parodies on other radio programs except they are too ingenious to be entirely satiric. Here's an example of a recent one about a private detective named Kramer who started off addressing his audience:

"I wouldn't be caught dead in an alley with a derby hat. I have a .45 automatic which I never refer to as a roscoe or a rod. I have never been called a private eye. I must admit I do have a secretary. Here she is:

The secretary was none of your crisp, efficient glamor babes that clutter up all the whodunits on the air. She was an ancient and tired old crow who responded invariably to her boss's ring with: "Well, whaddaya want?"

"This is my secretary," introduced Mr. Kramer. "Mrs. McIlvaine, how many jewel robberies have I solved?"

"You ain't solved any."

"How many times have I been kidnapped?"

"Look, Mr. Kramer," said this beldame with asperity, "I'm busy. I'm going to leave early. Parent-Teachers meeting. Don't forget to lock the door after you."

●—●—●

Having thus demolished all the traditions of the mystery story racket in one minute, Mr. Cooper settled down to his story. Scarcely had Mrs. McIlvaine departed than a visitor glided in, a timorous, fussy, apologetic little man who announced that he didn't know who he was and didn't particularly care.

"What do you want me to find out?" inquirfed Kramer.

"I want to know who murdered me," said the little man mournfully. "Someone should be punished."

There was a pause as this rather surprising statement sank in, and then the little Milquetoast of a ghost added gently: "Oh, please, sir! Don't call the police. I should just disappear. You'd look very foolish."

"I don't believe in ghosts," declared Mr. Kramer beliggerently.

"You mean you don't believe in ghosts," sighed the dim little ghost.

After justifiable hesitation, Mr. Kramer agreed to take on the unusual case, chiefly because his polite little visitor waived a scheaf of banknotes in his face. "Where does this money come from?" asked Kramer, after making sure it was negotiable, not ectoplasmic, currency.

"I . . . . I really don't know," said the ghost in distressed tones. "I seem to have a good deal of it. No good to me, of course. Just find out who murdered me and you can have it all."

It was not an easy case. The ghost not only didn't know his name but also had no idea where or when he was murdered. Not much to go on. Nevertheless, Kramer agreed in return for a $1,000,000 fee which the ghost produced rather casually in large bills, to track down the murderer and then to kill him in person rather than hand him over to official organizations of justice. Just how he did this is too long a story but he did track down the murderer. The murderer, Kramer discovered, was himself. It had happened years earlier in a drunken brawl which neither murderer nor murderee remembered. This explained why the little ghost knew so little about himself. The story ended with the shy little ghost pleading insistently with Mr. Kramer to corrly out the second half of his bargain.

Most of the "Quiet Please" dramas are weird, ingenious, and intimate affairs. Not all of them are as creepy as this one and even when they are, Mr. Cooper usually takes the curse off by injecting a wry humor. Above all they are pure radio.

Two Parades Of Prize Programs On Air Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, March 11.—Radio's parade of prize producing programs —that is the contests—is offering two at the same time on Friday nights at 9. There is People are Funny on NBC and Break the Bank on ABC both actively in the van of the big awards.

For instance Funny, as run by Art Linkletter, has gotten under way with a "new future riddle" contest in which the prizes are to flood out on someone sometime. Each week there are to be four contestants, one of whom is to be flown to Hollywood to appear on the program.

Bank is getting into the "big" money in view of the fact its jackpot for this q. and a. quiz has grown to the total of $6,050. That's not quite as high as it has been. It was above $7,000 last August.

Box fighting for the broadcast of ABC at 10 will bring Marcel Gerdan, European middleweight champ, into the ring with Lavern Roach of Plainview, Tex. Roach was a member of the Marine corps during the late war.

Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio is the announced answer guest for Meet the Press of MBS at 10. There will be the usual panel of four questioning newspapermen.

The World'd Great Novels of NBC at 11:30 taking up the story of "The Rise of Silas Lapham," being reading for the second part of the broadcast.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"You'll have to do without bread tonight, dear. The grocer sent an unsliced loaf."

RADIO IN REVIEW

Sssh!

"Quiet, Please" which you'll find on the Mutual Broadcasting System on Monday 9:30 p. m. E. S. T., is a rather remarkable series of dramas whose unexpected twists and curious inflections put them almost in a class apart. Wyllis Cooper, who writes all of them, has a puckish humor and a deep interest in the macabre. His stories, which seldom involve more than one or two persons, one of which is always played by Ernest Chappell, start out quietly, almost conversationally as if he were addressing you personally in your living room.

John Crosby

Some of these stories are almost parodies on other radio programs except they are too ingenious to be entirely satiric. Here's an example of a recent one about a private detective named Kramer who started off addressing his audience:

"I wouldn't be caught dead in an alley with a derby hat. I have a .45 automatic which I never refer to as a roscoe or a rod. I have never been called a private eye. I must admit I do have a secretary. Here she is:

The secretary was none of your crisp, efficient glamor babes that clutter up all the whodunits on the air. She was an ancient and tired old crow who responded invariably to her boss's ring with: "Well, whaddaya want?"

"This is my secretary," introduced Mr. Kramer. "Mrs. McIlvaine, how many jewel robberies have I solved?"

"You ain't solved any."

"How many times have I been kidnapped?"

"Look, Mr. Kramer," said this beldame with asperity, "I'm busy. I'm going to leave early. Parent-Teachers meeting. Don't forget to lock the door after you."

●—●—●

Having thus demolished all the traditions of the mystery story racket in one minute, Mr. Cooper settled down to his story. Scarcely had Mrs. McIlvaine departed than a visitor glided in, a timorous, fussy, apologetic little man who announced that he didn't know who he was and didn't particularly care.

"What do you want me to find out?" inquirfed Kramer.

"I want to know who murdered me," said the little man mournfully. "Someone should be punished."

There was a pause as this rather surprising statement sank in, and then the little Milquetoast of a ghost added gently: "Oh, please, sir! Don't call the police. I should just disappear. You'd look very foolish."

"I don't believe in ghosts," declared Mr. Kramer beliggerently.

"You mean you don't believe in ghosts," sighed the dim little ghost.

After justifiable hesitation, Mr. Kramer agreed to take on the unusual case, chiefly because his polite little visitor waived a scheaf of banknotes in his face. "Where does this money come from?" asked Kramer, after making sure it was negotiable, not ectoplasmic, currency.

"I . . . . I really don't know," said the ghost in distressed tones. "I seem to have a good deal of it. No good to me, of course. Just find out who murdered me and you can have it all."

It was not an easy case. The ghost not only didn't know his name but also had no idea where or when he was murdered. Not much to go on. Nevertheless, Kramer agreed in return for a $1,000,000 fee which the ghost produced rather casually in large bills, to track down the murderer and then to kill him in person rather than hand him over to official organizations of justice. Just how he did this is too long a story but he did track down the murderer. The murderer, Kramer discovered, was himself. It had happened years earlier in a drunken brawl which neither murderer nor murderee remembered. This explained why the little ghost knew so little about himself. The story ended with the shy little ghost pleading insistently with Mr. Kramer to corrly out the second half of his bargain.

Most of the "Quiet Please" dramas are weird, ingenious, and intimate affairs. Not all of them are as creepy as this one and even when they are, Mr. Cooper usually takes the curse off by injecting a wry humor. Above all they are pure radio.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors who were so sympathetic during the illness and following the death of our beloved father, Isaac P. Bowman, Moscow. We are grateful for the many floral tributes, the use of cars for the funeral and to Rev. L. I. Moore and Rev. Stanley H. Jewell of the Barton Churches and to others who helped so willingly.
HIS CHILDREN.

I am taking this means to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness extended to us during the illness and bereavement of my sister, Miss Lillian Overton, Luke. Also to those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their automobiles for the funeral.
MRS. MAGGIE HARVELL.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my friends, neighbors, and relatives who were so kind to me during the illness and following the death of my beloved Mother, Anna E. McCormick. I am grateful for the many floral tributes, the use of the cars for the funeral and to Rev. Brake of St. Johns Church and to all our friends who helped so willingly.
RUSSELL C. McCORMICK.

I am most deeply grateful and wish to publicly express my appreciation to all my friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown me during the illness and in my bereavement following the death of my dear beloved wife, Myrtle M. Porter. I want particularly to thank all those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars and the pallbearers who so willingly gave of their time. I am greatly indebted to Rev. Joseph W. Young who so ably conducted the funeral services and visited our home and prayed with Myrtle during her illness. I am so grateful to all. May God bless you and give you good health and happiness.
The husband: ERNEST G. PORTER.

Garsson Munition Combine Indicted

BALTIMORE, March 11 (AP)—The Garsson brothers and three associates in a wartime Illinois munitions combine were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of swindling the government of "large amounts" of money.

They did it, the government charged, with a complex system of juggled accounts, kickbacks, and fictitious expense statements designed to hide excess war profits that were subject to partial recovery by the United States.

Named as defendants were the Erie Basin Metal Products Company, of Elgin, Ill., Henry M. and Murray W. Garsson, Allen B. Gellman, Joseph T. Weiss and Harry S. Glick, all of Chicago.

Gellman was president of Erie. The others were officers and directors, the three-count, 18-page indictment said.

It gave no total figure for the alleged fraud. But Frank H. Patton, special Justice Department prosecutor, said the government expects to prove it lost "well over a million dollars."

The syndicate started on a shoestring, held $78,000,000 in war contracts, Patton reported.

The Garsson brothers and former Rep. Andrew J. May, wartime chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, were convicted last July of passing bribes. All have appealed their sentences.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Hank Wallace is following the old Bourbon line of divide and rule. I prefer the even older Tammany line of divide and divide.

There isn't as much fun in politics as there used to be when investigations were mutual. Then a fellow would be swept into office on a reform wave and out again the same way.

There is no doubt that Hank has captured the Bronx from Trogg's Neck to Spuyten Duyvil. And in capturing the Bronx you are entitled to its cheer.

Hank's bosses say they will not launch a fifth party to attract the floating vote. That went over the dam with Hank.

Film Stocks Advance On Report Of Anglo-American Agreement

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP) — For awhile today it looked like a bull market for stocks but the picture quickly clouded when commodities skidded.

Moving picture issues were in front on word from London of an Anglo-American film agreement.

Aircrafts extended their Wednesday bulge at the start on talk of big government orders. They failed to hold after touching highs for the year.

Volume in the first hour was among the largest of the past month for that period. Dealings tapered later but the aggregate of 820,000 shares was the best since February 16. It compared with 730,000 the day before. Extreme gains running to a point or so were reduced in most cases and the minus column was widely populated at the close.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was unchanged at 61.2. It was the broadest market in two weeks. Of 950 issues registering, 373 rose, 320 fell and 257 were unchanged.

Advances of major fractions to a point or so were shown for Paramount Pictures at 20½, Twentieth Century-Fox 21⅛, Western Union 22⅜ (at a 1948 peak in further reflection of the first dividend since 1945), Universal Pictures 13½, Goodrich 48¾, du Pont 166¼ and Transcontinental and Western Air 21⅝.

On the offside were United States Steel, Republic Steel, Chrysler, Glenn Martin, Grumman, Schenley, North American, Kaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, General Electric, American Tobacco "B", Southern Pacific, and Sinclair Oil.

Backward in the curb were Aluminum of America, Kaiser-Frazer and Humble Oil. Ahead were American Gas, Fansteel, Pantepec, Sherwin Williams, Raytheon and Technicolor. Turnover here was 230,000 shares versus 1,770,000 yesterday.

Selected rails advanced in the bond market but other issues were mixed at the close.

WHY

Some GI Students Get No Pay Boost

By ROWLAND EVANS, JR.
AP Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—The new increase in subsistence allowance for veterans studying under the G.I. Bill is confusing. It doesn't cover all G.I. students.

How does it work?

Only full-time institutional students get it. An "institutional" student is one who's going to school or college, not one who is spending his full time in on-the-job training.

Today the subsistence allowance for all GI Bill trainees (either in schools or job training) is $65 a month if the veteran has no dependents and $90 a month if he has one or more.

Starting April 1 the new allowances will be $75 a month for ex-GIs with no dependents; $105 a month for those with one dependent, and $120 a month for those with more than one dependent. (The first checks with the new amounts will be mailed May 1.)

So a veteran taking a full-time medical course — or any full-time course of study in any school or college under the GI Bill—will get a larger check in the mail May 1 than he's getting now.

But a half-time student, who today is getting $32.50 a month, will keep right on getting $32.50 a month.

"Full-time course" means 25 clock hours a week of classroom instruction (if the institution operates on the clock hour basis) or 15 semester hours of instruction a week (if the institution is on the semester hour basis).

An ex-Joe taking 24 clock hours of classroom instruction a week would not get any increase at all.

Why did Congress restrict the raise to full time students? It decided that students other than full-time have enough spare hours a week to make some money on the side.

And how did Congress conclude that veterans taking on-the-job training shouldn't get the subsistence boost?

Same idea. Job-trainees, one senator pointed out on the Senate floor, make money in their jobs to supplement their subsistence allowance. They don't need an increase in allowance.

Behind this thinking on the part of Congress is its conviction that only the rise in cost-of-living justifies a subsistence raise.

Since job trainees are full-time employes who should gain the benefits of any cost-of-living rise in wages, they do not need more allowance.

And anyway most Congressmen were aware when they approved the subsistence increase that job trainees are going to get a boost in total income very soon anyway.

That's because both the House and Senate have passed bills to raise the ceilings now in force on the total of wages and allowance any job-trainee can earn. That legislation will become law very soon.

Garsson Munition Combine Indicted

BALTIMORE, March 11 (AP)—The Garsson brothers and three associates in a wartime Illinois munitions combine were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of swindling the government of "large amounts" of money.

They did it, the government charged, with a complex system of juggled accounts, kickbacks, and fictitious expense statements designed to hide excess war profits that were subject to partial recovery by the United States.

Named as defendants were the Erie Basin Metal Products Company, of Elgin, Ill., Henry M. and Murray W. Garsson, Allen B. Gellman, Joseph T. Weiss and Harry S. Glick, all of Chicago.

Gellman was president of Erie. The others were officers and directors, the three-count, 18-page indictment said.

It gave no total figure for the alleged fraud. But Frank H. Patton, special Justice Department prosecutor, said the government expects to prove it lost "well over a million dollars."

The syndicate started on a shoestring, held $78,000,000 in war contracts, Patton reported.

The Garsson brothers and former Rep. Andrew J. May, wartime chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, were convicted last July of passing bribes. All have appealed their sentences.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Hank Wallace is following the old Bourbon line of divide and rule. I prefer the even older Tammany line of divide and divide.

There isn't as much fun in politics as there used to be when investigations were mutual. Then a fellow would be swept into office on a reform wave and out again the same way.

There is no doubt that Hank has captured the Bronx from Throgg's Neck to Spuyten Duyvil. And in capturing the Bronx you are entitled to its cheer.

Hank's bosses say they will not launch a fifth party to attract the floating vote. That went over the dam with Hank.

Film Stocks Advance On Report Of Anglo-American Agreement

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP) — For awhile today it looked like a bull market for stocks but the picture quickly clouded when commodities skidded.

Moving picture issues were in front on word from London of an Anglo-American film agreement.

Aircrafts extended their Wednesday bulge at the start on talk of big government orders. They failed to hold after touching highs for the year.

Volume in the first hour was among the largest of the past month for that period. Dealings tapered later but the aggregate of 820,000 shares was the best since February 16. It compared with 730,000 the day before. Extreme gains running to a point or so were reduced in most cases and the minus column was widely populated at the close.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was unchanged at 61.2. It was the broadest market in two weeks. Of 950 issues registering, 373 rose, 320 fell and 257 were unchanged.

Advances of major fractions to a point or so were shown for Paramount Pictures at 20½, Twentieth Century-Fox 21⅛, Western Union 22⅜ (at a 1948 peak in further reflection of the first dividend since 1945), Universal Pictures 13½, Goodrich 48¾, du Pont 166¼ and Transcontinental and Western Air 21⅝.

On the offside were United States Steel, Republic Steel, Chrysler, Glenn Martin, Grumman, Schenley, North American, Kaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, General Electric, American Tobacco "B", Southern Pacific, and Sinclair Oil.

Backward in the curb were Aluminum of America, Kaiser-Frazer and Humble Oil. Ahead were American Gas, Fansteel, Pantepec, Sherwin Williams, Raytheon and Technicolor. Turnover here was 230,000 shares versus 1,770,000 yesterday.

Selected rails advanced in the bond market but other issues were mixed at the close.

WHY

Some GI Students Get No Pay Boost

By ROWLAND EVANS, JR.
AP Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—The new increase in subsistence allowance for veterans studying under the G.I. Bill is confusing. It doesn't cover all G.I. students.

How does it work?

Only full-time institutional students get it. An "institutional" student is one who's going to school or college, not one who is spending his full time in on-the-job training.

Today the subsistence allowance for all GI Bill trainees (either in schools or job training) is $65 a month if the veteran has no dependents and $90 a month if he has one or more.

Starting April 1 the new allowances will be $75 a month for ex-GIs with no dependents; $105 a month for those with one dependent, and $120 a month for those with more than one dependent. (The first checks with the new amounts will be mailed May 1.)

So a veteran taking a full-time medical course — or any full-time course of study in any school or college under the GI Bill—will get a larger check in the mail May 1 than he's getting now.

But a half-time student, who today is getting $32.50 a month, will keep right on getting $32.50 a month.

"Full-time course" means 25 clock hours a week of classroom instruction (if the institution operates on the clock hour basis) or 15 semester hours of instruction a week (if the institution is on the semester hour basis).

An ex-Joe taking 24 clock hours of classroom instruction a week would not get any increase at all.

Why did Congress restrict the raise to full time students? It decided that students other than full-time have enough spare hours a week to make some money on the side.

And how did Congress conclude that veterans taking on-the-job training shouldn't get the subsistence boost?

Same idea. Job-trainees, one senator pointed out on the Senate floor, make money in their jobs to supplement their subsistence allowance. They don't need an increase in allowance.

Behind this thinking on the part of Congress is its conviction that only the rise in cost-of-living justifies a subsistence raise.

Since job trainees are full-time employes who should gain the benefits of any cost-of-living rise in wages, they do not need more allowance.

And anyway most Congressmen were aware when they approved the subsistence increase that job trainees are going to get a boost in total income very soon anyway.

That's because both the House and Senate have passed bills to raise the ceilings now in force on the total of wages and allowance any job-trainee can earn. That legislation will become law very soon.

Four Local Bartenders Nabbed In "Crackdown"

Police Probing Sale Of Liquor To Minors

A city police crackdown on alcoholic beverage sales to minors in the city last night resulted in the arrest of four bartenders employed in local taverns, after a 17-year-old youth who admittedly had been drinking threatened to harm his mother on Tuesday.

Police said bartenders from the Alibi Cocktail Lounge, 28 Baltimore Street, the City Cafe, 134 North Centre Street, the G. and W. Restaurant, 43 North Liberty Street, and Skeetz's Place, 34 North Mechanic Street, posted bonds of $200 each after the youth and a companion identified the bartenders as the persons who served them beer and whisky.

The four, identified as Ralph Cameron, City Cafe; Allen Knippenberg, Alibi; Fay Hartley, G. and W.; and Clarence McDermott, Skeetz's Place, were placed under arrest last night at 7 o'clock.

Probe Started Tuesday

Police said the probe of liquor sales to minors was begun Tuesday afternoon by Detective Thomas J. See when Donald J. Cavey, 17, 800 Lafayette Avenue, was arrested at his home on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. He was sentenced to one-year in a Maryland industrial school Wednesday after being arraigned in Juvenile Court.

Cavey, according to police, along with John Pendergast, 18, also of Lafayette Avenue, and a third person, still unidentified, went on a drinking spree Tuesday morning and said they were served whisky in the Alibi and beer in the other three places.

The four bartenders were charged with violation of City Ordinance 1404, Section 3-A, which prohibits licensed liquor and beer dealers "to sell, barter or give alcoholic beverages to any person who is a minor or under 21 years of age."

Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney said the charges were preferred against the bartenders, but explained that according to the Allegany County Liquor Law, the licensees of the places can be held responsible for the action of their agents.

Chief Gaffney said Cavey's condition warranted the investigation, and after questioning him and Pendergast at length police learned that the youths had been served liquor and beer Tuesday morning. Detective See subsequently summoned the four to Police Headquarters, where the two youths identified them last night.

Attacks Mother

Cavey, according to police, was so intoxicated after the Tuesday morning spree that he returned home and attacked his mother and several other members of the family with a butcher knife. Police were called to the home, according to authorities, and Sgt. Frank Shober found Cavey in the house "running about with the knife."

Cavey attempted to attack the sergeant, police said, and "made quite a tussle," before Sgt. John Newhouse arrived and assisted Shober in getting Cavey into the cruiser and bringing him to city jail.

Pendergast's condition, according to police, did not bring him to their attention at the time, but he was later identified by Cavey.

Detective See said both Cavey and Pendergast signed lengthy statements at headquarters before the four bartenders were summoned.

Knippenberg and Cameron will be given hearings this morning at Police Court while Fay Hartley and McDermott will be tried Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Red Cross Drive Goes "Over Top;" $31,237 Reported

Campaign Office To Remain Open

Although some reports are incomplete, the 1948 Red Cross fund campaign in Allegany County is already "over the top" by $3,657, General Chairman Gorman E. Getty announced last night at the victory dinner of the drive, held in the social hall of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Division chairmen reported a total of $31,237.31, as compared to the overall goal of $27,580.

Because some workers have been ill and therefore unable to complete canvassing, campaign headquarters in the Postoffice Building will remain open until all reports are complete, Getty said.

Two of the seven campaign divisions have exceeded their quotas.

Mrs. John Cook, chairman of the women's division with Mrs. Holmes Cessna, reported a total of $6,915.57, with a quota of $6,000; and Bert Graham, co-chairman of the classified section with James Reinhart, reported a total of $5,035.35 as compared to a quota of $5,000.

Other Reports Listed

A number of sections in those divisions reported amounts considerably in excess of their individual quotas.

Other incomplete reports are as follows:

Advance gifts, headed by George Schwarzenbach, $11,000 toward a quota of $12,000; clubs and organizations, Chief Judge William A. Huster, $684.60 toward $1,000; labor, John Chisholm, C. E. Bramble and Jean Bourckel, $2,610.24 toward $3,000; and national firms, Joseph H. Love, $655 toward a goal of $1,000.

The county division, including nine communities outside of Cumberland, has raised $4,336.55 toward its overall goal of $6,000, with no reports received as yet from Mt. Savage or Midland.

Stating that Red Cross campaigns would never be successful without the hard work of the women's division, James Alfred Avirett, local attorney, who was the guest speaker, praised the work of all those who took part in the drive.

"Even though many people think the Red Cross can let down because the war is over, there is no peace in the world today, and we need the Red Cross as never before," he said.

"Where we find the Red Cross, we find a successful and progressive community," Avirett concluded.

Give Brief Talks

Getty, who presided, called on Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross; Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary, and William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland, for brief talks.

Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's, gave the invocation and benediction. The dinner was served by ladies of the church.

Fourteen of the 22 sections comprising the women's division reported oversubscribed quotas. Among the largest amounts reported were $1,857 for West Side, Mrs. Henry Mackey, leader, as compared to a quota of $1,300; LaVale, $634 as compared to a quota of $275, Mrs. Douglas Smith, leader; and Bedford Road, Mrs. Albert Smouse, $298.20 with a quota of $75.

Remainder of the women's division breakdown report is as follows:

FINDS INFANT'S BODY—"Pup," a 12-year-old collie dog owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coffman, Mineral County, W. Va., Wednesday caused a county-wide search for the mother of a 2-day-old infant, when he dragged the baby's head and torso from a nearby trash pile into the Coffman yard. Highway Bandits Rob Truck Driver Of $760 On Route 50

Police In W. Va., Md. Seek 2 Men

Two men "dressed in dirty blue coveralls" were being sought early this morning by police of two states after they reportedly took $760 from Leonard Sites, 22, Keyser truck driver, at gun point, blocking his truck on Route 50, near Burlington, W. Va., before pulling the stickup.

Police said the pair passed Sites's coal truck on the east side of Knobley Mountain, and then cut in front of it, forcing the truck to a stop. Both men, armed with pistols, jumped from the car and ordered the driver out of the truck, according to police.

After taking $760 from Sites, police said the two men hurried back to the car and drove toward Keyser. Shortly before the two-state alarm was sounded in Maryland and West Virginia, officers of the Cumberland Police Department reported seeing a car answering the description furnished by Sites heading in a southwestward direction on Greene Street.

Road Blocks Formed

Maryland State Police reported that road blocks were formed at all intersections in Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick Counties shortly after the holdup was reported at 11:50 p. m. West Virginia police in Mineral, Hampshire and Grant Counties were searching for the pair.

Sites told police he drew the money from a Keyser bank Tuesday with the intention of buying coal at a small mine in West Virginia and paying cash. He said he has been conducting business on a cash-and-carry basis for several months.

Police said the car was described as a "dirty brown" 1938 to 1942 model Chevrolet and the men, both white, were approximately 5 feet six and six feet tall. Both men, police quoted Sites as saying, were dressed in dirty blue overalls while the shorter of the two men was wearing a hat.

No License Plates

Police said the robbery was reported by Sites from Burlington, but declared they were not sure if the victim drove his truck in or if the bandits damaged the vehicle in an attempt to gain time for an escape.

Sites told police the car bore no license plates on the rear and said the right rear fender was damaged and the back bumper was missing. He told police he had no opportunity to get a look at the front before the men pulled away.

Although the weatherman threatened to "throw the book" at Western Maryland today, only the advance guard of the cold wave headed toward here had reached Cumberland last night. The thermometer, which stood just at freezing at 5:30 p. m. had dropped to 24 here at 11 p. m. In Deal, Pa., it was 14 above and in Thomas, W. Va., 20 above and cloudy. No snow was reported in Western Maryland or nearby West Virginia. Yesterday's weather report—High, 40; low, 37 at 8 a. m.; precipitation, one-tenth of an inch.

Amended Returns Paid By White Exceed $51,000

Pays $10,000 Interest, Posts $1,000 Bond

Walter W. White, 48, this city, who posted $1,000 bond yesterday in connection with a federal income tax evasion charge, filed an amended tax return and paid, his attorneys revealed, an additional $51,765.66 taxes and over $10,000 in interest last year.

The bond was posted here yesterday with C. Edgar Keller, deputy clerk of the U. S. District Court. When indicted in Baltimore Tuesday by a federal grand jury, the government charged White with evading payment of $73,174 for 1941 to 1945, inclusive.

William C. Walsh and Clyde Y. Morris, Baltimore attorney, representing White, appeared with their client before Keller to post bond. Bond was furnished by White's brother-in-law and sister, Herman N. and Carrie L. Schade.

Walsh made the following statement in connection with the case:

"Mr. White was advised by representatives of the government in the fall of 1946 that his books were not satisfactory. Mr. White then consulted us about his tax problems, which were rather complicated. Mr. Morris and I secured the services of C. Willard Amos, a tax accountant in Baltimore, and as a result of the investigation by Mr. Amos, amended income tax returns were prepared, and Mr. White filed these returns with the Collector of Internal Revenue in Baltimore on April 7, 1947. These amended returns showed an additional tax due for the years 1941 to 1945, inclusive, in the amount of $51,765.66. This amount, together with more than $10,000 of interest, was paid when the amended returns were filed on April 7, 1947. The result is that Mr. White has already paid the Government, for the years mentioned, something over $58,000, plus about $10,000 in interest, thus making a total payment of more than $68,000. According to the figures prepared by the tax accountant this is all that he owes, although the government is claiming a somewhat larger amount."

City Voters Not Affected By Transcribing Of Books

Registration books recently transcribed at the Court House carried only the names of county voters, C. N. Wilkinson, president of the Board of County Commissioners, said last night.

Wilkinson explained many persons have inquired as to whether those registered to vote in the city were affected, adding this is not the case.

Names of county voters who had failed to vote in the past five years were stricken from the books, Wilkinson said. He explained two sets of registration books are kept, one for city voters and the other for county voters, who are also eligible to vote in state elections.

Inquest In Baby's Death Set For Next Wednesday

Cloth Is Viewed As Leading Clue

The search for a Mineral County, W. Va., mother whose two-day old baby was dragged to a farm home on Antioch Road near Antioch, W. Va., Wednesday by a collie dog was in full swing last night as authorities arranged for a coroner's inquest into the infant's death next Wednesday.

West Virginia State Police and county authorities were conducting an intensive investigation in the county, according to Prosecuting Attorney Vernon C. Rankin, in an effort to establish the identity of the child.

Rankin said the head and torso of the baby was discovered Wednesday morning by Edna Coffman when a pet dog named "Pup," owned by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coffman, dragged the body on to their farm near Camden Orchard from a trash pile about a quarter of a mile away.

A clean cloth, made from a salt or sugar sack, was discovered in the trash pile, according to Rankin, who said it has been sent to police laboratories for investigation because spots on the cloth are believed to be blood stains.

Initial examination by Dr. Harry Coffman, Mineral County health officer, led authorities to believe that the child was born alive either Monday or Tuesday and subsequently abandoned in the trash heap, said to be used by many residents of the area.

The cause of death has not been established, according to Rankin, who said the coroner's inquest will be held next Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Keyser in an effort to determine the cause and time of the infant's death.

Mrs. Edward Coffman told authorities that the dog, "a friendly animal," they have owned for 12 years, was running in the woods near their farm Wednesday morning and returned to the house carrying the baby's torso.

At first, Mrs. Coffman was quoted as saying, she and her daughter paid no attention, but as "Pup" came near, the daughter became excited and cried, the dog "has a baby in its mouth."

Described as an obedient animal, Mrs. Coffman said the dog dropped the torso upon command and the daughter ran to a neighbor's home to ask them to call state police.

The salt or sugar bag cloth is one of the main clues, according to authorities, who said it is the type of cloth that apparently would come from a farm family that buys either sugar or salt in large quantities. Rankin said when the cloth was found it definitely appeared to have been wrapped about something, which authorities believe was the infant's body.

The possibility that the infant was born near the trash heap is also being probed, according to Rankin, who said a clearing in the center of the tin can ash pile was covered with dried leaves and twigs and partially protected by undergrowth.

The only contradictory evidence to the theory, authorities explained, is that the child is believed to have been two days old at the time it died, which would indicate that it was place in the ash heap much later than at the time of birth.

The body was turned over to a Keyser funeral home where an autopsy will be performed before it is buried.

Education League Of AFL Will Be Formed March 23

Labor Heads Approve Political Policies

The Allegany County League for Political Education, sponsored by AFL affiliates of this county, will be set up at a meeting to be held Tuesday, March 23, in Allegany Trades Council Hall, C. E. Stutzman, Trades Council president, announced yesterday.

The meeting of the delegates to set up the independent political organization will be held immediately after the regular meeting of the Trades Council that night, he said.

Three delegates from each AFL affiliate will compose the committee to set up the League which will have as its prime interest making sure that all union members register and vote in all elections, he said.

The Trades Council has already set in motion plans to co-operate with the Hagerstown Central Labor Union in the political campaign, and a delegation from here has been named to attend the next meeting of that group.

State AFL officials met last week to map plans for co-ordinating AFL efforts in Maryland.

Stutzman and C. E. Bramble, president of Local 453, Teamsters Union, represented Allegany County at a meeting of top AFL representatives from 46 states in Washington Wednesday.

The state federation leaders, he said, unanimously approved policies recommended by the AFL committee on political education.

Labor leaders here said the long range plans call for repeal or modification of the Taft-Hartley Law.

Second "Sweethearts" Performance In 22 Years Again Scores Success

For the second time in 22 years, an Allegany High School senior cast scored a success in its presentation of Victor Herbert's popular operetta "Sweethearts."

With Jeanne Marquis in the leading soprano role and Allan Macy as Prince Frantz, the cast played to a capacity house.

William Price stole the show in his comic role of Mikel Mikeloviz. Many of the special numbers, including the Girls Chorus, were enthusiastically received.

Preceding the performance, the class of 1926, which first presented "Sweethearts" here, held its first class reunion at a dinner meeting in Central YMCA. Over 60 members of the last Allegany County High class were present and a number of members who were unable to come sent messages of regret.

Douglas Ritchie, as toastmaster, presented Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County schools, who was principal of Allegany County High School that year, and Harold C. Wickard, who directed both performances of the operetta.

Kathleen R. Cumbee, who was faculty adviser of the class of 1926, told the group they were her "favorite class".

At the intermission of last night's performance, Wickard presented Mrs. Viola Moreland MacKenzie, Mrs. Minnie Geatz Staley, and Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, who played the female leads in the 1926 performance, and Harry Volk, who played Mickel in 1926, to the 1948 performers.

"Sweethearts" will be presented for elementary students this afternoon and the final performance is scheduled tonight at 8:15 p. m. in the Allegany High auditorium. Only a few tickets are still available, it was reported.

"The training of youth in the ways of Christian living and good citizenship is a solemn duty. The world needs today, as perhaps never before, to return to the principles of the Ten Commandments x x x."

Poor Night Vision Cause Of Many Auto Fatalities, Rosenmerkel Says

William P. Rosenmerkel, of the Western Maryland Motor Club, declared yesterday that nearly two-thirds of all traffic fatalities occur at night, and that much of the blame may be attributed to the inability of some drivers and pedestrians to see well enough to avoid accidents.

"A person's eyes," he said, "may be entirely adequate during daylight hours, but under night-driving conditions, he may have such poor vision that he should not operate a car.

"Frequently drivers will be so affected by approaching glaring headlights that they are literally blinded and see nothing ahead. This is bad enough. . .but the driver with poor night vision is simply not able to see well all the time during hours of darkness."

Rosenmerkel said the American Automobile Association, meeting recently in Washington, adopted a resolution urging all traffic safety authorities to investigate the importance of night vision and to set up tests of various night visual tasks.

"AAA safety specialists," he explained, "believe that first application of this testing procedure should be with drivers who have night accidents, are involved in night violations of traffic regulations, or who desire to have their night vision tested. The association has made numerous tests of various night vision characteristics, utilizing as one means a special night vision testing device.

"The person being tested must look into one end of a dark box toward a disk with black and white stripes. Visibility is gradually increased by moving four luminous buttons toward the disk until he can tell which way the stripes run. The distance of the luminous buttons from the disk at this point gives the score."

Four Local Bartenders Nabbed In "Crackdown"

Police Probing Sale Of Liquor To Minors

A city police crackdown on alcoholic beverage sales to minors in the city last night resulted in the arrest of four bartenders employed in local taverns, after a 17-year-old youth who admittedly had been drinking threatened to harm his mother on Tuesday.

Police said bartenders from the Alibi Cocktail Lounge, 28 Baltimore Street, the City Cafe, 134 North Centre Street, the G. and W. Restaurant, 43 North Liberty Street, and Skeetz's Place, 34 North Mechanic Street, posted bonds of $200 each after the youth and a companion identified the bartenders as the persons who served them beer and whisky.

The four, identified as Ralph Cameron, City Cafe; Allen Knippenberg, Alibi; Fay Hartley, G. and W.; and Clarence McDermott, Skeetz's Place, were placed under arrest last night at 7 o'clock.

Probe Started Tuesday

Police said the probe of liquor sales to minors was begun Tuesday afternoon by Detective Thomas J. See when Donald J. Cavey, 17, 800 Lafayette Avenue, was arrested at his home on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. He was sentenced to one-year in a Maryland industrial school Wednesday after being arraigned in Juvenile Court.

Cavey, according to police, along with John Pendergast, 18, also of Lafayette Avenue, and a third person, still unidentified, went on a drinking spree Tuesday morning and said they were served whisky in the Alibi and beer in the other three places.

The four bartenders were charged with violation of City Ordinance 1404, Section 3-A, which prohibits licensed liquor and beer dealers "to sell, barter or give alcoholic beverages to any person who is a minor or under 21 years of age."

Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney said the charges were preferred against the bartenders, but explained that according to the Allegany County Liquor Law, the licensees of the places can be held responsible for the action of their agents.

Chief Gaffney said Cavey's condition warranted the investigation, and after questioning him and Pendergast at length police learned that the youths had been served liquor and beer Tuesday morning. Detective See subsequently summoned the four to Police Headquarters, where the two youths identified them last night.

Attacks Mother

Cavey, according to police, was so intoxicated after the Tuesday morning spree that he returned home and attacked his mother and several other members of the family with a butcher knife. Police were called to the home, according to authorities, and Sgt. Frank Shober found Cavey in the house "running about with the knife."

Cavey attempted to attack the sergeant, police said, and "made quite a tussle," before Sgt. John Newhouse arrived and assisted Shober in getting Cavey into the cruiser and bringing him to city jail.

Pendergast's condition, according to police, did not bring him to their attention at the time, but he was later identified by Cavey.

Detective See said both Cavey and Pendergast signed lengthy statements at headquarters before the four bartenders were summoned.

Knippenberg and Cameron will be given hearings this morning at Police Court while Fay Hartley and McDermott will be tried Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Red Cross Drive Goes "Over Top;" $31,237 Reported

Campaign Office To Remain Open

Although some reports are incomplete, the 1948 Red Cross fund campaign in Allegany County is already "over the top" by $3,657, General Chairman Gorman E. Getty announced last night at the victory dinner of the drive, held in the social hall of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Division chairmen reported a total of $31,237.31, as compared to the overall goal of $27,580.

Because some workers have been ill and therefore unable to complete canvassing, campaign headquarters in the Postoffice Building will remain open until all reports are complete, Getty said.

Two of the seven campaign divisions have exceeded their quotas.

Mrs. John Cook, chairman of the women's division with Mrs. Holmes Cessna, reported a total of $6,915.57, with a quota of $6,000; and Bert Graham, co-chairman of the classified section with James Reinhart, reported a total of $5,035.35 as compared to a quota of $5,000.

Other Reports Listed

A number of sections in those divisions reported amounts considerably in excess of their individual quotas.

Other incomplete reports are as follows:

Advance gifts, headed by George Schwarzenbach, $11,000 toward a quota of $12,000; clubs and organizations, Chief Judge William A. Huster, $684.60 toward $1,000; labor, John Chisholm, C. E. Bramble and Jean Bourckel, $2,610.24 toward $3,000; and national firms, Joseph H. Love, $655 toward a goal of $1,000.

The county division, including nine communities outside of Cumberland, has raised $4,336.55 toward its overall goal of $6,000, with no reports received as yet from Mt. Savage or Midland.

Stating that Red Cross campaigns would never be successful without the hard work of the women's division, James Alfred Avirett, local attorney, who was the guest speaker, praised the work of all those who took part in the drive.

"Even though many people think the Red Cross can let down because the war is over, there is no peace in the world today, and we need the Red Cross as never before," he said.

"Where we find the Red Cross, we find a successful and progressive community," Avirett concluded.

Give Brief Talks

Getty, who presided, called on Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross; Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary, and William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland, for brief talks.

Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's, gave the invocation and benediction. The dinner was served by ladies of the church.

Fourteen of the 22 sections comprising the women's division reported oversubscribed quotas. Among the largest amounts reported were $1,857 for West Side, Mrs. Henry Mackey, leader, as compared to a quota of $1,300; LaVale, $634 as compared to a quota of $275; Mrs. Douglas Smith, leader; and Bedford Road, Mrs. Albert Smouse, $298.20 with a quota of $75.

FINDS INFANT'S BODY—"Pup," a 12-year-old collie dog owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coffman, Mineral County, W. Va., Wednesday caused a county-wide search for the mother of a 2-day-old infant, when he dragged the baby's head and torso from a nearby trash pile into the Coffman yard. "Pup," according to Mrs. Coffman (above), is a friendly and obedient animal.

Inquest In Baby's Death Set For Next Wednesday

Cloth Is Viewed As Leading Clue

The search for a Mineral County, W. Va., mother whose two-day old baby was dragged to a farm home on Antioch Road near Antioch, W. Va., Wednesday by a collie dog was in full swing last night as authorities arranged for a coroner's inquest into the infant's death next Wednesday.

West Virginia State Police and county authorities were conducting an intensive investigation in the county, according to Prosecuting Attorney Vernon C. Rankin, in an effort to establish the identity of the child.

Rankin said the head and torso of the baby was discovered Wednesday morning by Edna Coffman when a pet dog named "Pup," owned by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coffman, dragged the body on to their farm near Camden Orchard from a trash pile about a quarter of a mile away.

A clean cloth, made from a salt or sugar sack, was discovered in the trash pile, according to Rankin, who said it has been sent to police laboratories for investigation because spots on the cloth are believed to be blood stains.

Initial examination by Dr. Harry Coffman, Mineral County health officer, led authorities to believe that the child was born alive either Monday or Tuesday and subsequently abandoned in the trash heap, said to be used by many residents of the area.

The cause of death has not been established, according to Rankin, who said the coroner's inquest will be held next Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Keyser in an effort to determine the cause and time of the infant's death.

Mrs. Edward Coffman told authorities that the dog, "a friendly animal," they have owned for 12 years, was running in the woods near their farm Wednesday morning and returned to the house carrying the baby's torso.

At first, Mrs. Coffman was quoted as saying, she and her daughter paid no attention, but as "Pup" came near, the daughter became excited and cried, the dog "has a baby in its mouth."

Described as an obedient animal, Mrs. Coffman said the dog dropped the torso upon command and the daughter ran to a neighbor's home to ask them to call state police.

The salt or sugar bag cloth is one of the main clues, according to authorities, who said it is the type of cloth that apparently would come from a farm family that buys either sugar or salt in large quantities. Rankin said when the cloth was found it definitely appeared to have been wrapped about something, which authorities believe was the infant's body.

The possibility that the infant was born near the trash heap is also being probed, according to Rankin, who said a clearing in the center of the tin can ash pile was covered with dried leaves and twigs and partially protected by undergrowth.

The only contradictory evidence to the theory, authorities explained, is that the child is believed to have been two days old at the time it died, which would indicate that it was place in the ash heap much later than at the time of birth.

The body was turned over to a Keyser funeral home where an autopsy will be performed before it is buried.

Education League Of AFL Will Be Formed March 23

Labor Heads Approve Political Policies

The Allegany County League for Political Education, sponsored by AFL affiliates of this county, will be set up at a meeting to be held Tuesday, March 23, in Allegany Trades Council Hall, C. E. Stutzman, Trades Council president, announced yesterday.

The meeting of the delegates to set up the independent political organization will be held immediately after the regular meeting of the Trades Council that night, he said.

Three delegates from each AFL affiliate will compose the committee to set up the League which will have as its prime interest making sure that all union members register and vote in all elections, he said.

The Trades Council has already set in motion plans to co-operate with the Hagerstown Central Labor Union in the political campaign, and a delegation from here has been named to attend the next meeting of that group.

State AFL officials met last week to map plans for co-ordinating AFL efforts in Maryland.

Stutzman and C. E. Bramble, president of Local 453, Teamsters Union, represented Allegany County at a meeting of top AFL representatives from 46 states in Washington Wednesday.

The state federation leaders, he said, unanimously approved policies recommended by the AFL committee on political education.

Labor leaders here said the long range plans call for repeal or modification of the Taft-Hartley Law.

Highway Bandits Rob Truck Driver Of $760 On Route 50

Police In W. Va., Md. Seek 2 Men

Two men "dressed in dirty blue coveralls" were being sought early this morning by police of two states after they reportedly took $760 from Leonard Sites, 22, Keyser truck driver, at gun point, blocking his truck on Route 50, near Burlington, W. Va., before pulling the stickup.

Police said the pair passed Sites's coal truck on the east side of Knobley Mountain, and then cut in front of it, forcing the truck to a stop. Both men, armed with pistols, jumped from the car and ordered the driver out of the truck, according to police.

After taking $760 from Sites, police said the two men hurried back to the car and drove toward Keyser. Shortly before the two-state alarm was sounded in Maryland and West Virginia, officers of the Cumberland Police Department reported seeing a car answering the description furnished by Sites heading in a southwestward direction on Greene Street.

Road Blocks Formed

Maryland State Police reported that road blocks were formed at all intersections in Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick Counties shortly after the holdup was reported at 11:50 p. m. West Virginia police in Mineral, Hampshire and Grant Counties were searching for the pair.

Sites told police he drew the money from a Keyser bank Tuesday with the intention of buying coal at a small mine in West Virginia and paying cash. He said he has been conducting business on a cash-and-carry basis for several months.

Police said the car was described as a "dirty brown" 1938 to 1942 model Chevrolet and the men, both white, were approximately 5 feet six and six feet tall. Both men, police quoted Sites as saying, were dressed in dirty blue overalls while the shorter of the two men was wearing a hat.

No License Plates

Police said the robbery was reported by Sites from Burlington, but declared they were not sure if the victim drove his truck in or if the bandits damaged the vehicle in an attempt to gain time for an escape.

Sites told police the car bore no license plates on the rear and said the right rear fender was damaged and the back bumper was missing. He told police he had no opportunity to get a look at the front before the men pulled away.

Amended Returns Paid By White Exceed $51,000

Pays $10,000 Interest, Posts $1,000 Bond

Walter W. White, 48, this city, who posted $1,000 bond yesterday in connection with a federal income tax evasion charge, filed an amended tax return and paid, his attorneys revealed, an additional $51,765.66 taxes and over $10,000 in interest last year.

The bond was posted here yesterday with C. Edgar Keller, deputy clerk of the U. S. District Court. When indicted in Baltimore Tuesday by a federal grand jury, the government charged White with evading payment of $73,174 for 1941 to 1945, inclusive.

William C. Walsh and Clyde Y. Morris, Baltimore attorney, representing White, appeared with their client before Keller to post bond. Bond was furnished by White's brother-in-law and sister, Herman N. and Carrie L. Schade.

Walsh made the following statement in connection with the case:

"Mr. White was advised by representatives of the government in the fall of 1946 that his books were not satisfactory. Mr. White then consulted us about his tax problems, which were rather complicated. Mr. Morris and I secured the services of C. Willard Amos, a tax accountant in Baltimore, and as a result of the investigation by Mr. Amos, amended income tax returns were prepared, and Mr. White filed these returns with the Collector of Internal Revenue in Baltimore on April 7, 1947. These amended returns showed an additional tax due for the years 1941 to 1945, inclusive, in the amount of $51,765.66. This amount, together with more than $10,000 of interest, was paid when the amended returns were filed on April 7, 1947. The result is that Mr. White has already paid the Government, for the years mentioned, something over $58,000, plus about $10,000 in interest, thus making a total payment of more than $68,000. According to the figures prepared by the tax accountant this is all that he owes, although the government is claiming a somewhat larger amount."

City Voters Not Affected By Transcribing Of Books

Registration books recently transcribed at the Court House carried only the names of county voters, C. N. Wilkinson, president of the Board of County Commissioners, said last night.

Wilkinson explained many persons have inquired as to whether those registered to vote in the city were affected, adding this is not the case.

Names of county voters who had failed to vote in the past five years were stricken from the books, Wilkinson said. He explained two sets of registration books are kept, one for city voters and the other for county voters, who are also eligible to vote in state elections.

The occasion will mark the 40th year the Christian Brothers have been in Cumberland, as well as the 100th year they have been teaching schools in the United States, Rev. Brother Clement, F.S.C., principal of LaSalle High School, announced yesterday.

The pontifical mass, which will mark Archbishop Keough's first visit to Cumberland since receiving the Baltimore Archdiocese's appointment February 23, will be attended by clergy and nuns of all Allegany County Catholic Church parishes.

Others expected to attend the mass, scheduled to begin at 10 a. m., include natives of this area who are now in the clergy, LaSalle alumni and their parents and the present student body and their parents.

Archbishop Keough, before his present appointment, was bishop of Providence, R. I., for 14 years. He received the golden staff, symbolic of his duties in the Baltimore Archdiocese, in Baltimore's historic cathedral.

The mass will open the centennial celebration in Cumberland and will be followed with a civic reception and banquet honoring the faculty of LaSalle High School in St. Mary's Church Parish Hall, Oldtown Road, in the evening.

The Christian Brothers organization now numbers approximately 18,000 in 60 nations of the world and is instructing 390,000 pupils.

Very Rev. Brother Eliphus Victor, assistant general for the United States, received a letter of congratulations from President Truman which in part stated: "It gives me great pleasure to send hearty felicitations and warmest personal greetings x x x on the happy occasion of the centenary of their arrival in the United States.

"The training of youth in the ways of Christian living and good citizenship is a solemn duty. The world needs today, as perhaps before, to return to the principles of the [illegible] x x x."

Second "Sweethearts" Performance In 22 Years Again Scores Success

For the second time in 22 years, an Allegany High School senior cast scored a success in its presentation of Victor Herbert's popular operetta "Sweethearts."

With Jeanne Marquis in the leading soprano role and Allan Macy as Prince Frantz, the cast played to a capacity house.

William Price stole the show in his comic role of Mikel Mikeloviz. Many of the special numbers, including the Girls Chorus, were enthusiastically received.

Preceding the performance, the class of 1926, which first presented "Sweethearts" here, held its first class reunion at a dinner meeting in Central YMCA. Over 60 members of the last Allegany County High class were present and a number of members who were unable to come sent messages of regret.

Douglas Ritchie, as toastmaster, presented Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County schools, who was principal of Allegany County High School that year, and Harold C. Wickard, who directed both performances of the operetta.

Kathleen R. Cumbee, who was faculty adviser of the class of 1926, told the group they were her "favorite class".

At the intermission of last night's performance, Wickard presented Mrs. Viola Moreland MacKenzie, Mrs. Minnie Geatz Staley, and Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, who played the female leads in the 1926 performance, and Harry Volk, who played Mickel in 1926, to the 1948 performers.

"Sweethearts" will be presented for elementary students this afternoon and the final performance is scheduled tonight at 8:15 p. m. in the Allegany High auditorium. Only a few tickets are still available, it was reported.

Poor Night Vision Cause Of Many Auto Fatalities, Rosenmerkel Says

William P. Rosenmerkel, of the Western Maryland Motor Club, declared yesterday that nearly two-thirds of all traffic fatalities occur at night, and that much of the blame may be attributed to the inability of some drivers and pedestrians to see well enough to avoid accidents.

"A person's eyes," he said, "may be entirely adequate during daylight hours, but under night-driving conditions, he may have such poor vision that he should not operate a car.

"Frequently drivers will be so affected by approaching glaring headlights that they are literally blinded and see nothing ahead. This is bad enough. . .but the driver with poor night vision is simply not able to see well all the time during hours of darkness."

Rosenmerkel said the American [illegible]tomobile Association, meeting re[illegible]tly in Washington, adopted a resolution urging all traffic safety authorities to investigate the importance of night vision and to set up tests of various night visual tasks.

"AAA safety specialists," he explained, "believe that first application of this testing procedure should be with drivers who have night accidents, are involved in night violations of traffic regulations, or who desire to have their night vision tested. The association has made numerous tests of various night vision characteristics, utilizing as one means a special night vision testing device.

"The person being tested must look into one end of a dark box toward a disk with black and white stripes. Visibility is gradually increased by moving four luminous buttons toward the disk until he can tell which way the stripes run. The distance of the luminous buttons from the disk at this point gives the score."
